DAIRIES PLEDGE DRIVERS AID IN MILK PRICE CUT

Act to Save Routes from Store Sales.

BY BRUCE DENNIS.

A new move in the current milk price war which may result in a reduction in the 13 cents a quart price for home delivered milk in Chicago was disclosed last night.

Henry Weber, president of milk drivers.

Officers of the milk drivers' union were preparing for a meeting with officials of the dairy companies to work out ways and means to stop the steady decrease in home milk deliveries.

Spokesmen for the dairies said their companies would coöperate with the drivers' committee in stimulating home sales.

Spokesmen for the dairies said their companies would coöperate with the drivers' committee in stimulating home sales.

One, speaking for the Bowman Dairy company, held out the prospect of a slash in the price of home delivered milk if a wage agreement is reached. A wage reduction is in prospect.

Asks an Equitable Wage.

"All our company is interested in," he said, "is an equitable wage which will make it possible to sell milk cheaper to the consumer."

Because of the price war, home deliveries have dropped to a point where they form less than half of Chicago's milk market. Eighty-five per cent of the milk sold here in 1930 was set down on the doorstep. The percentage in 1935 was 72. Now home deliveries in Chicago amount to only 45 per cent of the total milk sale of an estimated 456,250,000 quarts annually.

The housewife can get her milk for 8½ cents, plus a bottle deposit, at the milk stores of the independent vendors who employ nonunion labor.

Fewer home deliveries mean fewer jobs for wagon drivers. The steady decline of available jobs brought the crisis to the floor of the drivers' union meeting Thursday night.

The drivers themselves proposed a reduction in wages as a means of safeguarding their employment. In effect, they said to their officers: "Meet with the companies. Work out a plan. If taking a pay cut will help, we're for it."

Meeting May Be Delayed.

The officers were instructed to open negotiations within 48 hours. After a meeting of the executive committee yesterday, it was said the conference might be postponed until early next week. Any action must be ratified by the union's membership.

Henry Weber, new president of the union, released figures on union membership yesterday. In 1930 there were 7,400 dues paying drivers. In 1939 there were only 4,750. Now there are 4,400 active drivers, with another 300 receiving sick or unemployment benefits.

Since the union is supported by its dues [$72 a year] and initiation fees [$100], the decrease in membership and the payment of benefits have caused a serious drain on the treasury, it was said at Thursday's meeting.

Dairies Itemize Costs.

The organized dairy companies say that costs to the companies of a 13 cent quart of milk are as follows: to farmer, 4.23 cents; delivery to plant, .77 cent; driver's wages, 4 cents; all other labor costs [clerks, etc.], 2.25 cents; social security payments, .25 cent. This adds up to 11½ cents and leaves 1½ cents for plant maintenance, pasteurizing, sterilizing and washing bottles, other operating costs and profit.

Chicago union milk drivers in 1929 made $50 a week, plus commissions.

From 1932 to 1934 they worked for $10 a week less, and their commissions dropped an average of $3 to $4 a week. New contracts brought agreements for a gradual increase in wages which placed the scale at $48 a week in 1938. That's what the drivers collect now. But they say, and company officials tacitly admit, that the figure is misleading.

"Most drivers are spending about $10 a week each to keep their cus-

THE FATAL KISS?

URGE EMBARGO ON SALE OF WAR GOODS TO JAPAN

Senators Voice Plea as Pact Expires.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—As America's 28 year old commercial treaty with Japan was terminated today three Democratic senators, all members of the senate foreign relations committee, urged adoption of an embargo on the export of American war materials for use by Japanese armed forces in their aggression on China. The treaty obligated each country to adopt no commercial discriminations against the other.

[Arms export licenses issued in the United States last year totaled $204,555,780. Details on page 4.]

Termination of the treaty by the United States leaves the American government free to embargo exports to Japan or imports from Japan in retaliation for Japan's depredations upon the persons and property of American nationals and the deprivation of American interests of commercial privileges in Japanese controled portions of eastern Asia.

Says People Want Embargo.

"The lapse of the treaty now gives us an opportunity to comply with the wishes of 75 per cent of our people by getting out of the Chinese-Japanese war," said Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach [D., Wash.]. He is author of a bill to embargo export of all materials which there is reason to believe will be used to violate the territorial or administrative integrity of any nation which the United States is obligated by treaty to respect. The integrity of China is guaranteed by the nine power pact of which Japan and the United States are signatories.

Chairman Key Pittman [D., Nev.] of the foreign relations committee, on his way back from the Borah funeral in Idaho, said he will press for favorable action on his bill to embargo exports of war materials to any violator of the nine power treaty. He intends to bring up the question at the next meeting of the committee next Wednesday, when the committee expects to hear the views of Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

George Sees Early Action.

"I feel certain," said Senator Walter F. George [D., Ga.], another member of the committee, "that some legislation will be passed by this congress dealing with the situation." He thought the supply of "strategic materials" to Japan would be shut off in some way.

Several other members of the committee, however, predicted that neither the Pittman nor the Schwellenbach bill will emerge from the committee at this session.

"I think counsel of moderation and caution will prevail," said one of them. "Here we are insulting Germany and Russia and Japan and the first thing we know, if this keeps up, we'll find ourselves in a war."

Dr. Hugh Shih, the Chinese ambassador, presented former Chinese Ambassador Dr. W. W. Yen, to President Roosevelt today, but said he did not discuss the Sino-Japanese war. He said, however, that "when the proper moment arrives" he will ask the United States to extend further credit to China. A credit of 25 million dollars, already granted, is nearly exhausted, he explained.

Put on Good Behavior.

In terminating the commercial treaty the Roosevelt administration in effect has put Japan on her good behavior.

[With the lapse of the American-Japanese trade treaty, Japan, according to Tokio dispatches, indicated that it would try to prevent any incidents in China which might aggravate the situation. Details on page 4.]

There is the threat that, unless Japan accords the satisfaction to American citizens and interests demanded by Washington, trade discriminations exceedingly injurious to Japan will be imposed.

To emphasize just how injurious embargoes and other discriminations against Japanese trade can be the commerce department made public a study showing the important part commerce with America plays in Japan's life. The report said that in 1938 and the first 10 months of 1939, the United States supplied nearly 44 per cent of Japan's imports from foreign currency countries, and bought from 27.9 to 33.7 per cent of her exports to those areas.

"No other foreign currency coun-

SEA SAGA ENDS; FLINT NOW SAFE IN HOME WATERS

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 26 (AP).—The City of Flint, an unassuming little freighter catapulted by war into the center of an international drama, moved into the safety of United States waters tonight and toward a gala welcome befitting a hero coming home from the wars.

Capt. J. A. Gainard.

Nothing more sinister than a stiff north wind and occasional ice floes remained to be conquered as she steamed up Chesapeake bay—at the end of a "six week" voyage that took 113 days to complete.

Capt. J. A. Gainard and his crew of 40 will arrive tomorrow morning, ending a fictionlike journey that saw them seized by a German crew from the pocket battleship Deutschland, held captive in a Russian port, headed thru the gun sprouting British blockade, and at last set free, turned for home with an unromantic cargo of iron ore.

Docks Early Today.

The vessel was expected to reach quarantine some time after midnight and dock after daylight tomorrow.

Members of the crew have gone unpaid since Oct. 3, but pay pouches were sent aboard at Cape Henry today.

The prelude to the vessel's troubles was one of glory. Heading home from a European trip early last September, she picked up out of the bleak night of Sept. 3, west of the Scottish coast, an SOS that thrilled the world—the cry of distress from the British liner Athenia, the first sea victim of the new European war on the very day it was declared.

She took 223 survivors—115 of them Americans—to Halifax and New York, and then proceeded again to her regular business. Before a month had passed she headed again out of New York harbor, with a cargo of tractors, fruit, wax, and leather.

Seized by Deutschland.

It was the cargo that set the Deutschland's crew on her Oct. 9. They labeled it contraband and seized her. With Danish flags painted on her sides she pushed north, arriving at Murmansk, Russia, flying a Nazi flag Oct. 20.

She stayed there six days and was headed for Germany. Storms punished her and she put into Haugesund, Norway. There the Norwegians took off the German crew and returned Capt. Gainard's command.

Finally the freighter took on ore at Narvik, Norway, and headed home. A harbor collision with a British ship held her up two more days.

SOVIETS BATTER FINNS IN EFFORT TO RESCUE MEN

Hundreds Are Slain in Five Day Battle.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Jan. 27, Saturday (AP). — The fate of four Russian divisions, which have been fighting almost ceaselessly all week in the icy wilderness north of Lake Ladoga, was approaching a decision early today, Finns reported. They said two divisions were possibly snared beyond hope of help.

The latter two units were caught far from their base in the region of Kitela. A third division has been battering in vain at Finnish lines near Kollaanjoki. The fourth, attacking at Aittajoki, is reported to be composed of the remnants of large forces shattered some weeks ago at Aglajarvi and Tolvajarvi.

Hundreds Reported Slain.

Victims of the coldest winter in 60 years, and trying to cope with the merciless guerrilla tactics of Finland's fleet ski fighters, some of these troops are still able to launch attack after attack in a valiant effort to rescue their trapped comrades and then fight their own way out of threatening disaster.

The five days of constant attack without quarter has resulted in company after company of the Red forces being cut to pieces, the Finnish command announced. It said the Finnish positions everywhere were retained.

With the Russian dead declared by the Finns to have been counted in the hundreds, the furious assault penetrated the eastern shores of the lake itself. Under a heavy artillery barrage, the Russians were sent in waves against the bastions of Fort Mantsi, island stronghold commanding a coastal corner of Finland.

Destroy Cavalry Columns.

Like the other attacks, the Finns said, these were repulsed. The Russians were said to have left more than 100 dead before the Finnish positions.

The Finnish communique told the grim story of the destruction of long Russian cavalry columns. It drew a terse word picture of the carcasses of more than 400 horses sprawled in the snow.

The purpose of the Russian attacks in this area was to cut a flanking swath behind the Mannerheim line, which is on the Karelian isthmus west of Lake Ladoga.

On another front just above the narrow Finnish waistline north of the Arctic circle, dispatches from the field described a sudden hush in Russian artillery fire combined with unusual activity on the highway east of Markajarvi. It was to this town that 40,000 Russians retreated recently after abandoning a drive to cut Finland in two.

Believe Reds Move Back Guns.

The dispatches from this front said the Finns believed the Russians were moving back their heavy arms in preparation to resuming the general retreat begun last week at Lake Joutsi, and then digging in at the central soviet base of Salla village. Salla is less than 40 miles from the Russian border.

"For three days not one shell has been fired from behind the soviet lines," one dispatch reported. "What the attacking Russian forces now undertake is done under the cover of grenade fire.

"The Finns say that the Russians prepared their original retreat from Lake Joutsi for a couple of weeks beforehand, gradually carrying away artillery and such equipment as would slow up a surprise getaway or constitute serious loss in case the pursuit caught up fast and they had to abandon supplies.

Fresh Troops at Salla.

"Here and there in strategic places between Lake Joutsi and Markajarvi are unused soviet machine gun nests and trenches which were dug considerably in advance of the retreat. Finnish patrols say the same preparations are being undertaken around Markajarvi, and the absence of soviet shell fire supports the expectation that before long the Salla front will be restricted to the area around Salla village.

"At least a whole division, largely and splendidly equipped, is stationed at Salla."

The dispatches also said the Russians were taking more and more to skis, but that the Finns would not use the ones they captured from the enemy because they thought they were clumsy. Instead, the captured skis are broken up for kindling wood.

The Russians, the Finns said, are awkward on skis. In a pinch, they

Two Cold Ears Get Lowdown on a 'Hot Tire'

James Ryan's ears smarted from the cold yesterday and he walked into the filling station at Wabash avenue and 7th street to put on his ear muffs.

He stood behind a partition separating a washing lane from a greasing lane. Only his head—from his chin up—showed. His cap was off.

Just then Leonard Lee stepped in, carrying an inner tube.

He held the tube aloft for the inspection of the filling station owner. It was, said Lee, the best inner tube that $1.75 could buy, but on account of the war and other causes, including the fact that he was flat broke, he would sell it for $1.

Mr. Ryan Takes a Hand.

The station owner said no. So did his assistant manager. But Lee, who is colored and lives at 3022 Lake Park avenue, wasn't discouraged. He looked around. He beheld the ruddy face of Ryan just above the partition.

"How about you, mister?" inquired Lee. "Here's a mighty grand inner tube worth $1.75 for only $1."

Ryan showed interest. How, he asked Lee, could he afford to take a loss on the tube.

"That's easy," answered Lee. "The tire's hot."

"What do you mean, hot?" queried Ryan.

Not Afraid of Law.

"I stole it," explained Lee.

"Aren't you afraid the law will catch you?" warned Ryan.

"Who, me? The law?" laughed Lee. "The second the law sees me, the next second I'm a block away. The law can't catch me."

At that instant Ryan put on his cap, trimmed with a shiny emblem. Lee's eyes bulged. Then Ryan stepped from behind the partition, revealing his policeman's uniform.

Lee was locked up at Central station as a thief who had confessed to a policeman while trying to sell a stolen article.

Policemen, he said, should always wear caps.

British Women Fly Military Planes; 1st Time on Record

LONDON, Jan. 26.—History was made recently when, for the first time, women were permitted to fly British military airplanes. The feminine pilots were members of the Air Transport auxiliary and they flew ships from factories to reserve centers in the interior of the country. Miss Mona Friedlander and Miss Joan Hughes were credited with being the first actually to fly the ships.

EX-KAISER 81 YEARS OLD TODAY; GERMAN CENSORS OPEN LETTERS

DOORN, the Netherlands, Jan. 26 (AP).—On the eve of his 81st birthday, former Kaiser Wilhelm II. of Germany pondered tonight in lonely exile how another European war will end. Many of the congratulatory letters reaching the former kaiser had been opened by German censors.

Only by special permit of Nazi authorities can he telephone members of his family in Germany. There have been unverified rumors of foreign agents keeping a close watch on him.

Unlike the birthday celebration last year, when Wilhelm's children and grandchildren and their families came to Doorn, there will be no guests from outside the Netherlands tomorrow. Twenty-two of his grandsons are serving with the German army.

NOTHING ESCAPES EVANSTON POLICE, NOT EVEN HARRY

Nothing ever gets by those Evanston policemen. No, sir. Why, just yesterday the motorcycle squad, Ken Mountain and Phil Midday, stopped a young fellow, Harry Shapiro, at Chicago avenue and Greenwood boulevard.

Harry, 18 years old, a high school pupil who lives at 649 Custer avenue in the suburb, had driven his bicycle past a stop light. Yes, sir, right past the stop light. What was worse, Harry had a friend riding on the handlebars.

So they arrested Harry. It was the first time in Evanston a fellow ever was arrested for driving an overloaded bicycle.

MR. BRUCE FINDS SELF BLOWING HIS OWN HORN

"Please come out here and see what you can do about this racket. Some fool's automobile horn has been blowing for half an hour, and no one can get any sleep."

The words were those of James Bruce, 1110 Austin street, Evanston. The time was 5 a. m. yesterday. He was talking to the suburban police station.

Policeman Robert Borland and Bert Schlenger found the offending car. It was behind Bruce's apartment. And it belonged to Bruce.

Urge Norwegian Women to Prepare to Do Men's Work

OSLO, Norway, Jan. 26 (AP).—Crown Princess Martha appealed to Norwegian women in a broadcast tonight to prepare as much as possible to take over men's work in the event of national mobilization or war.

Wilson Plant Rejects C.I.O. Packing Union

Employés of Wilson & Co., packers, in an election yesterday selected an independent union to represent them in collective bargaining. The employés voted for the Employés' Representative committee, a union of 20 years' standing, in preference to an affiliate of the Congress of Industrial Organization.

This was the first defeat for the Packinghouse Workers Organizing committee since the C. I. O. began a membership drive in the Union stockyards two years ago. Last fall the C. I. O. won collective bargaining rights in Armour & Co., and the Armour soap plants. It also has contracts with five small packing houses.

Conducted by N. L. R. B. Aids.

Yesterday's election, conducted by the National Labor Relations board, was under the direction of G. L. Patterson, regional director, and Russell J. Miller, special board examiner from Washington.

The final tabulation was 1,890 votes for the Employés' Representative committee and 1,545 for local 25 of the United Packinghouse Workers of America, the C. I. O. unit, while 135 employés voted against affiliation with either union.

The board certified 3,800 employés in the production and maintenance departments as eligible to vote. There were 3,640 votes cast. The total valid vote, however, was 3,570, because 29 ballots were challenged, 29 declared void, and 12 were blank.

Vote in Company Office.

Employés were released in shifts to vote in the polling booths set up in the companys' employment office at 42d street and Marshfield avenue. Miller was assisted in supervising the election by twelve N. L. R. B. agents. Eight members of each union sat at four tables as observers during the voting.

Patterson said the voting was quiet and orderly, despite a heated pre-election campaign. The P. W. O. C. will have five days in which to file objections after Patterson makes his written report of the election Monday.

The Sheriff Gets His Man—at the Point of a Thumb

Stevens Point, Wis., Jan. 26 (AP).—Undersheriff John Longbauer drove all over Keene township with a warrant in his pocket for the arrest on an assault charge of John Rice Jr., 18 years old, a farm youth. After several hours of fruitless search he gave up and started back to headquarters. A youth, standing on the highway, thumbed a ride and Longbauer picked him up. The youth was Rice.

GANDHI DEFEATS CHAMBERLAIN; SHAW RUNS LAST

Gandhi were marooned on a desert island, and only one could be rescued, whom would you save? Most members voted to save Gandhi first, Chamberlain second, and Shaw last.

POISON GAS ESCAPES FROM CAR; KILLS TWO, PERILS SLEEPING TOWN

DRAMMEN, Norway, Jan. 26 (AP). —Seventy persons, overcome by chlorine gas filtering into their homes as they slept, were in hospitals tonight as the result of a gas accident at Mjondalen, railway village near here, which took the lives of two men.

Authorities said temperatures of 4 below zero Fahrenheit damaged the locks of a tank car bound for a pulp factory, permitting the gas to escape. Tonight residents were moved out of all houses within a five mile radius because the gas still was blowing into some homes.

Fast work of rescue squads saved hundreds of the 2,000 residents of Mjondalen. Automobiles were commandeered and rescuers in gas masks broke into homes to carry away unconscious victims.

throw them off and start running, no matter how deep the snow.

Hand to hand fighting continues in the Lapland woods between patrols —knife play, bayonet duels, and even wrestling.

"One Finnish scout told how he ran into a party of four Russians and had to wrestle all of them until help came," a dispatch said.

The Finnish communique yesterday also told of the repulse of two minor attacks on the Karelian isthmus, along the ice of Lake Muola and at Taipale.

A number of American and Canadian volunteers, most of them ski experts, were reported in training in northern Finland preparatory to front fighting within a few weeks.

Eleven nations now are represented in the Finnish foreign legion. The first battalion sent into the line, it was said, will be under the command of an Italian officer.

No News, Moscow Says.

MOSCOW, Jan. 27, Saturday (AP).—The soviet military communique said early today: "Nothing of importance took place at the front."

2,000 Volunteers on Way.

BERN, Switzerland, Jan. 26 (AP).—More than 2,000 trained Italian and Hungarian volunteers to aid the Finns in their fight against soviet Russia were reported today by empire sources in Bern to have crossed thru France recently en route to Finland by way of the North sea.

They said the French and the Scandinavian nations had guaranteed free transit for the group under the resolution of the league of nations assembly t lend all help possible to the Finns.

This was the second body of Italians going to Finland but the first group to include Hungarians, the informants said.

[France and Britain on Jan. 3 advised the league of nations that they were giving Finland as much aid against Russia as their own war with Germany would permit. Subsequently it was reported that France was allowing the transit of help from Spain, Italy, and southeastern Europe. Bern sources on Jan. 3 said 2,000 Italians and military technicians were in or on their way to Finland.]

The Italians in the latest group were said to be in part technicians, but mostly infantrymen who saw service with the Black Arrow division in the Spanish civil war.

Suggest Americans Flee.

STOCKHOLM, Jan. 26 (AP).—The American legation here has advised Americans to consider returning home because of the prevailing international situation, it was disclosed today.

Legation officials, however, said that the advice was a routine precaution and that previous reports, indicating urgency in view of supposed German troop concentrations, were incorrect. They attributed them to a complete misunderstanding.

"A routine letter was sent to Americans here asking them to consider the advisability of returning to the United States because of the prevailing international situation," Winthrop S. Green, legation secretary, said.

"There was not the slightest mention of any troop concentrations and no element of urgency or compulsion in the letter. It was simply a precautionary measure such as had been taken in various capitals in Europe."

WHO IS STALIN? FINNS FIND RED DOESN'T KNOW

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Jan. 26 (AP).—The Finnish radio tonight broadcast an "information, please" program with 40 Russian prisoners from the destroyed 44th soviet division sitting in as the "experts."

Cigars were passed to those who answered their questions correctly, but only 11 of the 40 did any smoking.

All were stumped by these questions: Who was Rasputin? What are the Olympic games? Who was Jesus? Napoleon? Nurmi?

One said the Scandinavian countries were Sweden, Finland, and Turkey. Another thought Dictator Josef Stalin was president of Russia. He'd never heard of Soviet President Michael Kalinin. Still another missed a cigar by a mile when he said Berlin was the capital of France.

Near the city of Arnhem, on the Netherlands-German frontier, a group of Dutch Catholics put up a large monument to Christ. On the pedestal they carved the following words: "Christus Uber Alles," or "Christ Above All."

Finns Tighten Trap

Captions on the map locate the positions of four Russian divisions endangered by Finnish trap. The Russian strategy in this area was intended to sweep around the northern end of Lake Ladoga and strike from behind at Finnish defenses on the Karelian isthmus.

In arctic Finland another large Russian force was reported preparing for a new retreat to the east. Diagonally shaded area locates battle zones shown in top map.

TRIBUNE CARTOON ON PADEREWSKI TO BE PUT ON SALE

Reprints of "Music Master" Offered.

Enlarged reprints of Joseph Parrish's cartoon, "The Music Master," will be placed on sale starting today. The cartoon appeared on page 1 of yesterday's TRIBUNE, and its publication was followed by an unusual number of telephone and written requests for copies of the cartoon.

It shows a homeless youngster seated at a grand piano. Standing at the side of the child is the figure of the great Polish pianist-patriot, Ignace Jan Paderewski, teaching the boy the Polish national anthem, "Poland Is Not Lost."

Mr. Parrish conceived the idea for the sketch from a news story from Paris on the election of Paderewski as president of the Polish parliament in exile. "I saw in the story an opportunity to pay tribute to Paderewski," Mr. Parrish said.

GERMAN SEAMEN SCUTTLE 17 OF 18 MERCHANT SHIPS

Praised for Cheating the British of Prizes.

BERLIN, Jan. 26 (AP).—The newspaper Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung said today that the crews of 17 of 18 German merchant ships halted by British warships since the war began had succeeded in scuttling their ships and the eighteenth was made so unseaworthy that the British had to sink her.

The newspaper praised German seamen for "fulfilment of duty to the fatherland" in not permitting ships to fall into British hands.

Says Convoys Nullified.

Rear Admiral Karl Doenitz, commander of Germany's submarine fleet, said that such progress has been made in submarine warfare that the effectiveness of the convoy system, successful in the world war, had been nullified.

"It makes no difference to the present day German U-boat fleet whether English ships sail alone or are convoyed," he said in an interview with the Boersen Zeitung. "The German countereconomic war is working energetically against English merchantmen, regardless of whether the ships are alone or accompanied."

Torpedoed in Atlantic; 25 Saved.

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP).—The torpedoing of the 2,456 ton Norwegian steamer Songa in the Atlantic last Monday was disclosed today with the landing of her crew of 25 on the Irish coast. The Songa was en route to Rotterdam, the Netherlands, from New York when a submarine stopped her.

A member of the crew said the submarine commander asked the Songa's captain to sign papers stating the cargo was contraband war material for England and, when the captain refused, sent a torpedo thru the Songa. She was broken in two. The captain and 11 seamen drifted ashore in a lifeboat. Thirteen others were picked up by a trawler.

Sinking of the 1,300 ton Norwegian steamer Gudveig by a submarine in the North sea last night was reported when seven survivors were landed at a Scottish port. Ten others were reported missing.

French Ship Torpedoed.

A dispatch from Vigo, Spain, said that the Spanish steamer Castillo de Monforte landed 28 crewmen from an unidentified French ship. The French boat was said to have been torpedoed and sunk off the coast of Spain yesterday with a loss of eight men. Six of the survivors were injured.

Torpedoing of the Latvian steamer Everene, 4,484 tons, was reported in a message from Riga. The vessel left Blyth, England, Thursday. The Latvian ship Dole rescued all but one of the crew.

Operated by American Company.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—The Norwegian steamer Songa was the first vessel operated by an American company to be torpedoed in the present European war.

Informed sources here, basing their views on press dispatches, said the sinking of the ship did not appear to involve the American neutrality act in any way. They said that the Songa sailed under the Norwegian flag and merely was chartered by an American firm, the Cosmopolitan Shipping Lines of New York.

Under the neutrality act, American firms chartering foreign ships must have no financial interest in the ships and no appeal can be made to this government for intervention in the incident.

Chartered a Month Ago.

In New York an official of the Cosmopolitan Lines said the Songa was one of seven or eight foreign flag ships operated by the company. It was chartered about a month ago.

"It was a neutral ship going from a neutral port to a neutral port," the official said. Rotterdam, the Songa's destination, is in the European belligerent zone defined by presidential proclamation and from which American vessels are barred.

Altho the first to be sunk by a torpedo, the Songa was the second vessel under Cosmopolitan charter lost in the war. The motorship Ronda, 5,136 tons, also of Norwegian registry, struck a mine and sank Sept. 13 off the north coast of the Netherlands. Seventeen persons, including two Americans, drowned and 20, including four Americans, were rescued after drifting two days in lifeboats.

SAYS CITIZENSHIP IS NOT LOST BY FOREIGN SERVICE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 [Special].—Americans who enlist in the armies of belligerent powers lose their citizenship only if they take an oath of allegiance to the country for which they wish to fight, President Roosevelt declared at his press conference today.

The President read from a legal opinion drafted on Sept. 5, 1939, by Attorney General Robert H. Jackson, then solicitor general. The opinion stated that it is against the law to enlist or solicit enlistments in a foreign army in the United States, but that the law, naturally, did not apply out of this country's jurisdiction. The law is usually evaded by foreign nations by having the actual enlistment take place on their soil altho solicitation may be carried on in this country.

The question arose at the President's press conference when a reporter said that in a recent visit to the Finnish legation here he overheard an American aviator offer his services to the Finnish cause. If the American were asking for information as to where he might enlist, Mr. Roosevelt said, then no wrong was committed. However, if the legation was inviting Americans to enlist, that would be a different story.

FRENCH OPEN UP WITH ARTILLERY; GET SWIFT REPLY

Duel Rages Several Hours in Vosges Mountains.

PARIS, Jan. 26 (AP).—The slumbering steel giants of the western front suddenly burst into action today with a fierce artillery duel which shattered the frosty silence of the Vosges mountains.

Military sources said big French guns opened the engagement from behind icicle draped emplacements after scouts had brought back reports of feverish German outpost activities, possibly indicating an impending offensive.

Flies Deep Into Germany.

German artillery replied quickly and for several hours both sides threw shell after shell at each other while French, British, and German planes took advantage of the first favorable weather in days to soar aloft on reconnaissance flights.

One French plane flew deep into Germany, encountered 12 enemy ships and scurried back to the safety of its own lines, the military sources reported.

The French high command made no mention of the artillery engagement reported by these sources, using the same words in both its morning and night communiques: "Nothing to report."

Germans Report Air Activity.

BERLIN, Jan. 26 (AP).—War activity centered on reconnaissance flights yesterday, the German high command reported this morning. Its communique said:

"In the west, no special events. The air force conducted reconnaissance flights in some sectors of the front. A British scouting plane of the Bristol Blenheim type, attempting to penetrate the Ruhr district from France, was shot down near Duisburg."

French Red Who Fled to Russia Gets 5 Years

DUNKERQUE, France, Jan. 26 (AP).—André Marty, communist leader and former member of the chamber of deputies, was sentenced in default today to five years imprisonment for distributing communist propaganda. Marty fled to Moscow when the communist party in France was dissolved by government decree last September.

GAS IGNITES; AUTOIST BURNED.

Wallace Fitzner, 23 years old, 2014 Drake avenue, was burned about the hands and face yesterday when gasoline with which he was priming the motor of his automobile became ignited.

GANDHI LEGIONS TEST READINESS FOR HOME RULE

Measure Discipline on Independence Day.

BOMBAY, India, Jan. 26 (AP).—The Congress [Nationalist] party took inventory today of its strength in pressing Great Britain for Indian independence.

Marking the 10th anniversary of what is termed India's Independence day, Mohandas K. Gandhi went on a brief fast and declared in a manifesto that the day would "serve as an index of discipline among Congress party members."

Independence day meetings were considered as measuring the temper of the people and the strength of the party for administering home rule.

Asks Complete Obedience.

Gandhi recently declared that Great Britain's assurance of readiness to consider any practical suggestion for Indian independence "seems to contain germs of a settlement." He urged his followers to take a pledge to carry on the nonviolence struggle at nation-wide meetings and stressed complete obedience.

The working committee of the Congress party called upon all followers to take a pledge which says "we believe that it is the inalienable right of the Indian people to have freedom and enjoy the fruits of their toil and have the necessities of life so that they may have full opportunity for growth."

Has No Official Name.

Since 1934 Gandhi has devoted his major time to the development of village rehabilitation and prefers to guide his party without an official title. His followers insist, however, on using the prefix "Mahatma" [great soul] with his name.

47 Mexican Fishermen Feared Lost in a Storm

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 26.—The entire fishing fleet of the town of Matamoros in the state of Tamaulipas is believed to have been lost in a storm in the Gulf of Mexico. Forty-seven fishermen are feared drowned. Only one fisherman was saved after being washed ashore on a nearby island. He is gravely injured.

Ousts 2 Officials Believed to Have Fled Czech Area

PRAGUE, Jan. 26 (AP).—In a move regarded in Czech political quarters as confirmation of reports they had fled abroad, two officials of the German protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia were ordered removed from their posts today by President Emil Hacha. They were Agricultural Minister Wladislav Feierabend and the president of the supreme price administration, Jaromir Necas. Arrest warrants are reported issued for them.

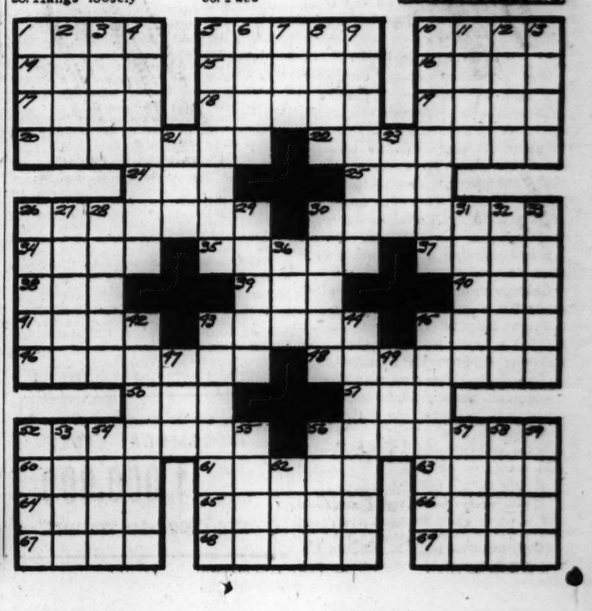
PUZZLE OF FRIDAY, JANUARY 26, SOLVED



BRITISH WONDER IF U. S. IRE OVER MAIL IS SERIOUS

Speculate on How Soon We Will Join Conflict.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 26.—The subject of when the United States actually is going to get into the war on the side of England and France again figured prominently in the newspapers here today.

The British press is speculating on whether the present wave of indignation about seizure of American mail at British contraband control stations really means anything serious or if it is only a temperamental outburst which will be followed by the United States joining up solidly with Germany's foes.

Some correspondents in America cable today that the indignation is in its passing phase and that soon all again will be sweetness and light.

Advocates Highhanded Attitude.

The Daily Express correspondent in New York cabled a story which is headed "High Wind of Indignation Sweeps America," in which he outlines the events which have made American sympathy for England decline.

"I am inclined to believe that it is a good thing for us to keep our so-called high handed attitude," he said. "If we show we are unafraid of American public opinion and are not too condescending about it perhaps we will at last be able to convince them that we are not trying to drag America into war and then we will have a benevolent and sympathetic neutral again.

"But America is going to take a lot of convincing. It just shows how purely she thinks in her heart of hearts that she will get into it. If nothing really will get a country into war that country does not keep on shouting that nothing will really get her into the war."

Others Echo Same Note.

Getting America into the war also is the note sounded in other news papers. The Daily Telegraph, under the heading "United States Bound to Join Allies," tells how Jan Masaryk, former Czecho-Slovakian minister here, told an English Speaking union audience yesterday that he was convinced the United States was bound to share the empires' responsibilities in the war and take its place with them.

"America cannot escape its obligation to come in. The only question is when is she going to do it," Masaryk is quoted as saying.

On the other hand, some of the leftist papers seem to be getting a kick out of America's indignant reaction to the mail seizures which is described as a revelation to the rulers here that America no longer is a part of the British empire.

Blames Hull for Indignation.

But British readers perhaps were mostly interested in the Daily Express dispatch from New York. The correspondent declares that the much advertised sympathy in America for England's fight has vanished. He states that American sympathy has blown up suddenly and that now "they are taking pot shots at us all over the place."

The correspondent blames Secretary of State Cordell Hull for the sudden wave of indignation against England.

Hull never has been an ardent Anglophile," the story says. "The London economic conference left an unpleasant taste in his mouth. He was furious at Whitehall's [foreign office's] delay to join with his beloved reciprocal trade pact program. There are many influences working on Hull.

Takes Rap at Congress.

Shipping interests hard hit by the war are especially exercising pressure on Hull, the correspondent adds, and asserts that the American congress is composed of "local boys who have made good and who have been taught from childhood to repeat phrases about perfidious Albion and that England wants the United States to pull her chestnuts out of the fire."

He declares also that, "In Washington there is some distrust of English statesmanship. There is not much talk about phony wars or selling out or anything like that. But there is a deep down fear on all sides that England is doing everything she can to drag America into the conflict. You cannot convince them that this is not so." Editorially, however, the Daily Express declares that, "Nothing we are likely to find in letters or packages is worth a quarrel with America," and adds that, if searching the mails "risks disturbing good relations, then we should stop the search."

She plans to sail aboard the Conte de Savoia.

Germany Changes Names of Towns in Czecho-Slovakia

PRAGUE, Jan. 26.—The names of all towns in the Bohemia-Moravia protectorate that once had German names or have Czech names that are too difficult for Germans to pronounce or spell, are being Germanized. Common sense and not a desire further to Germanize the protectorate is the reason for the move, officials declare.

Britain and Greece Reach Economic, Financial Pact

LONDON, Jan. 26 (AP).—Conclusion of an economic and financial agreement between the Greek and British governments was announced by the ministry of economic warfare tonight.

GERMANY SEEKS TO OUTWIT FOE IN STRUGGLE FOR OIL

Berlin Envoys to Balkans Prepare Strategy.

BERLIN, Jan. 26 (AP).—Economic moves by England and France in the Balkans, which Germany considers her natural market and source of supplies, were understood today to have been discussed at a recent conference here attended by German ministers to five countries of southeastern Europe.

The ministers to Hungary, Jugo-Slavia, Rumania, Bulgaria, and Greece, were said to have attended the conference in the foreign office last week.

For Germany the most vital point in the Balkans at present is Rumania, to which she looks for a substantial part of her oil supplies.

Particular interest had been shown here in what authoritative sources said was "British-French anger because Rumania has decided to name a commissioner to coördinate national economy, including exports."

Rumania Gets Warning.

High authorities in Rumania recently reported a British-French warning to Bucharest against any compulsion on British and French companies operating in Rumania to produce oil for shipment to Germany.

This was said to have been followed by pressure by German envoys who insisted that Rumania's oil shipments to the reich must be increased, as this was "a matter of life and death" for Germany.

The empires also are known to have interfered with the flow of raw materials from the Balkans to Germany by outbidding Germany.

Authoritative sources said since the British were threatening sanctions [economic penalties] against Rumania, England and France apparently expect Rumania's decision to coördinate national economy to aid Germany.

"This is nothing more than a challenge of Rumania's right to regulate her own affairs," was the German comment. "The Rumanians know what they have to do."

Oil Commissioner Named.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Jan. 26.—Prof. Gheron Netta was appointed petroleum commissioner today. Former general secretary of the ministry of industry, he now is head of the economic institute. He has never taken part in politics.

British and French diplomatic representatives have asked for an explanation about the aims of the law setting up a petroleum commission to control production and sale of oil. The official answer was that appointment of the oil commissioner was necessary to assure provisioning of the army and the country with petroleum products, because in consequence of increased exports of oil products a shortage resulted in many parts of Rumania.

Russia Warns Empires.

MOSCOW, Jan. 26 (AP).—Pravda, communist party organ, asserted today that France and Britain were delaying a general offensive, hoping to enlist the aid of neutral nations.

It said the empires were seeking to bring the Balkans, Sweden, and Norway into the conflict and warned the western powers of the consequences of plunging the rest of the world into war.

The French and British governments, Pravda declared, are fearful of a wave of popular feeling in their own countries against "a bloody war."

The best Laborites in England, the newspaper added, are joining the communist movement, while in France, where the party is banned, it said there was "underground communist activity."

A wave of activity against war also is sweeping India and the British dominions and colonies, Pravda declared. It added that America, "getting gold from Europe, is satisfied" with the situation.

The Red Star, organ of the army, asserted that differences between the United States and Britain are sharpening as the result of economic rivalry, with the United States taking the lead in expanding trade in Latin-America.

POLES JAM BANKS TO RID SELVES OF WORTHLESS BILLS

Berlin Voids All Notes of Large Denominations.

BY E. R. NODERER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 26.—Streets and squares in front of banks in Warsaw were reported to be jammed today with Poles seeking to turn in 100 and 500 zloty notes before Jan. 31, the deadline set by the German conquerors.

After that date bills of these denominations, now valued at $20 and $100, no longer will be legal tender. Under a German government decree they must be exchanged for smaller notes.

Fear that the small supply of small bills will not be sufficient to go around and that they will be caught with money they cannot spend caused the Poles to lineup before the Reichskredit bank long before daylight. They were given numbers indicating their position in line.

Germans Find Coffers Bare.

During and just prior to the German campaign in Poland, the Polish government increased note circulation from 1 billion 100 million zlotys to 2 billion 700 million zlotys. The war was financed with this currency. When the crackup came bank depositors withdrew cash and public officials and army officers commandeered postoffice and government funds. When the Germans arrived they found the coffers bare, according to neutral observers in Berlin. Most of the refugees tried to get big bills because they were much less bulky to carry. Many Poles were said to be carrying as much as 50,000 zlotys in paper bags.

Altho the zloty is without value outside of Poland, it is still worth about 20 cents inside. Many zlotys carried out by refugees are being bought for ⅛ cent each and smuggled back into the country. It was also reported that plates for printing the 100 and 500 zloty notes were carried across the border by refugees who are printing currency which is smuggled back and spent in Poland.

Fear Loss of Money.

Holders of minor sums in large notes are receiving equal value in small bills, but Poles turning in sizable amounts only get back a part. The remainder is placed to their credit in the bank. Many fear that the cash retained by the bank will become a forced loan or a "contribution" to the government.

Germans denied this. They maintained that the retained funds will be available for business purposes. Nazis said the bank deposits will enable financial institutions to begin functioning again and by withdrawing part of the currency from circulation will halt the rise in prices.

Prices, it was said, have been going up steadily because the Poles have been making heavy purchases while the money still could be spent.

Balk at Taking Notes.

Altho the 100 and 500 notes will be legal tender until Jan. 31, they are no longer being accepted by tradesmen who are afraid they will get stuck with them.

New currency is to be introduced in the spring which will be exchangeable on an even basis with the present zloty, it was reported in Berlin. This was said to be necessary because the fleeing Polish government took the gold on which the currency was based and because of the suspicion that the plates for printing money are outside of Poland.

Movie Players Wed

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Jane Wyman and Ronald Reagan seated on wishing chair of Hollywood church after their wedding.

Glendale, Cal., Jan. 26 (AP)—A romance born on a movie set was climaxed today in a marriage solemnized in anything but the Hollywood pattern.

Two rising young screen performers, Ronald Reagan, one time Des Moines, Ia., sports columnist, and Jane Wyman, pretty St. Joseph, Mo., blonde, chose secluded Wee Kirk o' the Heather for the ceremony. They scorned the two usual motion picture routines—the more favored elopement or a ceremony performed with all the pomp of a première.

Only a few friends were on hand for today's nuptials. Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Elsie Wyatt. Best man was a close friend of Reagan's, Will Scott, a classmate at Eureka college, Eureka, Ill.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Irvin Kaplan and Mrs. Wayne Morris, the latter the former Bubbles Schinasi, New York society girl. Ushers were Kaplan and Walter Roddy, close friends of Reagan.

The couple left for a brief honeymoon in Palm Springs.

Purge of Party Is Started by Communists in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Jan. 26.—A purge of the Mexican communist party is under way, it was learned today. A special commission appointed to investigate activities of dissident members whose allegiance to Moscow was doubtful has begun its sittings. It is understood the commission has recommended several expulsions.

JAPANESE STRIVE TO PREVENT ROW WITH AMERICANS

Direct Anger at British as Pact with U. S. Dies.

TOKIO, Jan. 27, Saturday (AP).—Continuing excitement over the British seizure of 21 German seamen from a Japanese liner obscured today the dying hours of the 1911 American-Japanese trade treaty.

Some sources said they believed the sentiment against the British was being stirred deliberately in order to divert Japanese attention from the expiration of the pact.

Britain's reply to the Japanese protest against the seizure last Saturday from the S. S. Asama Maru of the German seamen was expected to be delivered to the Japanese government today.

Strong Action Urged.

The foreign office received a flood of telegrams and letters urging Japan to take strong action in the case.

Domei, Japanese news agency, said the communications ministry probably would instruct Japanese shipping lines not to accept belligerent nationals as passengers if embodied in active military service lists and would demand affidavits from those allowed to travel in order to prevent any recurrence of the Asama Maru incident.

The captain of a British coastal steamer, the Wing Sang, reported on reaching Shanghai that his ship had been detained more than 15 hours by a Japanese naval boarding party in apparent retaliation for the Asama Maru incident.

Supplies to Last a Year.

The lapse of the Japanese-American trade agreement frees the United States to put pressure on Japan in behalf of American interests in China. However, reliable information indicated that vital industries had a backlog of materials necessary to maintain normal production for at least a year.

"Even if the worst comes to worst," one economic authority said, "Japan cannot be crippled."

Japanese army officers in China said that the ending of the treaty cannot alter their program for the establishment of "a new order" in that country.

They said that no matter what economic pressure the United States may bring in the treatyless period ahead their program, which has meant harm to Americans and infringement of their treaty rights, must go on even if this means frontal conflict with the United States.

Scoff at War's Possibility.

Army officers in Shanghai freely discussed the possibility that gradual tightening of the economic screws on Japan by the United States might lead to war between the two countries.

On the other hand, the more conservative Japanese navy, which would have to do most of any fighting, dismissed the question of a Japanese-American war as extremely unlikely.

In the middle of the tangled situation is the third party, China, whose hopes for victory over Japan now rest to a large extent on the possibility of a split between Japan and the United States.

If Japanese-American trade continues as it has for the two and a half years of the Japanese-Chinese conflict Japan still would receive the large supplies of American oil and scrap iron she needs to prosecute the war.

Many Japanese officers admitted that if this indirect help from the United States were ended by an embargo the chances of success for their "new order" would be greatly lessened.

Plans for Puppet Rule Ready.

TSINGTAO, China, Jan. 26 (AP). — Former Premier Wang Ching-wei, approved by Tokio as head of a new central Chinese government to cooperate with Japan, today completed plans for the new government. Wang concluded a three day conference with leaders of the Japanese-dominated Nanking and Peking local governments.

America's 1939 Arms Business

(Story in adjoining column.)

Comparison of various nations' arms buying licenses and actual imports of arms from the United States, as revealed in statement issued yesterday. Germany and Japan bought more than the amounts of their 1939 licenses by use of authorizations issued earlier.

try," it said, "contributes anything like the share of the United States in Japan's foreign trade."

The report said it was obvious that her exports to this country "constitute an important source of the foreign exchange which Japan requires to purchase the raw materials utilized in her industries."

Figures Show Trade Amount.

An idea of Japanese-American business conducted under the expired treaty is given in the following figures [in thousands of dollars]:

EXPORTS TO JAPAN.

Foreign exchange countries are distinguished in the report from the yen-bloc lands, Manchukuo, Korea, and the occupied areas of China, trade with which provide no foreign exchange for Japan.

Emphasizing that trade with Japan plays a relatively less important part in this country's national existence, the study shows Japanese purchases accounted for only 8 per cent of American exports and only 7 per cent of this country's imports were supplied by Japan.

The European war has intensified Japan's dependence on American trade, the report continued. It has greatly checked her purchases from Germany, the United Kingdom, Scandinavian countries, Canada, and the Netherlands' Indies.

JAPANESE CLAIM VICTORY OVER 10,000 CHINESE

HONGKONG, Jan. 27, Saturday (AP).—The Japanese army today reported a victory over 10,000 Chinese troops on the frost-ridden Ordos plateau in the western part of Inner Mongolia, 500 miles from the seacoast. The Japanese said they bombed several Chinese bases, including Halatsi on the eastern edge of the plateau. Halatsi was said to be the headquarters of Gen. Ma Chan-shan, famous defender of Manchuria in the early days of the Japanese invasion in 1931. Ma's forces were said to have suffered severe losses.

BIG PHILIPPINE LINER SINKS AFTER RUNNING AGROUND; 115 RESCUED

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 27, Saturday (AP).—The 8,341 ton Philippine liner President Quezon was reported by the Japanese steamer Ukishima Maru to have sunk today several hours after going aground on reefs off Tanegashima Island, southern Japan.

Map locates island near where liner sank.

Radio advices from the Ukishima Maru said all the 114 crewmen and the one or two passengers aboard had been removed safely by three rescue ships in a raging storm.

Domei [Japanese news agency] said there were 12 passengers besides the crew. Other reports placed the passengers at 20 while other advices said only 1 was aboard. The President Quezon, formerly the President Madison, was en route to Manila from the United States with 10,500 tons of freight. Her crew, officials of the line said in San Pedro, Cal., includes many signed on at Seattle.

31 Escape from Ship in Storm.

TOKIO, Japan, Jan. 26 (AP).—The newspaper Asahi reported the captain and crew of 30 of the Norwegian freighter Fu Yuang, 3,359 tons, took to lifeboats today when their vessel was battered by heavy seas about 200 miles southwest of here. An S O S was sent out by the ship, en route from the South seas to Yokohama.

MUNITION TRADE FOR U. S. IN 1939 IS 200 MILLIONS

Actual Shipments Half of Total Orders.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—A report on arms export licenses and arms exports for 1939 was released today by the state department. It showed that 80 per cent of the total amount of exports authorized in licenses granted and 75 per cent of all arms shipped went to Great Britain and France. Germany was granted seven-thousandths of 1 per cent of the total applications and two-hundredths of the total amount of arms shipped.

Finland was granted four times as much in license authorizations as soviet Russia. Russia led in the total amount of exports for 1939, but was losing ground at the end of the year.

China Gets More Than Japan.

In the far east China was granted licenses authorizing about seven times as many arms purchases as Japan and actual exports during the year just closed were twice as much as those to Japan.

The licenses isued during the year authorized total exports of $204,555,780. Of this amount licenses to the empires and their colonies totaled $161,114,443. Licenses for the month of December authorized total exports of $35,262,313. Of this total British and French licenses accounted for $25,311,074.

Actual exports during the year totaled $102,298,298. Of this total $74,839,713 went to Britain and France and their colonies. For the month of December the total of exports was $26,219,147, and Britain and France accounted for more than 90 per cent of these shipments with $24,305,401.

France Leads Britain.

France was a greater purchaser than Great Britain. The number of French licenses totaled $122,163,858 for the year and $15,055,646 for December as against Britain's total of $38,950,585 for the year and $10,255,428 for December.

On actual exports France held but a slight lead with $38,064,808 for the year as against Britain's $36,774,905 and $17,858,166 for the month of December as against Britain's $6,447,235.

The war sent France's applications for licenses skyrocketing and she moved faster than Britain in getting the licenses for orders so as to get earlier delivery. While some of the exports were made on licenses issued in 1939, delivery on many of the licenses won't be made until this year.

On both licenses and exports the British and French were principally concerned with securing airplanes and airplane parts. These classifications accounted for about 95 per cent of both the licenses and exports.

Against these large totals Germany secured licenses authorizing purchase of but $14,944 of American arms and actually bought but $22,664 of American arms during the year. The British and French blockade cut off Germany's applications after the outbreak of the war.

In Europe's northern conflict Finland's licenses called for a total of $4,487,000 for the year and $3,154,616 for December while Russia's total for the year was $1,178,062 and for December but $107,500. Exports to Finland were but $347,448 for the year as against $1,097,015 to Russia. However, with outbreak of the war, Finland's December total was $70,919 as against $30,128 for Russia.

Neutrals Boost Buying.

China's licenses called for a total outlay of $5,062,617 as against Japan's yearly total of $757,000. The Chinese share of America's exports for the year totaled $2,012,724, as against $998,590 for Japan. In December China received exports of $514,502, as against not a single cent for Japan.

The December total showed the effectiveness of the state department's ban against plane and plane parts shipments to Japan in protest against that country's bombing of civilians.

European neutrals made large purchases. Holland, concerned over both Germany and Japanese expansion in the Pacific, secured licenses for more than 8 million dollars' worth of arms and actually bought almost 10 million dollars' worth during the year, mostly on licenses issued in previous years.

Norway's licenses called for expenditure of $679,243 and purchases were but $36,615. The large number of orders were inspired by the Russian attack on Finland. Sweden's licenses totaled $5,895,406, of which $4,578,372 were placed in December. Her imports in 1939 were but $309,122.

South American countries also are buying American arms in considerable quantities.

ASSESSOR BARES PERSONALTY 'FIX' BY 2 EMPLOYES

Prevents County's Loss of $103,538 in Taxes.

County Assessor John S. Clark disclosed yesterday that the 1939 personal property assessment of 250 corporations had been "fixed" in his office. Had the fraud not been uncovered, Clark said, the county would have lost $103,538 in taxes and personal property valuations would have been reduced $3,040,021 on the county tax books.

John S. Clark.

Clark said that so far the fraud involved only two employés of his office. One, an auditor, has resigned, Clark said. The other is still employed.

Inquiry Not Yet Concluded.

Clark refused to reveal the names of the employés involved or the identity of the corporations whose tax assessments had been reduced. The assessor said his investigation was not yet concluded and that it was possible other deputy assessors as well as individuals outside of the assessor's office would be involved.

In addition to the irregularities in connection with the 1939 assessment, Clark said, his investigation has disclosed the existence of others for the 1937 and 1938 personal property rolls. Lesser sums were involved in these years, he said. It is impossible to retrieve this lost tax money by back taxing the corporations.

The tax fixing, Clark said, was uncovered last October during a routine reaudit after the assessor's figures had been turned over to the board of tax appeals for approval.

Rectified by Appeals Board.

This reëxamination, Clark said, disclosed that 250 corporations had been able to get away with an original full value personal property assessment of $2,095,227. Clark said his auditors asked the appeals board to raise the full valuation to $9,210,585.

At hearings before the board, however, the final full valuation of $5,136,218 was set. The tax rate of approximately $9 per $100 assessed valuation, Clark said, would make the loss to the county $103,538 had the valuation not been corrected. The assessed valuation is 37 per cent of the full valuation.

It was reported that the fraud actually first came to light during an intraoffice scandal involving a group of deputy assessors. This occurred last October, about the time that Chief Deputy Assessor Edward J. McCabe left the office in a huff.

Seventeen auditors are employed to examine the assessments of the 200 personal property tax districts. It was reported that the desks of several of the auditors had been surreptitiously opened. Several corporation property schedules were said to have been found in the desks of three auditors, in violation of the office rules. One auditor was said to have approved schedules in districts other than his own.

Clark said the desk searching was done against his orders, but that it had nothing to do with the tax fixing later uncovered. He reiterated yesterday his statement that McCabe left only because of a difference of opinion with several members of the staff. Clark said that McCabe was honest and that a few weeks ago had been brought back to become director of the tax research bureau.

Comments on Future Action.

Clark was asked whether he planned to call upon the state's attorney to investigate the irregularities in his office.

"I have not completed my own investigation yet," he said. "In the next few weeks our audit division is going to make an intensive and thoro audit to determine whether any more cases and any more employés are involved. As far as we know, we have corrected all the fixed assessments for 1939. When our investigation is finished I will take whatever steps seem necessary."

"Will the employé who did not resign be discharged?" Clark was asked.

"The employé is still in the office, but has been shifted to another job," Clark said. "I plan to take no further action on him until this matter has been more thoroly investigated."

DEMAND SPECIAL PROSECUTOR FOR JURY FIX INQUIRY

Charge Courtney's Staff Threatened Witnesses.

Chief Justice John Prystalski of the Criminal court ordered State's Attorney Courtney yesterday to reply to charges that his office used threats against the foreman of the jury in the 11th ward vote fraud fixing investigation. The hearing will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday.

The order was issued after a stormy hearing in which Joseph T. Harrington, attorney for the foreman, Oliver Thoner, clashed with Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney. Harrington demanded contempt action against Courtney and his aids, and asked for a special prosecutor to look into their official conduct.

Jurors Confess Taking Bribes.

Thoner is an engineer and a veteran employé of the American Car and Foundry company. The jury which he headed acquitted Samuel Orlando and Joseph Vinci, Democratic leaders in the 52d precinct of the 11th ward, who were charged with election frauds. Since their acquittal three of the jurors have confessed accepting bribes. At no time was Thoner involved in the bribing. However, he retained Attorney Harrington to protect his interests during the investigation.

Oliver Thoner.

Harrington filed his petition before Judge Prystalski yesterday, charging Courtney's office with malpractice, malfeasance, and misfeasance.

Tells Treatment of Foreman.

He alleged that Thoner was taken before the grand jury Jan. 17, questioned about the jury's deliberations in the Orlando-Vinci case, and told to submit to a lie detector test. Harrington asserted that Thoner refused to take the test because he believed such a test fraudulent. Then, according to the charges, Thoner was threatened with indictment, and warned his employers would be asked to discharge him.

"Thoner was treated unmercifully by the state's attorney's office," Harrington said. "His superior, H. E. Hedgecock, district manager of the American Car and Foundry company, was told by the state's attorney's office that the company would receive unfavorable publicity unless Hedgecock compelled Thoner to take a lie detector test. He was asked to discharge Thoner, but Hedgecock said that Thoner had been employed 40 years, and couldn't be treated that way."

Crowley denied Harrington's accusations. He admitted that Hedgecock was solicited to get Thoner to take the lie test, but asserted there were no threats.

Crowley called Harrington's petition silly, and said it was an attack on the state's attorney's office and an effort to impede administration of justice.

George R. Benson Jr. rushed outside yesterday when he heard the plate glass windows of the Benson & Rixon store at 230 South State street being smashed. He found Policemen Mack Seegar and Arthur Linderman struggling with a maniac who had heaved two horseshoes and a paper weight thru the windows. The maniac drew a razor and started to attack Linderman. He eventually was disarmed by Seegar, Linderman, two other policemen, and Benson. At the 1st district station he rammed his head against a cell bar, knocking himself unconscious. When he revived he gave the name of Ralph Boercarsi, 45 years old, 1141 South Richmond street, and was taken to the psychopathic hospital.

FBI THROWS LIE AT STATE POLICE ON 'INSANE' COP

Williams Admits He Knew of Criminal Past.

Chief Walter Williams of the state highway police admitted yesterday in Springfield that he knew John Howe had a criminal record when Howe was placed on the state force in 1936. Williams had previously denied such knowledge. His admission followed a statement from the federal bureau of investigation in Springfield that it had advised Williams of Howe's past when the latter applied for a state highway police post.

Shortly after the disclosure the Chicago Crime commission issued a special bulletin assailing state authorities for employing Howe when they had full details of his past. The association demanded a thoro investigation and punishment for those responsible.

Howe is one of those involved in the 11th ward vote fraud jury fixing case. Three of the jurors were bribed and the trial resulted in the acquittal of Sam Orlando and Joseph Vinci, Democratic leaders in the ward's 52d precinct. They had been accused of conspiracy to violate the election law.

Found to Have Record.

After Howe had been accused of offering one of the bribes, it was disclosed that he had escaped trial on four holdup indictments in 1930 by commitment to a state insane asylum. He quickly escaped.

Several days ago F. Lynden Smith, state director of public works, said that Howe's fingerprints had been sent to the federal bureau of investigation at Washington when Howe applied for the police job and that the bureau reported Howe had no criminal record. Smith said he was told this by Williams who confirmed Smith's statement.

Yesterday A. C. Rutzen, special agent in charge of the Springfield division of the FBI, called in newspaper men.

State Authorities Informed.

"On July 24, 1936," Rutzen said, "Howe's fingerprints were received by the criminal investigation bureau from Williams. On July 30, 1936, J. Edgar Hoover [head of the FBI at Washington] advised Williams of Howe's police record. Williams was informed that the record showed Howe was arrested Oct. 16, 1930, for robbery with a gun, and that he had been held on $70,000 bail.

"The FBI never received any notation of disposition on the charge for which Howe was arrested and fingerprinted. This statement is made to clear any possible doubt as to whether Illinois authorities were informed of Howe's record."

Confronted with this statement, Williams replied: "I never said that Howe's record was clean. I was never asked that. [The newspaper men insisted they have been asking him that for several days.]

Admits Evasive Answer.

"What I was asked was if Howe had ever been arrested and convicted and my answer was that the records do not show any conviction. On orders of Gov. Horner, an investigation of the Howe case is being made by myself, my assistant, Lawrence Taylor, and T. P. Sullivan, state superintendent of criminal investigation and identification. When our inquiry is concluded we will release all the facts."

He was asked: "Did you get the letter from the FBI telling of Howe's criminal record?"

"Yes, I did," he replied. He refused further comment.

State officials made no further effort to clear up the matter of who sponsored Howe for the highway police job. Last Monday Gov. Horner's publicity man said the sponsor was the late Henry F. Schuberth, who was state representative from the 11th district from 1912 to 1919. Schuberth, a south side real estate dealer, died in April, 1938.

Son Denies Accusation.

His son, Elmer Schuberth, expressed regret that the sponsorship had been laid at his dead father's door. He asked for proof, particularly that the governor's office produce his father's signature on the sponsorship record or other documents pertaining to Howe's application. The signature has not been forthcoming.

Howe has been suspended from the highway police force and is in custody. The holdup charges against him have been reinstated. He is to have a sanity hearing Monday before Chief Justice John F. Prystalski in Criminal court.

WIDOW SUES UNION FOR FAILURE TO PROTECT SLAIN BUSINESS AGENT

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—A long dormant mystery—the slaying of R. Norman Redwood, "Sandhog" union leader—was revived today by a $200,000 suit brought against the union by Redwood's widow who charged the union failed to give her husband proper protection.

Redwood, business agent of the Compressed Air Workers union, local 102, was shot to death the night of Feb. 19, 1937, as he sat in an automobile in the driveway of his home at Teaneck, N. J.

Mrs. Redwood contended in her action that her husband was employed in "a hazardous and dangerous occupation" as business agent, that the union was aware of threats against Redwood's life and had agreed to provide him with protection, but had not done so.

DENY BOMBERS FLOWN ACROSS LINE TO CANADA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26.—The state and war departments today denied published reports that Lockheed bombers, bought by the British in America, were being flown over the Canadian border by French pilots in violation of the neutrality act. Earlier in the day President Roosevelt at his press conference denied that he knew anything about it.

Under the neutrality law planes cannot be flown across the Canadian-American border by either American or foreign crews and no planes piloted by armed forces of a belligerent power can fly over American soil.

To deliver American planes to Canada by air it is necessary for an American crew to fly the plane to the border, where title is transferred to British interests. Then the plane must be pushed over the border before it can be flown away by its foreign crew. Pembina, N. D., is used as a transfer point.

BUILDERS OF CHICAGO (22)

By CALEB

BORN near Alstead, N. H., on July 20, 1850, young John Graves Shedd tired of the farm at sixteen, and found himself work as a country grocery-store clerk in Bellows Falls, Vt. His remuneration was 25 cents a day "and found" (the trade euphemism for board and room). Winter schooling he managed "between times," and later returned to his home town for wages of $2.50 a week—this sum increasing to a dollar more, when his employer's place burned down and he went with a competitor.

John Shedd's next move was to a drygoods store in Rutland, Vt., at $25 per month, where his talents presently attracted the notice of Benjamin H. Burt, one of the city's leading merchants. This new employer doubled his salary, and proved to be one of the major influences throughout Shedd's subsequent career. A year with Burt, however, and New England ambition again prodded him on—this time toward Chicago, just emerging from its disastrous fire of 1871, but, as Marshall Field had already demonstrated, a city of remarkable business opportunity for the future.

Mr. Field was then head of Field, Leiter & Co., and to him the aggressive John Shedd, now twenty-one, applied with the assertion that he could "sell any kind of goods in the store every day." Stock and shipping-room activities comprised his first job, at $10 a week; and from there this go-getter from New Hampshire advanced himself to salesman, to department head, to merchandise manager, to vice president, to president, and finally to chairman of the board, on the triple assets of ability, foresight and imagination. Six years after joining forces with Field, he married Mary R. Porter, a girl from his native town.

Civic as well as personal achievement characterized John G. Shedd's long business life—not only in directorships with banks and railroads, but as a patron of the arts and opera; a generous contributor to charities, the Art Institute, Y. M. C. A., and Field Columbian Museum; and most impressively of all, in the erection, in 1931, of the $3,000,000 Shedd Aquarium, finest structure of its kind in the world, whose classic architecture beautifully harmonizes with that of surrounding buildings in Grant Park's civic ensemble.

Long before his death on Oct. 22, 1926, John G. Shedd had firmly entrenched his name and works among those of Chicago's great pioneers and industrial leaders. As head for twenty years of Marshall Field & Company he inaugurated many progressive innovations in the firm's management, operation and service.

MOVES AGAINST 3 UNLICENSED BAIL BONDSMEN

Courtney Files Objection to Certificate Plea.

State's Attorney Courtney's office charged yesterday that three professional bondsmen, who are not licensed to do business in the state courts, have scheduled 550 bonds in the Municipal court during the last six months.

The charge was made before Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Criminal court, where the prosecutor's office is seeking to prevent the Victory Bonding company from obtaining a certificate of good reputation. Among the members of this company are Arthur Carroll, Gene Gary, Ben Sockel, Julius Benvenuti, and James Alex.

Certificate Once Refused.

Assistant State's Attorney Melvin Rembe, in a formal answer to the company's application for a certificate to do business in the Criminal court, charged that Benvenuti is a former policy game operator. Last July Judge Michael L. McKinley refused to approve his application for a bondsman's certificate after he admitted he had been connected with the gambling business prior to 1928.

Carroll, Gary and Sockel have been doing a bail business in the Municipal court, according to the prosecutor. Since August, he said, Gary has scheduled 300 bonds, Sockel 150, and Carroll 100.

Alex, the fifth member of the Victory company, was declared by Prosecutor Rembe to be one of the three persons who executed a $20,000 bond for the notorious James [Fur] Sammons, gangster. The bond was forfeited and the judgment obtained against it has never been satisfied, according to Rembe.

Sends Letter to Sonsteby.

State's Attorney Courtney addressed a letter to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, informing him that Carroll, Gary, and Sockel had been scheduling bonds there. Sonsteby said he would look into the matter and give the prosecutor a reply.

The chief justice produced a printed list of surety firms and individuals authorized to execute bonds in the Municipal court. The list includes the names of Julius Benvenuti, 2900 South La Salle street; Arthur Carroll, 730 Oakwood boulevard; Gene Gary, 517 East 46th place, and Ben Sockel, 940 Maxwell street.

Sonsteby said it was up to the judges of the Municipal court to determine whether bondsmen are approved.

Judge Graber will hold a hearing Monday on the Victory company's application for a certificate of good reputation.

Miss Ruby Benton, a former nurse at the institution, asserted Thursday that she resigned because she was "tired of being annoyed" by Dr. Johnson.

TELLS SLAYING OF 16 YEARS AGO; SAYS HE DID IT

Joseph Okoniewski, 57 years old, walked into the Marquette police station last night and told Desk Sergt. Louis Possehl he was one of three bandits who killed a policeman 16 years ago.

"My conscience bothers me and I want to get it off my chest," he said.

Police records show that Policeman Michael Murtaugh was killed on Oct. 11, 1923, at 19th and Leavitt streets by three bandits fleeing from a robbery. The killers have never been apprehended.

Police said Okoniewski, who lives at 2308 West 19th street, would be questioned further today. He had been drinking, they said, and they locked him up for the night.

IOWAN FOUND DEAD IN SNOW.

Dubuque, Ia., Jan. 26 [Special].—The body of Henry Purnhage, 72 years old, was found today in a snow bank in front of his home here. It was believed he collapsed while returning home last night and froze to death. He had been in impaired health for some time.

TWO MORE GIRLS ACCUSE DOCTOR OF MAKING LOVE

Austin, Tex., Jan. 26 (AP).—Mrs. G. F. Foelsing, 20 years old, a former telephone operator at the state hospital headed by Dr. W. J. Johnson, testified today that the doctor wanted to see her knees when she asked him for a job.

She got the job, she said, after he had inspected her figure, commented on it, and mused that he "didn't see why the boys weren't crazy about" her.

Her testimony, given at a public hearing called by the state board of control, followed that of Miss Lucy Robinson, 20, a former waitress at the asylum directed by the doctor, who is 56 years old and married. Miss Robinson said the doctor hugged her when she applied for a job at the hospital, which is in San Antonio.

The two women were the last witnesses called in support of a charge by San Antonio ministers that the doctor, if guilty of evidence they said they had uncovered, was morally unfit to head the hospital.

Tomorrow Dr. Johnson will offer defense testimony. Thru his counsel he has labeled the charges as "false and slanderous."

Mrs. Foelsing, mother of a 3 month old baby, frequently caused much laughter in the crowded capitol chamber where the board and spectators heard her testify.

What They Heard.

The witness said she went to see Dr. Johnson in June, 1938, about a job. She said the doctor inquired if she ever had picked cotton and she told him she had.

"Let me see if your hands have any corns [callouses] in them," the witness quoted the doctor.

After displaying her hands, Mrs. Foelsing said he remarked he knew a better way to determine whether she had picked cotton, and when she inquired how, the doctor replied:

"By your knees."

"I told him I was not in the habit of showing my knees to men, especially men of my age," Mrs. Foelsing said.

Yesterday five other young women accused the doctor. One of them, Miss Ruby Benton, an attractive brunette, testified that she was forced to permit Johnson to kiss her to get her job. In the course of her employment he hugged and petted her, she added, explaining she resigned because "I was tired of being annoyed by him."

STATE WINS 2D CONVICTION IN A HANDBOOK CASE

Three men were found guilty yesterday by a jury of six men and six women before Municipal Judge J. M. Braude in the Jury court in the first handbook conviction of 1940. The conviction was the second among 12 cases tried. There have been eight acquittals and two jury disagreements. Four hundred similar cases are pending.

Those convicted yesterday and the addresses they gave police are: Joseph Kolin, 6023 South Halsted street; Albert Brennan, 848 West 61st street, and Henry Hertzberg, 4128 Gladys avenue.

Policeman Patrick J. Clarke of the morals squad testified that on Nov. 3 he entered an establishment at 5942 South Halsted street and placed a 50 cent bet with Hertzberg. Later, the policeman continued, he returned with a search warrant and arrested all three.

The maximum penalty under the conviction would be a year in jail for each defendant and a fine of $2,000. Judge Braude set Feb. 2 for hearing motions for new trials.

UPHOLD HINES' GUILT; REMOVE JUDGE AS FIXER

Five Justices Unanimous on Tammany Boss.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 26.—The appellate division of the state Supreme court today unanimously upheld the conviction of James J. [Jimmy] Hines, Tammany leader and chief dispenser of patronage for the Roosevelt administration here, on charges of protecting the policy racket.

James J. Hines [upper] and Hulon Capshaw.

The court simultaneously, but in a separate proceeding, ordered the removal from the bench of City Magistrate Hulon Capshaw, who was accused of being the tool of Hines in the fixing of racket cases brought before him.

Hines was prosecuted by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and found guilty by a jury before General Sessions Judge Charles C. Nott Jr. on Feb. 25 last year. A sentence of four to eight years was imposed and Hines was freed under bail of $35,000 pending appeal.

Further Freedom Opposed.

Dewey's office said tonight further freedom for the political boss under bail would be opposed as a routine matter. Hines' counsel, Martin W. Littleton, announced he would move for an appeal before the Court of Appeals, New York state's highest tribunal, and seek to have his client out on bond pending a final decision.

It took two trials to convict Hines, regarded as the most powerful single Tammany leader in New York City because he basked in White House favor. Supreme Court Justice Ferdinand Pecora, himself a former Tammany assistant district attorney, threw out the first trial on a technicality in the fall of 1938.

President's Early Backer.

Hines received the bulk of federal patronage in Manhattan because he supported Franklin D. Roosevelt for President before the Chicago convention of 1932 and opposed other Tammany figures who favored nominating Al Smith again.

Witnesses at both of Hines' trials related a spectacular story of municipal corruption. Hines was shown to have been the protector for the Dutch Schultz gang, which reaped millions of dollars in profit from operating the policy [numbers] games in the city. In return, Hines was shown to have been paid sums ranging up to $1,000 a week in underworld money.

Judges tossed out of court cases against notorious Schultz gangsters. One of these judges, according to witnesses, was Magistrate Capshaw.

Witnesses Accuse Police.

Members of the New York police force were paid off to protect the gang, testimony showed.

In its opinion today the Appellate division declared the evidence was so conclusive it would have been "futile" for defense counsel to argue otherwise on appeal. The judges who handed down the decision were Presiding Justice Francis Martin and Associate Justices James O'Malley, Alfred H. Townley, Edward S. Dore, and Albert Cohn.

The defense appeal did not attack the evidence. Rather, it contended that the operation of a policy game should not be prosecuted as a felony, but as a misdemeanor. This the court denied.

4 HELD BY POLICE IN $1,500 CHECK FRAUD INQUIRY

Luther C. Partin, formerly in the construction business in Evanston, was under arrest at the Town Hall police station yesterday charged with passing spurious checks totaling $1,500 on the north side and in Evanston. The police were holding two women and another man.

One of the women is Mrs. Edna Stone, 32 years old, of the Grasmere hotel, 4615 Sheridan road. She told the police she had accompanied Partin on a trip to Washington, D. C., and that he had passed several fraudulent checks along the way.

Mrs. Stone was arrested Thursday night on the complaint that she had taken a fur coat from her sister, Mrs. Helen Waters of Knoxville, Tenn. When Detectives Michael Fay and Elsworth Suckow seized her she said she had borrowed the coat. She then told of Partin, who was later arrested. Also held were Miss Barbara Thomas, 29, and Leonard Moburg, 38, both of 4654 Kenmore avenue. They denied knowing of the fraud.

Michigan City Is Ordered to Reinstate 2 Policemen

La Porte, Ind., Jan. 26 [Special].—Circuit Judge Wirt Worden today ordered the Michigan City board of public works and safety to reinstate Claud Williamson and Fred C. Prozynski as policemen, declaring in his order that the two officials dismissed from the force last March 7 were not given a fair hearing. The dismissed officers claimed they were fired by Mayor Fred Parker's administration to make way for Republican appointees.

Passersby Save 3 Stricken by Gas from Oil Burner

Three persons were revived yesterday after they had been overcome by gas fumes of an oil burner in the house at 1531 North Sheridan road, Waukegan. They are Vicelia Giphardt, 18 years old, Betty Mae Robards, 10, and her brother, Kerry Lee, 4. Vicelia staggered to the street where passersby found her and rescued the other two.

Held as Bandits

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Fillmore street police last night were seeking to identify three youths, two of them graduates of the St. Charles School for Boys, in other burglaries. They were trapped early yesterday while looting a liquor store at 3346 Madison street. During the day they also confessed the burglary of an ice cream store at 3328 Madison street on Jan. 12.

The St. Charles graduates were Fred Goy and William Schoot, each 18 years old. Each was sentenced to the institution for automobile theft after previously having been placed on probation for a similar crime. The third prisoner is Alfred Di Blasi, 17. All lived in a rooming house at 3219 5th avenue.

OPPOSE ATTEMPT TO UPSET BAN ON STRANGER PICKET

Attorneys Samuel A. Rinella and Myer N. Rosengard filed a brief in the United States Supreme court in Washington yesterday opposing an attempt by the American Federation of Labor to upset an Illinois Supreme court decision against stranger [non-employé] picketing.

The federation on Dec. 30 asked the United States Supreme court to review the case, which involved picketing at Ross W. Swing's beauty shop at 5558 North avenue. Picketing began when employés refused to join the Hairdressers and Cosmetologists' union, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, in 1937. The employés joined Swing in obtaining an injunction against the pickets. The Illinois Supreme court upheld the injunction.

The federation's petition to the highest court contended the constitutional guaranty of free speech gave the unions the right to maintain picket lines and carry banners to disseminate information to the public. Attorneys Rinella and Rosengard, in their brief, asserted that the freedom of speech right and the property right are relative and must be adjusted when they clash in the same case. In this instance, they say Swing's property rights were jeopardized by the pickets.

TELLS OF EFFORT TO TRACE CHECK IN BERWYN FUND

Mayor Anton Janura of Berwyn testified yesterday in Criminal court against Ernest W. Mau, treasurer of the suburb, and Matthew Berg, former treasurer, who are charged with embezzling $3,726 from the Berwyn special assessment funds. The case is being heard by a jury before Judge William J. Lindsay.

Mayor Janura told of his efforts to trace a $3,726 check drawn on the assessment funds, which is the basis for the charges. The matter was called to his attention, he said, by Fred Kauth, bookkeeper for the city, who said that a woman had presented bonds for payment, although the special assessment sheets showed that payment had already been made. Kauth then presented a canceled check showing payment had been made to Mrs. Rosalyn Nye Hitzman of Berwyn, formerly Mau's secretary. He said that Mau denied knowing the woman.

The state has attempted to show that she cashed the check and turned over the money to Berg and Mau. It is expected that Mrs. Hitzman will testify for the state when the trial resumes on Monday.

FALSE CLAIMS TO OBTAIN FHA LOANS CHARGED

Harry M. Quinn, 5990 Archer avenue, was indicted by a federal grand jury yesterday on two charges of making false statements to obtain loans thru the Federal Housing administration. Judge Charles E. Woodward ordered him held in $1,000 bond on each charge.

The government charged that Quinn, in offering houses for sale at 3701 and 3705 West 67th place, arranged for FHA approved loans for his clients. The loan terms provided that a 10 per cent cash down payment should be made. Quinn, the government charges, represented that he had been paid 10 per cent for the lot, while in fact he had received a small amount of cash and notes for the remainder.

The arrangement came to the attention of the government when the clients, Fred Cerceo, 3701 West 67th place, and John J. Wallace, 3705 West 67th place, complained of the quality houses they had bought.

JUDGE FREES 29 SEIZED IN REVERE STRIKE VIOLENCE

Rules Technicality Bars Their Prosecution.

Twenty-nine employés of the Revere Copper and Brass company, accused of labor violence in connection with a strike late last summer when they were picketing the company's plant at 2200 North Natchez avenue, were freed on a technicality yesterday by Judge N. J. Bonelli in Municipal court.

No witnesses appeared to testify that bricks and acid had been thrown at a company truck, as the state's attorney's office had been told.

All 29 of the former strikers, members of local 477 of the United Automobile Workers Union of America, an American Federation of Labor affiliate, were present for the hearing, the sixth before various judges. They were arrested Aug. 18.

31 Acts of Violence.

The incident was one of 31 acts of violence charged to the strikers by the state's attorney's office. The strike, which threw 550 men out of work, ended Sept. 17 after the company agreed to restore an 8 per cent pay cut. All 29 of the defendants in court yesterday are now back at work.

The specific charge against them was unlawful assembly. Judge Bonelli ruled that the charge came under a section of the statute which requires that all persons in the unlawful assembly be identified specifically.

Assistant State's Attorney H. K. Buchman called as state's witnesses Patrolman Sam Dessent and David Levin of Cragin. They identified four men: Anthony Auolia, 4748 South Karlov avenue; Michael Keglovitz, 2831 North Normandy avenue; Joseph Coleman, 1301 Ohio street, and Arthur Alexander, 2330 Huron street. The 25 others, who were not identified, then were dismissed.

All Deny Being Present.

The four tentatively identified in the violence then took the witness stand.

"I was at strike headquarters three blocks away," said Auolia. "When I saw the disturbance I went down to ask what was happening."

"I was in the picket line and went to find out what was happening when I saw a truck had stopped," said Keglovitz.

"I was cooking in strike headquarters and couldn't have been there at all," said Alexander.

"I was at headquarters working for the welfare committee," said Coleman.

Judge Bonelli inspected the complaint against the men and told Buchman that the defendants were charged with unlawful assembly at the plant, whereas testimony showed the violence, if any, took place on the highway at another point. Moreover, he said, identifications were not positive.

Buchman argued that unlawful assembly might take place anywhere in the city, and the specific place need not be named.

"No," Judge Bonelli ruled, "it must take place at the plant, according to the complaint. I am interested in what happened in the case before me, not elsewhere." He then dismissed the charges.

Bartender Held in Death of Patron Ejected in Row

Herman Barrett, bartender in Stoner's tavern, Northfield, was booked yesterday by Morton Grove county highway police on a charge of manslaughter in the death of Armand J. Scarpenelli, 34, of Highwood. Scarpenelli died Monday of injuries suffered the previous night in a fall in front of the tavern. Lieut. George LeGrue said Barrett admitted he ejected Scarpenelli from the tavern after an argument over payment for drinks.

JURORS DELAY NEW INQUIRY IN GARAGE SLAYING

Emil Mermall, executive director of the Affiliated Garages of Chicago, a garage owners' association, appeared yesterday to testify before the grand jury investigating the goon slaying of Marinus Hvid, north side garage owner. Hvid was fatally slugged with a baseball bat by two men 31 days ago.

After waiting an hour, Mermall was informed that the jurors were busy with other matters, and Assistant State's Attorney William Crawford told him to return Monday. Mermall appeared before the jurors last Monday, and refused to explain cash withdrawals totaling $14,000 from the association funds.

Investigators are looking into a reported working agreement between the association and the Auto Livery Chauffeurs, Taxicab Drivers and Garage Helpers' union which picketed Hvid's garage at 3514 North Halsted street.

Police and investigators of State's Attorney Courtney's office have failed to find a clew to the identity of Hvid's slayers.

EXPLAINS FAILURE TO PAY OLD AGE TAX; DISMISSED

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward freed Wallace Graham, operator of a rental agency at 43 East Ohio street, yesterday on a civil charge of contempt of court for failure to heed several summonses to file returns under the social security act.

Graham was arrested Jan. 19 by a deputy United States marshal, held for two hours in a cell in the United States courthouse, and fingerprinted, on a charge of failing to make returns.

Graham explained in court that he believed he could not file returns unless he could also remit the payments due. He owed $138 in tax and $34 in penalties and interest. When he said he had made arrangements to pay up his arrearage, Judge Woodward dismissed him.

3 G. O. P. RIVALS BID FOR VOTES ON SAME PLATFORM

Green, Lyons and Searcy Speak in Evanston.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Three candidates for the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois shared the platform at a meeting last night in the North Shore hotel in Evanston. They drew straws to determine the order in which they would speak, referred to each other only in terms of good fellowship, and shared about equally in the applause from the audience of 500.

They were—in the order in which they spoke—Dwight H. Green of Chicago, Richard J. Lyons of Libertyville, and State Senator Earl B. Searcy of Springfield. All were sent the joint invitation of the Republican organizations of Evanston and New Trier township, which includes other north shore suburbs up to the Cook county line.

Appearance Sets Precedent.

It was said to be the first time in recent history that three contestants for a major party nomination in Illinois had appeared together under such circumstances. The trio seemed to enjoy it and the audience apparently appreciated the fact that it was being treated to a novelty. It was careful to treat all three speakers alike.

Green drew the longest straw and spoke first. He was followed by Lyons. Searcy spoke last. Green did not refer to either of his rivals, but the other two, asking for confirmation of statements now and then, used the appellations of "Earl," "Dwight," and "Dick."

Each of the speakers struck at the New Deal. Green and Lyons attacked vote frauds. Lyons and Searcy, particularly the latter, condemned the high cost of government and political waste under Democratic administrations, national, state, and local.

Assails City Corruption.

"Cook county today," said Green, "stands with its head bowed in shame as civic leaders, unable themselves to cope with the breakdown of law and order, call upon the federal government to find some pretext or excuse for cleaning up the deplorable situation.

"But I know that Chicago and Cook county can clean out the racketeers and grafters and restore representative government. Now that the citizens of Chicago and Illinois know the depths to which civic honor and decency have fallen, with elections stolen, vote thieves turned free, gamblers mocking the law, and judges consorting with criminals, they will shake off their lethargy and drive the crooks out of public office.

"If the people cannot take care of their home situation, then America is not far from dictatorship. The New Deal has torn down our self dependence in civic and public affairs. If our last shred of decency is gone, if we must call upon Washington for help because we cannot depend on local officials, then democracy has come upon its last days."

Lyons Charges Vote Thefts.

In discussing dishonest elections, Lyons charged that he was the victim of wholesale frauds in Chicago two years ago when he was the Republican nominee for United States senator. He carried the downstate area but was badly beaten in the metropolis.

"I was elected," he said. "The trouble was that I wasn't certified because they stole the election from me."

He charged that in some precincts his Democratic opposition spent as much as $1,000 a precinct in buying votes under the pretense of hiring precinct workers. In this connection he condemned Republicans who enter bipartisan deals with the enemy. He also attacked the Illinoisans, pseudo-organization in whose name the Democrats have assessed state employés 2 per cent of their salaries for campaign funds.

Raps Cost of Running State.

"By no manner of calculation," said Searcy in discussing state appropriations, "can a 900 per cent increase in Illinois state costs in 23 years be justified. Yet there has been such an increase. But our state population has grown but 30 per cent in that same period of time."

Maj. A. K. Stiles of Sycamore, chairman of the Republican state central committee, has announced he is a candidate for reëlection to his seat on the committee as the representative of the 12th congressional district. It is probable that he will not have serious opposition, as the county chairmen of the six counties in the district have indorsed him for reëlection.

LEO ALLEN SAYS HE WON'T SEEK SEAT IN SENATE

Congressman Leo E. Allen of Galena issued a statement in Washington yesterday in reply to reports that he had been persuaded to run for the Republican nomination for United States senator from Illinois.

"With a hand picked United States Supreme court," it read, "with an assured New Deal senate for the next four years, the house of representatives is the only place where sound and constitutional government can be preserved.

"It is evident that the 1940 elections will result in a Republican house. As a ranking member of the powerful rules committee, I will be in a position to help eliminate many of the present absurd and unfair laws by voting and working against further appropriations for certain commissions and bureaus.

"I am appreciative of the honor of a United States senatorship, but I am fully convinced that it is my duty to remain in my present position the next few years. Therefore, while respecting the appeals of my friends to be a candidate for the senate, I must decline. I am happy to be a candidate to succeed myself in congress."

EX-JUDGE JONAS IN G. O. P. RACE FOR PROSECUTOR

Hits Present Machinery of Law Enforcement.

Former Municipal Judge Edgar A. Jonas yesterday announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination for state's attorney of Cook county.

His decision was given out in copies of two letters. The first was an appeal directed to him by Henry A. Gardner of Winnetka, a member of the Republican county committee, and nine others who said they had canvassed the experience and qualifications of several candidates and had found that Jonas has all the qualifications "of a real state's attorney."

Issues Reply to Group.

The second letter was former Judge Jonas' reply to the group, in which he referred particularly to the present administration of the county prosecutor's office, to vote frauds, to recent judicial scandals, and to labor racketeering, and expressed his willingness to become a candidate.

Edgar A. Jonas.

Several others already have entered this race. They include Harry S. Ditchburne, who won this nomination in 1936; Judge Oscar F. Nelson of the Superior court, and Charles F. Rathbun. None so far has been indorsed by any important Republican organization or faction.

Those who with Gardner signed the letter to Jonas included Attorney Allan T. Gilbert of Kenilworth; Edward A. Robson, village prosecutor of Wilmette; J. Mayo Lenz, president of an electric manufacturing company; Donald P. Blake, head of a monument company; Dr. Robert M. Hayes, physician; Charles M. Rau, business manager of local 597, Steamfitters' Protective association, and Robert E. Murphy, a former vice president of the Chicago Master Plumbers' association.

Hits Present Administration.

Jonas' own letter said:

"It must be apparent to the people of Cook county that the law enforcement machinery of this county has for several years been closely held in the hands of a group whose apparent ambition has been to perpetuate themselves in power. The power of this group over law enforcement in Cook county must be broken. No state's attorney can do this job alone. We, the people, confident in the honesty of a state's attorney and working together, can and will enforce the laws of this county."

The former judge questioned whether there has been an honest election in Cook county in many years. He described vote stealing as close kin to treason.

Refers to Judicial Disclosures.

"Recent investigations have indicated that certain branches of our judicial system," he continued, "do not measure up to the standard of even-handed justice. There must be no connection between lawless elements and our courts of justice. Our Municipal courts in particular must be conducted without the slightest question of the honesty and fairness of their decisions.

"The right of labor to unite for collective bargaining and the welfare of the individual member is established in our law. Seemingly the law enforcing agencies in this city and county have made no effort to prevent the gangster and underworld characters from muscling themselves into efficient and well-meaning labor organizations, and, from that foothold, engaging in a program of threats, intimidation, and crime."

EX-SENATOR THOMAS IS APPOINTED TO FILL SEAT LEFT BY BORAH

Boise, Idaho, Jan. 26 (AP).—Gov. C. A. Bottolfsen tonight appointed former United States Senator John Thomas, a Republican, to the senate seat left vacant by the death of William E. Borah.

John Thomas.

Thomas, who was a senator from 1928 to 1932 and a former Idaho Republican state chairman and former Idaho national committeeman for his party, accepted immediately.

"I am deeply appreciative to Gov. Bottolfsen for the opportunity to attempt to carry on Senator Borah's program of constructive legislation in behalf of our state and nation," Thomas said.

Thomas will serve until next January. At next fall's general election a senator to complete the term expiring in January, 1943, will be named.

LA SALLE STREET LIGHTING FOUND TO BE DEFICIENT

New Device Indicates Need of Traffic Artery.

The driving visibility provided by lights in La Salle street is grossly inadequate. It meets the standard requirement for a street with a flow of only 100 to 200 cars an hour. La Salle's rush hour load is 2,600 cars an hour.

This conclusion about La Salle street lighting was made yesterday by George W. Barton, traffic engineer and safety director of the Chicago Motor club. It was based on tests made Thursday night with a new portable street lighting evaluator which measures how well the motorist can see the pavement and obstacles ahead of him.

Tells Night Dangers.

Barton, emphasizing the need of modernization of the city's street lighting system, said that in 1939 there were 453 motor accident deaths at night in Chicago against 243 in daylight hours.

"The picture is more alarming," he said, "because there is less than a third as much traffic at night as during the day. In other words, it is five times as dangerous to drive on Chicago streets at night as during the day."

Barton mentioned a survey of Detroit's street lighting made recently by the city council committee on traffic and safety, headed by Ald. George D. Kelis [28th], to demonstrate the value of modernization.

The committee's report to the council said that Detroit reduced its night traffic fatalities in a 1¾ mile stretch of Grand River avenue from 13 for the three-year period preceding the installation of high visibility lights to two for the succeeding three years.

Compares Two Highways.

In the last three years, according to Barton, 19 persons have been killed at night in La Salle street, which is 1½ miles long. He said that La Salle and Grand River were roughly comparable in pavement width and height and spacing of lamp posts, except that Grand River, with 70 per cent as much traffic during rush hours, has three times as much driving visibility at night.

Detroit's system, which uses incandescent lamps, now covers 300 miles of streets, said Ald. Kells. Chicago, in contrast, is now installing its first modernized incandescent system in a quarter mile stretch in the grade separation at Western avenue and 31st street.

Figures prepared by Leslie J. Sorenson, city traffic engineer, show that while the new high-visibility fixtures being used cost $17, as against $2 for the old style of reflector, $8 a year can be saved in electricity.

Improved Lights Cut Traffic Toll

(Story in adjoining column.)

In criticizing the lighting of La Salle street, George W. Barton, safety director of the Chicago Motor club, yesterday cited the reduction in motor fatalities achieved in Detroit, Mich., by improving street lighting.

With inadequate lights, a stretch of one and three-fourths miles of Grand River avenue, Detroit, was the scene of thirteen motor fatalities in three years.

After high visibility lights were installed, there were only two motor fatalities on the same stretch of street in a three year period.

HORNER BOBS UP AGAIN TO SPEAK FOR THIRD TERM

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 26 [Special].—Gov. Henry Horner made has second surprise public appearance within 48 hours today when he walked, unannounced, into a meeting of the Illinois Democratic Editorial association here. He told the assembled editors he was seeking a third term "because all I've got in the world is Illinois."

The governor's previous surprise appearance was at a meeting of the State Fair association, where he made his first speech in months. At that time, and again today, State Treasurer Louie E. Lewis was at Horner's side. This recalled the many times he has been in the governor's company recently and the reported desire of his chief to slate him as lieutenant governor rather than the incumbent, John Stelle.

Stelle also was on the stump today, addressing the Young Democrats of Franklin county at a rally in West Frankfort, where he made a plea for Democratic harmony.

OHIO-ERIE CANAL WOULD WEAKEN RAILS, SAYS ICC

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce commission asserted today that construction of the long projected $240,000,000 Lake Erie-Ohio river canal might so weaken the railroads as to prevent them from meeting the needs of the public for efficient and safe transportation.

The statement was made in a report to President Roosevelt. The ICC was asked for a report a year ago, after the board of engineers for rivers and harbors had told the President the project could not be justified if the railroads would reduce their rates by an average of 29 cents a ton.

The report concluded that at least 56,000,000 tons of traffic a year would be affected and the gross revenue loss of the railroads would be about $35,000,000 a year and possibly more. It also said that the railroads have ample line and terminal capacity to carry any traffic that is likely to develop for many years to come.

NORWOOD PARK TOWNSHIP'S FIRE DEBT SET AT $1,000

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan said yesterday that Norwood Park township owes the city 1,000 for service from the fire department during 1939. Commissioner Corrigan is preparing for City Controler Robert B. Upham a statement of work done in 1939 by the department for outside communities.

Under the city code a fee of $20 for the first hour and $15 for each additional hour is charged for the services of each squad working on a fire outside the city limits. Commissioner Corrigan said that because of reciprocal activity between most of the bordering suburbs they are not billed for city service.

But Norwood Park township has no fire department at all, he said, and consequently cannot reciprocate.

WHEELER URGES ROOSEVELT TELL THIRD TERM AIM

Warns Failure to Do So Perils Party.

Columbus, O., Jan. 26 [Special].—Senator Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] called upon President Roosevelt today to announce his position at once on the third term question to save the Democratic party from disaster. Altho Wheeler was here to address the United Mine Workers' convention at the invitation of John L. Lewis, president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations and the U. M. W., and in so doing was permitting himself to be pushed into the limelight as a Democratic presidential possibility favored by Lewis, the senator said he would not run against or oppose the President should he decide to seek a third term.

Senator Wheeler speaking to United Mine Workers. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Favors Two Term Precedent.

Senator Wheeler made it clear, however, that he strongly hoped the President would abide by the two term precedent.

Lewis did not refer to Senator Wheeler as the miners' candidate but the senator's appearance at the convention demonstrated Lewis' warm support. Lewis arranged for the 2,400 delegates to file on the stage and shake the hand of the one Democratic presidential possibility singled out by Lewis for a convention invitation.

Lewis has used the miners' convention as an instrument of attack on Democratic presidential candidates he does not like, including President Roosevelt and Vice President John N. Garner.

Warns of Consequences.

Senator Wheeler made his remarks on the third-term question in an interview.

"In my judgment," he said, "if President Roosevelt wants the nomination, he will get it. If he wants the nomination he should say so. I think it would be better for the Democratic party to say so now if he wants the nomination. The longer the situation runs, the more chaotic conditions within the party becomes. It can only lead to disaster if the confusion continues up to the time of convention."

The senator said he had not yet made up his mind, when asked whether he would wait until the President definitely withdrew before announcing his own expected presidential candidacy.

"I would be happy to have the support of Mr. Lewis and any one else interested in preserving democracy," Wheeler said.

Urges Job Solution.

In his convention address Wheeler said unemployment is "America's No. 1 problem." Only thru government leadership, he said, and solution of "economic absurdities" can unemployment be ended, prosperity assured, and "American ideals of industrial and political democracy" achieved.

After solution of "economic absurdities," designated by the senator as price maintenance to protect profits; failure to use scientific discoveries for the nation's welfare, and an economic management that produces too much or too little, Wheeler declared that these tasks remain:

1—Expansion instead of restriction of production; 2—A constant lowering of living costs instead of artificial prices; 3—Steady production levels rather than recurrent shutdowns and unemployment; and 4—Substituting for 10 million jobless "a busy, able-bodied population while our youth are educated and our aged retired to security."

GIRL WHOSE MARRIAGE TO BROTHER IS VOIDED AWAITS BABY'S BIRTH

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 26 [Special].—Virginia Wolfe Williamson, 18 years old, was back home with her foster parents today awaiting the birth of her baby after her marriage to her brother was declared void yesterday by Judge Wilfred Bradshaw in the Juvenile court.

Virginia Williamson. [Assoc. Press Wirephoto.]

Virginia was married Jan. 6 to Leroy Williamson, 20, after the youth investigated records and concluded they were not related. They had been separated since Virginia's birth. When the girl was three weeks old, her mother placed her in an orphanage from which she later was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Wolfe. Young Williamson lived most of the time with his mother in another city until her death a few years ago.

Judge Bradshaw said evidence showed the boy and girl had the same mother and probably the same father. He said the child Virginia is expecting will be legitimate under the Indiana law.

WEIGH LICENSE PLEAS OF RAIDED TAVERN KEEPERS

Chairman Arthur S. Smith and Col. A. A. Sprague of the Illinois liquor control commission yesterday took under advisement the petition of 12 tavernkeepers in northwestern Cook county for renewal of their 1939-'40 state licenses.

At a hearing last Nov. 8 the commission refused to issue licenses and ordered the taverns closed after more than 100 slot machines were found by police in the places. The closing order, however, was suspended pending the rehearing yesterday.

Attorneys for the tavernkeepers contended the commission was unjustified in using the slot machine evidence as the police raids constituted illegal search and seizure. This argument was disputed by Assistant Attorney General Joseph A. Londrigan.

Mother of Two Indicted on Charge of Matricide

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26 (AP).—Mrs. Evelyn Irvine, mother of two young children, was indicted today by the Franklin county grand jury in the murder of her mother, Mrs. B. B. Jeffers, on Jan. 10. Mrs. Irvine was released on $15,000 bond by Circuit Judge William B. Ardery. Mrs. Jeffers, 78 years old, was found beaten to death in the basement of her home on her 500 acre cattle and tobacco farm near Frankfort. Mrs. Irvine, a heavy set woman of about 40, and her daughter, Lyle, 13, and a son, Bruce, 10, lived on the farm with Mrs. Jeffers, a widow.

Farmer Falls in Alighting from Auto; Fatally Injured

Kankakee, Ill., Jan. 26 [Special].—Fred Walsmith, 72 years old, Cabery farmer, started a half-mile walk to his mailbox yesterday. Offered a ride by Mrs. William Peterson, Kempton school teacher, he stood on the car's running board and in alighting fell on his head, suffering injuries from which he died today.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Europe has a set of primary interests which to us have none or a very remote relation. Hence she must be engaged in frequent controversies, the causes of which are essentially foreign to our concerns. Hence, therefore, it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities."—From the Farewell Address.

NO THANKS TO THE CITY HALL.

Commissioner of Public Works Hewitt reports a 43 per cent increase in traffic at the Chicago airport in 1939 as compared with the previous year. The increase was due to Chicago's natural position as a traffic center. No thanks are due the city administration for it.

The attitude of the city government in respect to airport improvements has offered no encouragement to the development of our natural advantages as an air traffic center. The 63d street airport is still unfinished and even when it is finished, Chicago will not have, as Mr. Hewitt claims, "the finest, most adequate, and busiest airport in the world." New York has the finest airport, and it was built largely with federal funds.

Not only has the Chicago airport extension been allowed to lag, but the plans for the island airport, which would give this city the most convenient air passenger terminal in the world, gather dust and not headway. New York can get all the federal money it wants for public improvements whether useful or not; Chicago can't get money for its vital needs.

The other day Mayor Kelly found a new occasion to urge Mr. Roosevelt to run again. Mr. Kelly has been most active in exercises of this sort, seldom missing an opportunity to fawn upon Mr. Roosevelt. It is singular, but true, that the more Mr. Kelly fawns and flatters, the more directly Mr. Roosevelt affronts him. It is difficult to believe that Mr. Kelly finds much satisfaction in these undignified and unrewarding proceedings and certainly the people of Chicago do not find them edifying.

RIVALS, NOT ENEMIES.

Mr. Lyons and Mr. Green are candidates for the Republican nomination to the governorship of Illinois. It should be entirely unnecessary to remind them that their common opponent is the Democratic party and its nominee and that nothing is to be gained and much may be lost if the Republican contenders attack each other rather than the opposition.

A candidate in a primary such as this one, who devotes his energies to promoting ill will, grudges, and strife within his own party, is evidencing incapacity for office. He is demonstrating an inadequate endowment of common sense. He can't distinguish between friend and foe. To defend such conduct by saying that the other fellow started it amounts to an aggravation of the offense, for it evidences a lack of self-control and political maturity.

Fortunately for the party and its candidates, the back-biting has not attained serious proportions. It is to be hoped and expected that the good sense of the rival candidates will restrain them and their more excitable friends from injuring the cause of good government which ought to be foremost in the minds of all Republicans.

GANDHI'S VALUE TO THE EMPIRE.

The censor apparently worked on the manifesto of Gandhi's Congress party before it got out of India. Enough of it came thru to reveal again that Gandhi's leadership in the independence movement is an influence invaluable to the empire at this time. The pledge the members of the Congress party are asked to take confirms their resolve to work for freedom, but qualifies their purpose in declaring that their methods will not be violent.

An India in armed revolt would be more than a military calamity to the empire. It would produce a moral confusion in which the announced British war aims in Europe—for liberty, against aggression, for peace and security—would assume strange shapes and utter strangled sounds. Great Britain could hardly afford to subdue revolting Indians. Military success would be almost as bad as failure.

If Gandhi's influence prevails the British will avoid a fight to restrict liberty where they could bestow it while they fight a war proclaimed as one for freedom.

The paragraph of the manifesto which the censor allowed to go out plainly revealed its derivation. It stated the rights of the Indians in language inspired by the American Declaration of Independence. Apparently some people seeking liberty still think the example of the United States is worthy of emulation. That's an encouraging sign for us.

FOUR AND A HALF RED CONGRESSMEN.

Twenty-one members of the house of representatives carried the Red banner for the hammer and sickle on the vote to extend the Dies investigation for another year with an appropriation for its work. They voted to kill the committee. Five of the soviet border patrol—more precisely four and one-half—were from Illinois. They were Adolph J. Sabath, Arthur W. Mitchell, and Raymond S. McKeough of Chicago, and Kent E. Keller of Ava and Frank W. Fries of Carlinville.

The Dies committee has made some enemies by disclosing the penetration of communism into the federal government, into important departments, labor organizations, political organizations, social movements, and public projects, but why should Illinois furnish nearly a fourth of the Red vote against the continuance of the investigation in a campaign year? This is not a Red state. Where does it get its Red congressmen?

Half a congressman Sabath said the Dies committee was wasting money. That remark revealed an unsuspected sense of humor. Waste of money was the least consequential of the offenses charged against the Sabath investigation of bondholders' committees. Mr. Sabath, having been investigated by Congressman Church and reported on to his discredit, may have formed a prejudice against this style of inquiry, believing that it can be carried too far. His vote against the Dies committee keeps perfect a discreditable record of disservice to America.

Congressman Mitchell's vote was, apparently, an indorsement of the activity of the communists among the people of his race. They have not won many converts, but seem to have put the congressman in the bag. He was there when his vote was needed. Congressman McKeough may have thought that he was defending the White House and the C. I. O. The New Deal has been giving the hat racks and closets a hasty once-over to see if any bonnets, rubbers, gloves, or overcoats had been forgotten which might reveal visits by friends of Mr. Stalin. They are not to use the front door for a while. When some one dropped a Red flag as a blessing above the head of John Lewis as he expounded the C. I. O. doctrine in Columbus, O., he yelled for the police. Was Mr. McKeough a bit superserviceable, or does he know that the New Deal-C. I. O. rebuffing of the Reds is just another hoax and fraud to deceive the people again?

Congressman Keller—Frog-pond Keller, the mosquito breeder of Crab Orchard lake, who flexes the pliant hinges of the knee every time he sees the shadow of a New Dealer on the pavement—must have known that the fellow travelers were not really untrue to the comrades and that he would not be out any money for his frog pond if he voted to kill the Dies investigation. Congressman Fries presents a puzzle. He has been in Washington three years and this is the first time any one except the federal paymaster knew he was there. Maybe he said "no" in his sleep.

THE PRICE OF WAR ORDERS.

A few days ago the convention of the National Canners' association in Chicago heard Maj. Paul Logan of the army's industrial college describe the government's plans for mobilizing the productive capacity of this country in time of war. He spoke of the stupendous quantities of goods which would be required over and above the ordinary needs of the country.

It is just possible that some of the men in the audience may have allowed themselves to think how pleasant it would be if those orders were now on the books. All the trouble of finding customers would be gone and with it all the hours of close figuring of costs. Profits would be assured and all the cares which beset the management of a business would be erased. It is not beyond possibility that the speech was intended to stimulate such thoughts, and so produce a favorable attitude toward war in the country.

Perhaps it is just as well, then, to remind the members of the major's audience that war will make them neither richer nor happier. If they make larger profits the government will take them away. There will be such an accumulation of national and private debt that generations will be required to stint themselves to pay it. There is a high probability that as a result of war private industry in this country will disappear. There is no doubt at all that war will impose dislocations of industry which will distort and distress our economy for at least a generation.

Neither capital nor labor will benefit from war, except momentarily. It should be unnecessary to add that the same war which brings a plentiful flow of orders to the factories will bring death and injury to tens of thousands of young Americans, and that this sacrifice, if we may judge from our last adventure in Europe, will contribute nothing to the solution of the world's problems.

These remarks are offered not because many business men have any illusions about this war. On the contrary, almost all the important associations of business men in the country have gone on record against participation. Still, it is well that no one should harbor any false notions on the subject; that every one should realize that war will impoverish the country and every one in it, and in the process destroy American liberty.

Editorial of the Day

TOO MANY STAMPS?

[Detroit Free Press.]

Are stamp collectors tiring of trying to keep up with the Joneses—Joneses in this instance meaning the commemorative issues with which the country is still being flooded?

The Philatelic agency in Washington is the post-office department's principal outlet to the trade, as well as to individual collectors.

And in 1939 the agency did only a little more than half the business it did in the fiscal year of 1936, according to Postmaster General Farley's annual report.

That would seem to indicate that too many new stamps are being issued every year for collectors to hope to keep their albums up to date without spending more for stamps than they can afford.

And yet the flood continues. The famous American series of seven groups of five stamps each will begin reaching the market late this month. The face value of these 35 stamps is $1.47. The face value of 35 sets of 4s is $5.88. That is a lot of money for most collectors to pay.

When money is as scarce for necessities as it is today, to say nothing of money for hobbies, this unceasing flood of new stamps places a heavy load on dealers as well as on individual collectors.

The falling off in the sale of stamps at the Philatelic agency seems to confirm what dealers and collectors have been saying for some time, viz., that overdoing the commemorative stamp business threatens to kill the goose that laid the golden egg.

POSTSCRIPT TO A BIRTHDAY.

This column forgot to celebrate the birthday of Robert Burns last Thursday, but it knows of two men who didn't. They are Robert Ross, British consul in Chicago, and Dr. William Ellery Leonard, famous among other things for a phobia that prevents him from leaving the University of Wisconsin campus. They put some heart into it, for it's their birthday, too.

* * *

"M'Tavish," our chief minstrel in the Doric dialect, would have piped a few strains, no doubt, if he hadn't been down with the flu.

* * *

President Franklyn Bliss Snyder of Northwestern university may have done a few handsprings in private on the natal day, for he is a Robert Burns expert.

* * *

Let no one speak of Scotia's most popular bard as "Bobby." It's regarded as vulgar, cheap, and impertinent. It simply isn't done in the best Caledonian circles. The American addiction to this bad habit causes Scotties to grit their teeth.

* * *

Prof. Leonard's phobia, which is frequently the subject of newspaper articles, is a classic of psychological lore. He has described it in "The Locomotive God," and the passage has become imbedded in textbooks. Here is his testimony:

"At times this emotional effect remains merely a diffused state of terror, in intensity running the whole scale from vague anxiety to intensest feeling of impending death; and the agonized mind stands balked of any explanation whatever. . . . My phobic seizures at their worst approach any limits of terror that the human mind is capable of in the actual presence of death in its most horrible forms."

HISTORY OF A MARRIAGE.

"Her husband died last week.
She must be terribly lonely.
Happily married fifty-eight years.
Now she just sits there—alone."

Alone? I should say not!
He's right here now with me
Same as he's always been—

Same as he was in December, '81,
When we drove to Marshall
To catch the train to Connecticut;
And what a house warming they gave us
There in the little parsonage
They furnished for the young minister
And his bride!

Same as he was on that long ride
Out to Washington Territory
To become a home missionary
When the train boy called
"Fresh apples right from the East
—Right from Ioway!"
And when he showed me
How to use a shotgun
During anti-Chinese riots in Seattle.

Same as he was when we came back
To Springfield, Illinois,
Where he had the governor's church
And the governor's wife called on me
And we learned about Mr. Lincoln
From his friend, Mr. Oldroyd.

Same as he was when his voice failed
And we tried life insurance
And farming
And a country newspaper
And farming again and insurance again
And real estate.

Same as he was when that big car
Crashed me thru the window
Of our little model T
And put me in the hospital for weeks.

Same as he was when our youngest
Went to war and came back again
And took the service flag
Out of our window.

He wouldn't leave me alone a minute.
He's right here, same as always.

"That's a long time—fifty-eight years.
She must be dreadfully alone."

Casual.

So You Are Fond of Chop Suey?

Why not teach your readers a little Chinese? For example:

Hallo mà, how are you?; quong yee fatt toy, Happy New Year; ting là, good-by; yatt, yee, sam, see, ung, loog, tott, bott, geow, the numerals from 1 to 9.

That's all I know. Ting là. C. O. R.

The Most Grewsome Jest in the World.

From "Agent of Death," memoirs of Robert G. Elliott, New York state executioner, this fact is plucked:

A condemned murderer named Appell took his seat in the electric chair with the remark:

"You're going to see a baked apple in about a minute."

Nobody laughed.

WINTER PLAYBOY.

A beach, a chair, a striped umbrella,
A dreamy, sylphlike Cinderella,
And yon a bay of sapphire blue,
A thermos jug; sunglasses, too;
Balmy the breeze on my willing cheek,
And liberty for a solid week.
Yes, a view like this is picturesque;
It's here in the folder on my desk!

Dow Richardson.

A Wise Guy at Heinegebubeler's.

Regarding Heinegebubeler's [Jan. 23]: Ah, the happy days when I was a "wise guy"! I remember the time when I took a group of visiting Hoosiers to Heinie's place and let them fall for a few of the tricks. Then we went down into the basement to look at the art gallery, and a scarcity of chairs induced me to perch on an inviting keg. It had a floating head which promptly sank in water, to my utter chagrin, and the Hoosiers had a laugh at the "wise guy." C. T. R.

With "Gone with the Wind" on one side of the street and "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" on t' other, or close to it, the Rue Randolph begins to look like the Mason and Dixon line.

THUMBSUCKING A NATURAL TENDENCY.

THUMBSUCKING on the part of their offspring is responsible for too much agitation among parents. We must consider it an innate tendency as all babies instinctively put things into their mouths. Of course, if a child is hungry there may be some excuse for the custom and care must be taken to provide adequate feedings. Should it continue beyond the second year of life the chances are that the cause will be found in fatigue, illness, or because the youngster has suffered disappointment or overcorrection. In other words, it is employed as a makeshift for comfort.

But every tot indulges at some time or other. Furthermore, there are many similar movements, such as twisting the hair or tugging at an ear. Thus it is that in the course of giving up the habit another, equally annoying, may replace it.

We may look upon the inclination as a natural response. The infant wants food and he has learned that there is no better source than the mother's breast or the nipple-capped bottle. The muscles of the cheeks and the tongue are thus brought into play. As a sequence—in the absence of his ordinary supply of nutriment—he will pull away contentedly at a finger or a toe.

Is it such a pernicious practice? The old belief that deformed jaws and protruding teeth will follow seems to be without foundation. While some difficulties with occlusion may be encountered, in order to produce a bad result a good deal of pressure on the hard palate would be required. Many authorities agree that if the tendency can be abated before the permanent teeth come in no abnormality will ensue. This means that at first we need not regard it with apprehension. We have all heard stories of the frightful consequences—curvature of the spine, enlargement of tonsils and adenoids, deformed fingers, all sorts of digestive upsets [colic, etc.]. For the most part these fears are unjustified—even absurd.

It is probably safe to say that far more damage to the nervous system is done by constant discipline and scolding than by the practice itself. We can drive our progeny into types of misbehavior quite inconsistent with their normal dispositions. Nor is there any connection with the sex life of the boy or girl—despite the alarm sounded by certain writers. Altho the act typifies the desire for consolation, there isn't the slightest ground for assuming a bizarre relationship.

The newborn infant will involuntarily draw into the mouth everything that comes into contact with the lips. Dry objects may be sucked for half an hour or more or until the muscles become fatigued. As soon, however, as the tot learns that nourishment is not forthcoming, the period will be abbreviated and it is but natural to substitute a finger. When the little stomach is well filled relaxation and sleep will come. One of the obvious signs of too little to eat is the insertion of the thumb into the mouth after a brief snooze.

By and large, then, we may rest assured that the trick is neither dangerous nor is it likely to lead to disaster. We may look upon it as signifying a lack of satisfaction—first, for food; second, for "mothering." Placing the tot in a crib and propping up the bottle is just not enough. There is a craving for the touch of mother's hand—the warmth of her body.

We must not expect our little ones to rivet their attention for hours at a time upon one thing. Change is essential. This is why we utilize more than one toy or suggest devices which call for taking off and putting on, such as dressing and undressing a doll or piling up blocks and then tumbling them down.

The answer, of course, lies in giving the child something to do that is sufficiently entertaining so that the demand for solace will not appear. I recall very clearly a little 4 year old who resorted to this childish trait whenever he was ill. With recovery, he forgot all about his thumb.

A YOUTHFUL LEVEL.

C. U. writes: Sometimes when I go to my physician my blood pressure registers 128. At other times it is 110. What is the explanation of this variation?

REPLY.

This variation is within normal limits. When one is active and "keyed up" the reading will be higher. Thank your lucky stars that your level is youthful.

HERNIA SYMPTOM.

J. T. writes: Whenever I cough I have a slight impact on the left side in the inguinal region. Is there a treatment?

REPLY.

You are probably developing a hernia. Whether it will respond to the injection method or whether surgery is necessary can be determined by your physician.

ANEMIC YOUTH.

T. B. writes: Why is it that young persons are more often anemic than the middle aged or the elderly? They usually eat more.

REPLY.

On the contrary, young people—on the average—are less anemic than their elders. Youth is associated with better health.

PROTECT EYES.

F. M. writes: I am an arc welder. Can the rays from this electric arc affect the eyes?

REPLY.

Yes, if the eyes are not protected. Wear the goggles with which you are provided. No harm can then ensue. A brilliant light, regardless of its source, may be injurious.

PROSTATE GLAND.

P. R. writes: In what conditions is surgery of the prostate gland indicated?

REPLY.

Whenever the enlargement interferes with the complete emptying of the urinary bladder—surgery may be necessary. In some cases, glandular extracts are helpful.

MUCUS FORMING FOODS.

H. W. writes: Is there any truth in the statement that certain foods are mucus forming and should be avoided by those with lung and bronchial ailments?

REPLY.

Not a vestige!

YELLOW FINGER NAILS.

A. W. writes: What causes the nails to turn yellow?

REPLY.

Cigaret smoke is the usual cause. In addition, jaundice, too many carrots in the diet, and chemicals should be considered.

TYPHOID TESTS.

B. S. writes: After typhoid fever, how many negative tests are necessary before one can be sure he is germ free?

REPLY.

Three successive negative tests are sufficient.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand.—Doctors who are drafted for service abroad with the expeditionary forces from Australia and New Zealand will receive aid from their stay at home colleagues if present plans mature.

When a doctor enlists he usually puts himself in a lower income group than that in which he has stood in the past. But many of his expenses remain the same. He may have to pay rent for his consulting office, the salary of his staff, and the fee of the doctor who temporarily takes over his practice. Also he has to provide for his family, and most doctors in this part of the world have heavy life insurance premiums to pay.

Because of these things the British Medical association in New Zealand and a joint committee of the Royal Australian colleges of surgeons and physicians have prepared schemes to give monetary aid to their colleagues who leave on war service. The Australian plan limits the aid to consultant and specialist doctors, and proposes to supplement their income up to a maximum of $10,000 a year. The New Zealand scheme proposes to make the income of any doctor enlisting up to a level of at least $5,000 a year, whether he is a specialist or not.

Both schemes will be financed by a levy on the doctors who remain in the country. In New Zealand this levy will be from $50 to $150 a year. In Australia the amount of the benefits is still emphasized as tentative and subject to experience with the plan and the ability of those medical men who remain to make contributions. There the intention is to tax madical men 50 per cent of all extra income they receive in wartime because of the doctor shortage.

Besides this, all Australians must pay a 1 per cent levy on the taxable income earned by them in the year ended June 30 last. If the amount received from this levy and the excess income tax prove inadequate the tax will be stepped up to 2 per cent on all those with incomes up to $10,000 a year, 3 per cent on the $15,000 a year men, and so on till 5 per cent is imposed on all incomes of more than $20,000.

In both countries the schemes came about, it appears, because the governments resolved not to pay the so-called professional allowance of about $5 a day which, because of their special position, doctors were allowed in the world war. Since the plans were laid the New Zealand government has decided to pay this allowance in the future. The Australian plan, however, made provision for the allowance to be deducted from payments due under the mutual aid scheme.

In Australia and New Zealand the general question of sending doctors away to the war is being carefully scanned. In the world war these countries were hard hit largely because of the excessively high mortality of doctors with their troops at Gallipoli. At one time the Australian and New Zealand forces on Turkish soil were reported to be without a single medical officer.

Because of this high casualty rate many other doctors were mobilized and sent abroad, and after the evacuation of Gallipoli squads of medical men chafed in uselessness in Egypt. Australia and New Zealand are determined that that shall not happen again. New Zealand already has prepared lists of doctors who may volunteer for active service if they wish, and also lists of men who are in no circumstances to be permitted to leave the country.

What is most feared by the doctors themselves is that they may be called upon to do air raid precaution work in England. Few medical men object to serving abroad with the army of their country, but most of them would not relish being pinned down to one part of England as part of a casualty clearing system working after German air raids.

ESTATE PROBATE.

Chicago, Jan. 18 [Legal Friend of the People].—If one of the heirs of an unprobated estate in South Dakota lives and dies in Nebraska without making a will, does his share have to go thru court in Nebraska or South Dakota? Will it complicate matters if it has not been probated? This person has no property, is single and has no known debts in Nebraska. The person leaving the farm died intestate five and one-half years ago, but on account of poor times has not been probated, as he left no debts. M. T.

The necessity for probate would depend on whether there is real estate and on the attitude of parties in possession of personal property. If probate is necessary, the home jurisdiction would be proper as to personal property, but as to real estate, steps might be necessary where the property is located. In general, we would advise a personal interview with an attorney.

THE R. O. T. C. MEDAL.

North Chicago, Ill., Jan. 24.—The writer is the proud father of one of the members of the Waukegan Township High school R. O. T. C. unit to receive your Chicago Tribune medal last evening.

You must know by this time that the effect of the medal is something more than just the immediate pleasure of receiving it, for the boy.

In the case of my own son—as well as the others, I presume—it has meant at least one semester of preparation not only in the military phase but in scholastic things as well. He has been striving for the medal for three semesters, considering it an honor to be worked for and merited.

The effect of military training on the young man is more far reaching than some may think. It reaches into his daily life and contact with others, his willingness to mix with others, to work with others in harmony, his habits in neatness, cleanliness, thinking, his training for leadership. It is for these reasons, then, that the writer, an ex-service man, has been so much in favor of military training in our high schools.

So the medal is serving a very useful purpose and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which I read regularly, but very often disagree with as to some of its policies, is to be commended for its interest in the development of character and citizenship in the youth of Chicagoland.

WILLIAM H. WOODARD.

CHINA AND FINLAND.

Knox, Ind., Jan. 23.—There is little if any difference between Russia's treatment of Finland and Japan's treatment of China. Both Russia and Japan are carrying on an undeclared and savage war against innocent and helpless peoples. Most Americans, including myself, are anxious to send help to the Finns, but nobody seems to care what happens in China. Instead we are sending Japan vast quantities of war supplies. China was our friend and customer long before Finland became a republic.

What ails China, or ourselves?

JOHN L. MOORMAN.

COLD BUSES.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—If you want some good photos picturing the horrors of transportation in zero weather it is by no means necessary that you send to Finland for them. Just have one of your photographers take a ride uptown or downtown on the upper part of one of our much glorified 10 cent per ride buses. The only heat that ever is noticeable up there comes from the cuss words of the half frozen passengers. As a patron of these buses I should like to ask whether their charter does not obligate them to furnish heat in winter? If not, why not?

A BUS RIDER.

ANOTHER FAST TRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—And while you are discussing those fast streamlined trains in the middle west, how about some of the iron horses carrying standard steel equipment which run as fast as any of them?

The Chicago and Eastern Illinois Zipper makes the 290.4 mile run to St. Louis in five hours, usually backing into the Union station there from 5 to 10 minutes earlier. And on the north bound run the Zipper makes it to Chicago in 4:55. Not even the lightweight streamliners do any better on this run. HOWARD G. MAYER.

BURIED TALENT.

Chicago, Jan. 22.—Will some one please explain to me why my son, who plays the acordion well, cannot get in amateur programs whether in the theaters or on the air.

What chance has any good amateur got if he is barred from all these affairs? I and many more like me feel it is very unfair to our children. [MRS.] A. M.

AMERICA AND ENGLAND.

Chicago, Jan. 23.—THE TRIBUNE slips up once in a while and does not tell England how to run itself or the war. Did it ever occur to you that England and Ireland may be able to satisfactorily work out their own problems without your help? Or did it ever enter your calculations that should the allies be losing the war it will become our war? Why knock everything and so persistently go back 50 to hundreds of years to find some atrocious crime England may have committed? We could find in our own history things that might smell a little. Yes, we should be supporting the allies and Finland with arms and ammunition and thereby stave off the day when our boys will have to go to war if for no other reason than to protect our own country. Just ease up on England; also allow that after all the people in the north of Ireland may want England to govern and protect them. Otherwise they would have come in with the Free State.

R. E. WAGNER.

ILL-TIMED APPLAUSE.

Cicero, Ill., Jan. 23.—Last evening while attending a movie I witnessed a rather pitiful display of ignorance concerning our American flag. On the screen appeared a scene of our flag flying at half mast, indicating the death of an army officer who had been cruelly murdered by a native in the previous scene, and to my astonishment the majority of the audience loudly applauded.

How Our States Got Their Names

18. MARYLAND.

Maryland was named after Queen Henrietta Maria, wife of King Charles I., by Lord Baltimore, founder of the colony. Tradition says that Baltimore had wished to name it after Charles, but could not do so because Carolina already had been named. Charles I., the story goes, suggested naming it after his queen. Maryland was one of the original 13 states.

Maryland state seal. Farmer [left] and fisherman support shield bearing crests of founder's families. Above is earl's coronet, surmounted by helmet and two pennons. The motto is "Fatti Maschi Parole Femine." Ermine mantle is background for shield. Date [1632] refers to granting of colonial charter. Inscription around edge means "You have crowned us with the shield of your good will."

The Maryland motto is "Fatti Maschi Parole Femine" [Manly deeds, womanly words]. The state song is "Maryland, My Maryland." The state bird is the Baltimore oriole and the flower the brown-eyed Susan. Maryland's nicknames are the Cockade, Monumental, Old Line, Queen, and Oyster state. The Old Line state probably derives from the "old line" regiments supplied by Maryland during the civil war, and the Cockade cognomen from the cockades which the members of the Old Maryland Line wore in their hats. Another explanation for the Old Line nickname is that Maryland was the early dividing line between grants to William Penn and Lord Baltimore. The Queen nickname may come from the fact that Maryland was named for a queen, the Monumental state from the fact that Baltimore is known as the Monumental city.

STATE WILL AID CHICAGO'S WPA JOBS IN DRIBLETS

Refuses 8 Million Grant to Sponsor Year's Program.

The Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday turned down the plea of city officials for $8,480,748 towards a sponsor's share of WPA projects for the rest of 1940. The action followed a five hour meeting in the Merchandise mart.

As an alternative, the commissioners authorized an allotment of sufficient funds to cover WPA jobs until March 1. Further allocations will depend on whether the allotment to the city for the month is less than the total amount which would have been paid on direct relief to those persons shifted from relief rolls to WPA. Recent state legislation provides that the IERC may use part of its funds to sponsor local projects, provided relief rolls are thus lightened.

Hewitt Requests Funds.

The request for funds was made by Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, and members of the city council subcommittee on relief, headed by Ald. John J. Grealis [44th].

A long range program which would put 28,827 reliefers on WPA thruout the year called for $14,516,445 as the sponsor's share, of which the city would be able to scrape up only $6,035,697. The remainder represented the amount asked from the commission, which would amount to an estimated $24.98 per man each month.

Under the commission's plan, the IERC will contribute $17.86 per man a month until March 1. This is nearly $12 less than the average relief check. The average monthly salary on WPA will be about $57, officials estimated.

The total amount to be allotted for February, however, will be established after Hewitt and Lawrence H. Jacobson, Chicago WPA director, determine how many men now on Chicago relief administration rolls can be used on projects for the coming month. They will confer on this today, Hewitt said.

Statement by Lyons.

The basic figure of $17.86 was suggested by Leo M. Lyons. IERC executive secretary and Chicago relief administrator. "I believe the higher scale would make us commit ourselves so that in case of any future emergency we might have to cut direct relief allotments in order to keep our long term agreement," he said. Present relief budgets represent 80 per cent of minimum needs.

E. E. Ferebee, CRA statistician, reported that nearly half of 43,992 cases surveyed in the last month were ruled ineligible for WPA employment. In 15,865 cases referrals were withheld by the CRA and 12,274 additional cases were rejected by WPA. The total number ruled ineligible was 29,139.

Because 6,164 were aliens, they were rejected, the report showed. Nearly 13,000 were rejected because of physical disabilities. The number of persons employed on city sponsored WPA projects at present is 37,602, an increase of 6,414 since last October.

FOUR SUITS ASK $120,000 UNDER DRAM SHOP ACT

Three women and a man filed suits yesterday in Superior and Circuit courts asking total damages of $120,000 under the dram shop act.

Mrs. Mary Morean, 34 years old, 6338 South Elizabeth street, sued the Drexel Wine and Liquor Stores for $50,000, alleging that her husband, Todd, was killed in a motorcycle accident on July 6 after drinking in a tavern operated by the company at 1044 East 43d street.

Miss Helen Anderson, 32, of 611 Barry avenue, asked $50,000 from Robert Schuppel, owner of a tavern at 616 North Clark street, on the ground that a drunken patron assaulted her on Feb. 19.

Mrs. Rose Kewish, 44, of 3223 North Monticello avenue, sued John Stankiewicz, owner of a tavern at 3439 Milwaukee avenue, for $10,000, charging that two intoxicated customers knocked her out of her chair on July 16, 1938.

Merle C. Hutchison, 900 Rush street, asked damages of $10,000 from Ye Olde Cellar, 322 North Michigan avenue, alleging that a drunken customer knocked out several of his teeth on Dec. 9.

Train Hits Auto; Carries It Mile and Half; One Killed

Danville, Ill., Jan. 26 (AP).—A man was killed and two women injured seriously today when their automobile was struck by a Big Four freight engine and carried almost a mile and a half on the cowcatcher. French Daniels, 55 years old, of Stone Bluff, Ind., died a few minutes after the train crew removed him from the wreckage. His niece, Esther Amick, 28, driver of the car, and her mother, Mrs. Isobelle Amick, were in a critical condition in a hospital. They were en route to Collison, Ill., to attend a funeral. The locomotive struck their car in the middle and it balanced precariously on the pilot.

PLANE CRASHES FEWER; SCIENCE REDUCES SPINS

"Dead" Air Blown Off Top of Wings.

New York, Jan. 26 [Special].—The Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences closed its annual meeting here today with a report that involuntary dives and spins, which have accounted for more than half of all the recent airplane fatalities, have been practically eliminated after 10 years of research.

The cause of loss of "lift" had long been recognized as the failure of the air flow to follow the upper surface of an airplane wing, due to the accumulation of "dead air" on top of the wing. Various devices had been adopted to blow off this dead air at a rearward tangent. But it remained for Dr. E. A. Stalker, head of the department of aeronautical engineering at the University of Michigan, to solve the problem by sucking the dead air thru the wing by means of a slot running along the wing top.

Gets Rid of Dead Air.

Dr. Stalker's device gets rid of the air sucked in by blowing it out thru a group of short slots near the wing tip.

The aerodynamics and experimental data supporting this solution of an old problem were discussed and generally accepted by an audience of 200 of the foremost United States aeronautical engineers and foreign observers.

The aeronautical experts also heard an exploration of the high speed possibilities of the future by Frederic Flader, chief engineer, and E. Rushmore Child, chief aerodynamicist, of the Curtiss aeroplane division of the Curtiss-Wright corporation.

Speed of 560 Miles an Hour.

They predicted with confidence that service airplanes of the military type where speed now is being pushed up rapidly will reach 480 miles an hour in two years, and 560 in six years.

They set the ultimate speed of the fastest possible propeller driven airplane of normal design at 650 miles an hour—a speed higher than ever before predicted.

These speeds were described as service speeds, they are not to be confused with the special "shortburst" secured by the Messerschmidt 109-R in Germany last April by pushing the engine to twice its designed power rating and using dry ice to keep it from melting long enough to clock 469 miles an hour over a three kilometer course.

TRUCK SMASHED BY STREAMLINER; DRIVER IS KILLED

Victim on His Way to Look for a Job.

A young truck driver, who had just started out to look for a job, was killed yesterday when his truck was struck by the Rocket, streamlined Rock Island train, at 119th street, a block east of Vincennes avenue, near Calumet Park.

Homewood county highway police identified the truck driver as Jack Cazada, 20 years old, 319 East 116th street. Police said the blinker warning lights at the crossing were operating.

Front of Engine Smashed.

The wreckage of the truck was carried for four blocks by the train, which was traveling south at 80 miles an hour. The front of the Diesel engine was smashed, and the train was delayed for nearly two hours on its run to Denver until a steam locomotive could be attached.

John Petrauskas, 17 years old, 2344 West 72d street, was killed and two companions were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding struck a parked car near 25th and State streets and then careened into a light post. Petrauskas was thrown to the pavement when the car door opened. Those injured are Frank Jonik, 23, of 7131 South Campbell avenue, and Stanley Maskolunas, 22, of 4634 South Whipple street, the driver.

Girl Killed in Evanston.

Miss Evelyn Balmes, 18 years old, 1319 Greenleaf street, Evanston, was killed by an automobile at Ridge avenue and Greenleaf street in the suburb. Miss Ruth Cront of 790 Elm street, Winnetka, driver of the car, said Miss Balmes walked against a traffic light.

Mrs. Gisella Furst, 56 years old, 1110 South Francisco avenue, died in the Mount Sinai hospital of a skull fracture suffered Thursday when she was struck by an automobile near her home. The driver was Irving Weinberg, 3855 Arthington street. Mrs. Furst and her husband, Morris, came to Chicago from Germany six weeks ago to live with their son, Arnold.

Mrs. Anna Ziaja, 69 years old, 2320 North Laramie avenue, was fatally injured when she was struck by a car at Lockwood and Fullerton avenues. The driver was Carl Weinberg, 2240 North Tripp avenue.

Falls Against Car; Dies.

William Clever, 76 years old, 2315 North Cicero avenue, a novelty salesman, died in county hospital of injuries incurred Jan. 15 when he fell against an automobile while crossing the street in front of his home. John Smolinski, 4652 Milwaukee avenue, was the driver.

Two young persons in a party of five were injured last night when their automobile was struck by a Wabash railroad passenger train at 95th street and 51st avenue, Oak Lawn. The train sliced off the trunk of the car. Those injured were Gretchen Nieman, 15 years old, 2719 South Hamlin avenue, and Emil Rusnak, 18, of 2716 South Hamlin avenue.

On Christmas day five members of one family were killed at the same crossing.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 67 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 51 were killed in Chicago, where 1,577 were injured in the same period.

Police said he was intoxicated.

GASOLINE TAXES BOOST TOURING COSTS IN SOUTH

Mississippi Levy Totals 10 Cents.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26.—The high cost of gasoline, because of excessive taxation, seems to be a deterrent to motor travel in the south and southeast where automobile tourists spend approximately a quarter of a billion dollars each year. In a drive in the Tribune road car from Chicago to Florida and thence here, complaints against fuel prices were heard from Northern visitors. Station owners and attendants also complained against the excise rates.

Chicago Price 17.8c.

The highest price we paid for gas on the trip was 23.3 cents a gallon for regular grades on the Mississippi gulf coast. We were told that some stations sell for 22 cents, but we didn't see it. This included 10 cents of taxes, consisting of 6 cents' state, 1 cent federal, 2 cents county, and 1 cent city.

In Chicago the tank was filled with the same grade of fuel for 17.8 cents a gallon, including a federal and state tax totaling 4 cents.

In Mobile, Ala., we paid 22.6 cents a gallon, including 6 cents exacted by the state, 1 cent by the United States, 1 cent by the city, and 1 cent by the county.

The Florida prices we encountered ranged from 20 to 22.5 cents. The state tax in Florida is 7 cents and a few cities have added a penny, making the total, including the 1 cent federal tax, 9 cents a gallon.

The prices we paid in other states, listed with their state and federal taxes, are as follows: Indiana, 19 cents with 5 cents tax; Kentucky, 20 cents with 6 cents tax; Tennessee, 21 cents with 8 cents tax; Georgia, 22 cents with 7 cents tax, and Louisiana, 21.5 cents with 6 cents tax.

Louisiana Cuts Rate.

This Louisiana purchase was made in New Orleans. The state last October cut its rate from 7 to 5 cents. New Orleans, disregarding its tourist trade, has a 2 cent city tax.

Quite a few tourists were noted keeping a record of their state gas tax payments for deductions on their income tax reports. Since leaving Chicago two weeks ago, with still another 961 miles to go taxes for gasoline used in the Tribune car have totaled $10.70.

The high excise rates, in almost all instances, are due to appropriations of part of the revenue to purposes other than streets and highways.

BRITISH SHIP DOCKS AT N. Y. WITH MINE SWEEPING GADGETS

New York, Jan. 26 [Special].—The British liner Samaria gave New York City water front workers their first sight of mine sweeping paravanes today when she steamed into port with 149 passengers.

The vessel carried four paravanes, which look like torpedoes with airplane wings. They have saw-tooth knives in their noses and the serrated edges cut the chains to which mines are attached. When the mines float to the surface the sailors pot them with rifles.

Under orders of the British admiralty, however, the crew of the Samaria was not allowed to discuss the operation of the devices or tell whether any mines had been destroyed on the voyage across the Atlantic.

Among the passengers aboard the Samaria were six citizens of the United States and 125 refugees from Germany and central Europe.

DAIRIES PLEDGE DRIVERS AID IN MILK PRICE CUT

Act to Save Routes from Store Sale Peril.

tomers," one driver explained yesterday. "For some customers, a matter of sales tax will keep them happy. But for others, you have to meet the store price and pay the difference out of your own pocket. A driver hates to lose a customer, because if you lose many of them, you haven't any route."

The dairies have consolidated a number of routes, eliminated others, and have improved delivery systems thru study of where horses, electric trucks, and gasoline trucks may be used most profitably.

The change in Chicago's milk buying habits was described last night as a by product of the depression.

By 1932 purchasing power of the consumers had declined, and producers found it hard to get a market for all their milk. Many of them set up milk depots at the edge of the city. They sold milk for 25 cents a gallon to Chicagoans who motored out for it.

New Deal Tried It's Hand.

The market then went thru periods of attempted price control by the New Dealers, whose experiments with milk ended in 1935 and were not resumed until last September, when the federal milk marketing agreement went into effect, controling prices paid to producers.

Boom times for the independent or cut rate milk distributors began in 1936. They had two advantages over the unionized dairies. They had no price agreement with the farmers and could shop around, paying less for their milk. Their labor costs were low, for they employed non-union help. The still have the latter advantage, but pay the standard price to producers.

The organized companies also pay the social security tax for their employés, an expense not incurred by the independent vendors.

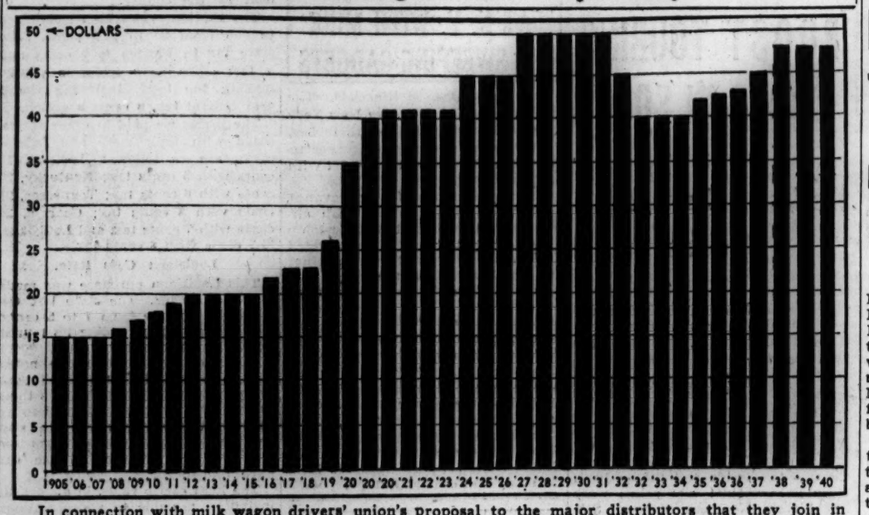
New Plan Starts Price War.

On Jan. 1 the Bowman company and Borden-Weiland announced a new plan of stimulating home delivery which in a few days, however, is said to have developed into a boomerang, setting off the current store price war.

The new plan was the delivery of milk to a few large residential sections in two quart and one gallon glass containers. The price was 11 cents a quart in the two quart size and 9½ cents a quart in the gallon jug.

Seven smaller dairies hastened to adopt the plan. The independents acted quickly. On Jan. 3 they cut the price of their milk sold in stores to 8½ cents. Bowman, Borden-Weiland, and the others then followed suit, lowering their prices to storekeepers so their milk also could be sold at 8½ cents.

Issues in Milk Fight Told Graphically



In connection with milk wagon drivers' union's proposal to the major distributors that they join in putting cut rate stores out of business, the course of the basic weekly wage of the drivers from 1905 to 1940 is traced here.

1.8c FOR COMPANY'S OPERATING COST AND PROFIT

PRESIDENT PAYS, BUT MUST MISS LINCOLN DINNER

President Roosevelt sent his regrets yesterday that he will be unable to attend the Lincoln day "two-bit" banquet Feb. 12 at Naperville in Du Page county. Instead the President said he would retain his two tickets by sending two 25 cent stamps with the portraits of Republican President William McKinley.

The President's regrets were sent to Bernard M. Long in a letter signed by Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President. "The President hopes very much," the letter read, "that the dinner will be successful in every way and that your chosen speaker for this occasion will make the subject assigned to him, 'How to Keep a State from Going Haywire in the Presidential Year,' crystal clear to all in attendance."

The scheduled speaker is Representative Charles Plumley [R., Vt.].

CITY FILES REPLY TO SUIT OPPOSING MILK CARTON BAN

The city filed its reply in federal court yesterday to the suit of the Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., seeking to force the city to permit the use of paper milk containers. The case is pending before Jacob I. Grossman, master in chancery, who will make a recommendation to the court.

The city argues that prohibition of the paper containers in the interests of public health is a valid exercise of its powers. The brief, drawn by Walter V. Schaefer and Charles P. Horan, assistant corporation counsels, also charges that the containers are insanitary and that their paraffin coating contaminates milk.

Controversy over the containers dates back four years when Fieldcrest first sought permission to use them. The present suit has been pending for months. The board of health has approved the containers, but the city council pigeon holed the matter pending Grossman's decision.

2,000 METHODIST LEADERS HARKEN TO CALL OF UNITY

Massmeeting at Decatur Asks Peace Prayer.

Decatur, Ill., Jan. 26 [Special].—More than 2,000 Methodist leaders of Illinois held a mass meeting in the First Methodist church of Decatur today as a part of the Methodist Advance program, a nation-wide movement to emphasize the wider reach of Methodism brought about by the unification of its three principal branches.

Methodist bishops in groups of three are visiting the larger cities throughout the country, preaching in all the areas of the various jurisdictions.

Special Train from Chicago.

Headed by Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf, resident area head, a special train brought nearly 200 Chicago Methodists. The visiting bishops were Ivan Lee Holt of Dallas, Tex.; William C. Martin of Omaha, Neb., and John C. Broomfield of St. Louis, Mo. The long-time objective of Methodist Advance was summarized by Dr. Aubrey S. Moore, superintendent of the Chicago home missionary society.

"The church in facing its new situation must bring all persons within its membership into unity with Christ," said Dr. Moore, reporting for the findings committee of the meeting. "The church, to make permanent its high objectives as called for by Methodist Advance, demands a rededication on the part of its ministers and laity. The church summons its members, in the face of war, to pray and work for peace to bind up the nation's wounds."

The delegates split after luncheon into forum groups which were addressed by the bishops individually. Bishop Waldorf was guest speaker at the delegates' banquet, and the evening sessions was a youth rally at which Bishop Martin spoke.

An Anonymous Gift.

Yesterday at this same church the Wesley Foundation corporation also met. Two important announcements were made. Dr. Paul Burt, director of the foundation at the University of Illinois, stated that all gifts up to $30,000 since Jan. 1, 1940, will be matched dollar for dollar by an anonymous donor.

Illinois Methodists are campaigning for $225,000 to retire the bonded indebtedness on the Wesley foundation at the University of Illinois.

BEWARE NOW OF EPIDEMIC COLDS!

Here's Some Good Time-Tested Advice

With folks all around suffering with contagious colds, be just as careful as you can—and you may avoid a lot of sickness, trouble and worry.

Follow these simple rules of health: Live normally. Avoid excesses. Eat simple food. Drink plenty of water. Keep elimination regular. Beware of wet feet and drafts. Take some exercise daily—preferably outdoors. Get plenty of rest and sleep.

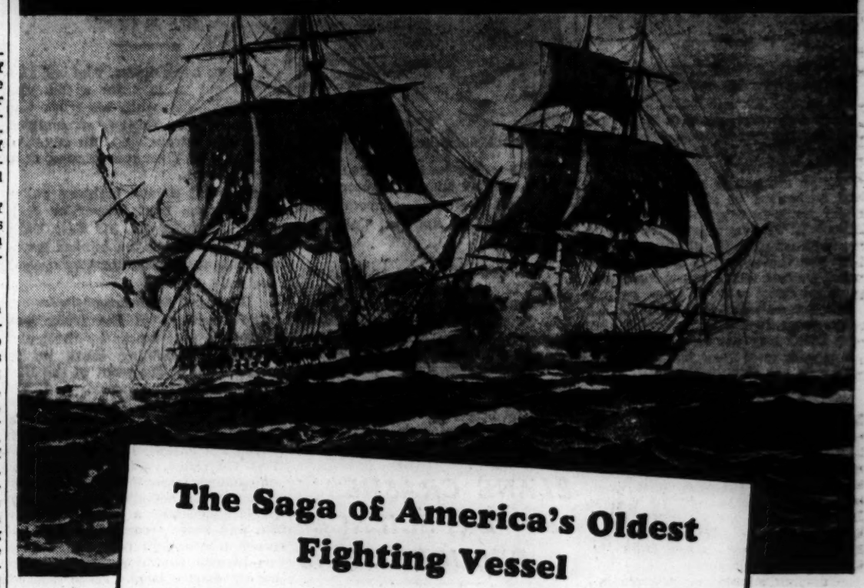
Then use these two time-tested treatments when needed.

AT THE FIRST SIGN OF A SNIFFLE, SNEEZE OR NASAL IRRITATION... put a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril right away. This helps to prevent many colds from developing, because Va-tro-nol is expressly designed to help Nature's own defenses against colds. (If a head cold causes stuffiness, you'll find that a few drops of Va-tro-nol helps clear the clogging mucus and makes breathing freer and easier.)

IF A CHEST COLD OR COUGHING COLD DEVELOPS (some colds get by all precautions) depend on Vicks VapoRub to relieve miseries. Rub VapoRub on throat, chest and back and cover with a warmed cloth. VapoRub acts to bring relief 2 ways at once. It stimulates surface of chest and back like a warming poultice. At the same time it releases helpful medicinal vapors that are breathed direct into the irritated air passages.

Both Va-tro-nol and VapoRub have been tested through years of use in millions of homes. When you use these two medicines you are not experimenting, you are not taking needless chances. Remember: If the condition of the cold fails to respond quickly to treatment—or if more serious trouble is indicated—call your family physician right away. In the meantime be prepared! Get a bottle of Vicks Va-tro-nol and a jar of Vicks VapoRub today.

Old Ironsides—the glory ship!



The Saga of America's Oldest Fighting Vessel

Long guns and carronades raked the U. S. frigate Constitution from stem to stern. A Yankee sailor saw how cannon balls bounced off her stout planking. "Huzza," he cried, "Her sides are made of iron!"

Thus, in the heat of a battle to the finish for American rights on the high seas, America's most famous fighting ship was named "Old Ironsides."

In the Color Graphic section of tomorrow's Chicago Sunday Tribune, John A. Menaugh will review the thrilling exploits of Old Ironsides' long and glorious career. Don't miss this exceptional feature—illustrated in full color in tomorrow's Color Graphic section.

The first instalment will come to you in tomorrow's Fiction section.

● Tommy Dorsey's own swing piano version of the musical hit, "Song of India," will be presented sheet-music size in tomorrow's Color Graphic section. To hear it played, tune in W-G-N at 2:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and follow the score as Harold Turner plays it.

THREE MASTERPIECES in full color

Michelangelo's "Madonna and Child with the Young St. John," Gentileschi's "Madonna and Child," and Fra Angelico's "The Christening of St. John" will be reproduced in full color directly from the originals in tomorrow's Roto Picture section. An article describing these works of art will appear in the Color Graphic section.

Each Foundling Is a Story of a Desperate Girl

BY IRENE STEYSKAL.

It's not lack of feeling, it's desperation behind the story of the baby abandoned on a doorstep.

That was the conviction expressed yesterday by a woman who has given a year's study to the individual problems of more than 4,000 unmarried mothers. The words were Mrs. Frances Higgins'. Mrs. Higgins is superintendent of the referral center which the United Charities opened last fall at 1744 West Arcade place, a center of information on agencies and services in the city to which unmarried girls facing motherhood may have recourse.

The center is organizing a city-wide educational campaign, the first step of which is the issuing of information bulletins on the new bureau to every hospital in the city.

Originally the center was intended, Mrs. Higgins explained, as a coördinating agency for the centralization of information on the city's facilities for the care of unmarried mothers and their babies and as a research bureau for the gathering of statistics. It resulted from a study made by the Council of Social Agencies. It operates on a special grant from the Community fund.

Mrs. Higgins spent a year studying cases, collecting data on maternity, foster, and convalescent homes, child placement agencies and related services before the center was opened. Forty-five agencies are registered with the bureau. Each is represented on the advisory committee.

Mrs. Higgins' records show that these institutions give aid to more than 2,000 girls annually. More than 75 per cent of the young women are less than 25 years old. More than 77 per cent are Chicago girls; 85 per cent are from Illinois. Mrs. Higgins estimates that before the birth of their children, 59.4 per cent expect to keep their babies, but less than 24 per cent ultimately are willing to give up their children.

The center's service was first made available to hospitals, welfare centers, doctors, ministers, and social workers. But since the bureau opened, increasing numbers of friendless girls —shamed, unsure of the future, many in desperate need of advice—have been bringing their problems directly to Mrs. Higgins.

There was one in her office yesterday who had returned in gratitude, a slight, pretty girl of high school age.

"I was half crazy, and I don't know yet what made me come here when my family threw me out. I was desperate enough to jump in the lake. Well, I've got a job, now, and no baby could be sweeter than mine even if the others do have fathers to acknowledge them. We'll manage, and make something of ourselves yet—just the two of us."

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

Specialists.

Hollywood, Cal., Jan. 26.—The specialists of Hollywood are many and varied. . . . The train-shaker is summoned whenever a studio films a train indoors. . . . In "Indianapolis Speedway," there was a scene showing Pat O'Brien, Gale Page and Frank McHugh inside a Pullman car on their way to the auto races.

Such scenes are filmed indoors in a studio-built train model, and the train-shaker's job is to give a realistic bumpy effect to the studio train ride by agitating a long wooden board as a lever under the train. . . . The train-shaker also doubles in brass and shakes canoes and automobiles, when there are no trains to be shook.

H. W. Koch is an old wallpaper specialist. His job is to supply the proper wallpaper for the period and locale depicted in a movie. For "The Old Maid," Koch had to locate patterns of wallpaper used in Philadelphia homes from 1861 to 1880. . . . For "Dodge City," he had to dig up patterns of wallpaper used in frontier towns in the 1870's, and for "Oklahoma Kid," he had to get samples of the gaudy wallpaper used in Oklahoma hotels in the 1890's.

The cigar-smoke manufacturer supplies the dense clouds of smoke always seen in pool rooms, gambling joints and newspaper offices on the screen. . . . The smoke doesn't come from the cigars the actors are smoking. . . . They could puff away until they were blue in the face without clouding up the atmosphere, because the scene is filmed on a huge sound stage the size of an armory.

In a fight scene like the one in "The Crowd Roars," a smoke manufacturer walks around beyond camera range, carrying a small bellows in one hand and a large flat paddle in the other. . . . The bellows contains chemical which produces a dense smoke. . . . As the smoke manufacturer blows the smoke from the bellows, he fans it into the scene with his paddle.

Movie water scenes call for a number of different specialists. . . . The water-rippler guarantees to make any kind of movement desired in a still pool of water. . . . He delicately agitates the water with a bamboo rake. . . . Wave-making is an entirely different branch of the profession. . . . The wave-maker is a specialist who moves a long, wide board back and forth and dips it in and out of the water, creating anything from a tiny wave to the kind that make you seasick on a ship.

Still another water specialist is the "water-disturber." Several of them were employed for the scene in "Juarez" where Maximilian and Carlotta land on the Mexican shore. The job was to create the effect of water gently lapping against the boat and the shore when the ship docked.

An expert fly-killer is needed on practically every set in Hollywood. A single fly can sometimes hold up production on a picture for hours and cost the studio thousands of dollars, because its buzzing, when picked up by the sensitive microphone, sounds like the motor of a bomber.

Consequently, a fly-killer is always present with his spray gun, ready to pounce on any fly that manages to get past the studio gateman. . . . Snow-making is a highly specialized profession, and there are only a few snow-makers in all of Hollywood. The snow-maker sits with a machine above the scene being filmed and grinds up blocks of ice and drops the flakes below. Most of the studios get their snow from the Consumers Ice company, which provides the machine, the ice and the snow-maker.

Snow-cleaning is a very important job in a studio, saving film companies a pretty penny each year. . . . The banks of loose snow which were seen in certain episodes in Bette Davis's "The Old Maid," were removed from the set when the picture was completed and taken to a spot on the back lot.

There, a snow-cleaner spent a week cleaning the snow—by screening it, much as gravel is screened, letting the dirt and broken corn flakes fall thru the mesh while the better "snow" was saved and resacked for use in future films.

The film-burner isn't a guy who hates movies. He's another fellow who saves studios money by consigning all waste film to the burning drums, where the silver on the film is reclaimed, bringing dollars back to the pockets of movie stockholders.

Tailwaggers are called in when mechanical animals are used in pictures, or when actors impersonate animals. In Mervyn Le Roy's "Wizard of Oz" Bert Lahr played a lion and expressed all emotions with his tail. . . . A specialist sat in the rafters and manipulated Lahr's tail with a fishing rod and reel.

Bill Butler makes his living by making rocking chairs groan, doors creak and springs squeak. . . . "Bake" Baker, on the other hand, earns his bread and butter by eliminating squeaks. Baker is summoned whenever a chair creaks or a door squeaks in a movie scene, because the sensitive microphone amplifies the creaks and squeaks and makes them sound like the goings-on in an auto repair shop.

Good Morning!

The "little man who wasn't there" is, paradoxically, very much present in this movie.

The original "invisible man" was, you'll recollect, Claude Rains — and reference is made to him in this picture. It presents another man, whose name I'll not reveal, who is enabled to clothe himself in invisibility thru the scientific assistance of a doctor friend, escape from the death cell on the eve of his hanging, and, as undiscernible to the naked eye as a breeze, wring confessions from and bring to justice those responsible for the crime of which he's been falsely accused.

This film's action is speedy, weird, and entertaining. Acting is excellent, so is direction, and the piece is decidedly suspenseful in spots.

It's no sight for children to see. [Also on the bill is the new Laurel and Hardy picture, "The Flying Deuces." The management will be glad to give you the time each feature goes on, if you care to telephone.]

See you tomorrow.

Miss Sue Vilas Is Engaged to Lowry Grulee

BY JUDITH CASS.

At a tea at home in Evanston yesterday afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Logan A. Vilas announced the engagement of their daughter, Sue, to Lowry Kennedy Grulee Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowry K. Grulee, also of Evanston. The wedding will take place in the early spring.

Miss Vilas, whose father always is called "Jack," has one brother, "Jack" Vilas Jr., whose wife is the former Miss Gloria Gartz, and one sister, Mrs. Ward Vilas of Miami, Fla. The former Ariel Vilas was not here for the announcement party, but she will come north for her sister's wedding.

Mr. Grulee is a graduate of Lawrenceville school and of Williams college. The marriage of one of his sisters, the former Esther Grulee, to Thomas C. White, took place late last spring, a short time before the Vilas-Gartz ceremony. Mr. Grulee's other sister, Louise, is a student at the Roycemore school.

Prenuptial Parties for Miss Lane Roby.

Three parties have been planned for Miss Lane Roby and Francis A. Hardy II, who are to be married next Saturday. This evening Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Hardy, the bridegroom's parents, are giving a reception and dance at their farm in Barrington. Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Little and their daughter, Miss Olivia, are giving a supper party tomorrow at their home in Evanston. Next Friday Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. Hardy Jr. and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Dawes will have a dinner, after the rehearsal, at the Dawes home in Winnetka.

The wedding will take place at 4:30 o'clock in St. Luke's procathedral with the Rev. Gerald Moore officiating. A small reception, for members of the families and intimate friends, will follow at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Paige Roby of Evanston.

Emerson House Party Tonight.

"What are you going to wear to the Emerson house party?" is a question that often has been repeated this week. The party, a benefit dinner-dance, is to be held tonight in the Harvey cafeteria at the Union station. It is called a Railroad ball, and the guests are asked to come in any costumes that have to do with railroads or traveling.

Some are planning to go as "train wrecks"; other as "railroad ties," and, of course, there will be numerous porters, engineers, etc. Many who are coming in from the suburbs on a special train will wear ski clothes. However simple one's costume, the committee in charge hopes that every one will wear some disguise.

The special train will leave from Lake Forest about 7:30 and stop in Glenview to take on Winnetka passengers at 7:40. The evening's entertainment is guaranteed to start promptly at 8 o'clock. Part of the

'Spike' Heel Is No Cureall for Tiny Girl

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We would address our remarks today to those young girls who erroneously believe that spike heels are the answer to the added height they covet. And there are many of them, it would seem, from reports of mothers. The arguments that go on in homes over this subject are frequent and lively. Sometimes the mother succeeds in winning the young girl over to the saner and nicer and smarter way of shoeing young feet. Sometimes she doesn't. The girl puts up such an argument about her being a "shrimp" and so on as to wear Mom down.

Why do you lovely, small girls feel you've been discriminated against with your short height?

You're movie fans, but not too observant ones, or perhaps we should say you don't read your fan magazines carefully or you'd have a better idea of your favorite's height.

You young ones are just plain shortsighted when you drill yourself into believing you have a liability in your measured inches. But our quarrel with you is that you so often make it a liability by getting yourself up on stilt heels with not an increase in height as you suppose, but with an old-woman collapse of body and bent-over, toddling carriage. As one observer remarked: "Watching that youngster walk in her spike heels made me think of my 80 year old grandmother. The jackknife collapse of the body and the feet handling are exactly alike."

Thru the LOOKING GLASS

End-of-the-week notes:

We can hardly bring ourselves to mention it, but the cosmetic manufacturers have "Gone with the Wind" on the brain as much as the movie press agents, the public and Mr. Selznick himself.

Colognes, perfumes, powder puffs, nail enamels and what have you are being borne in on that big breeze, all tied in in some way to Scarlett and Rhett's costumes, characters and the commotion in general.

We hate to hurt the feelings of the enterprising promoters but our latest allergy forbids detailed discussion of all these things. If you want anything in the G. W. the W. motif you'll find it easy to locate. Us, we're sitting this one out.

Speaking, this time seriously, of allergies, you might be interested, if you unfortunately have one or several, in an excellent book for the layman called "What's Your Allergy?" [Random House], by Dr. Laurence Farmer and George Hexter. Dr. Farmer is chief of the allergy clinic in an eastern hospital and in this book explains what those baffling things are and how they may be combated. It's fascinating reading and plenty helpful in understanding the dratted plague of idiosyncrasies.

Do you use one of those curlers to make your lashes turn up like a movie star's? A gal who uses one every day tells us she always runs hers under warm water to heat the metal slightly and curls the lashes while they're wet. She says it works much better.

We're sometimes asked by book lovers if there is a good product for cleaning leather bindings. We're glad to say that there is an excellent item made expressly for this purpose and that it is easy to apply and gets wonderful results. It is a cream and does not have an unpleasant odor. You dust the book carefully, apply the cleaner with a bit of cheesecloth, and allow it to dry for half an hour. Then polish the leather. You'll find the original luster is restored and that the book is satisfactorily cleaned.

Indiana U. President Says State Colleges Are as Free as Others

President Herman B. Wells of Indiana university declared last night that statements that state universities have less freedom of action than privately supported universities were "just so much hot air." He spoke at a dinner of Chicago alumni of Indiana at the La Salle hotel.

President Wells said that the general policies of a state university were conditioned by the citizens of a state whereas the general policies of a privately supported university are conditioned by its constituency.

The Streamline Is Safe in New Thin Woolens

BY REA SEEGER.

New and cozy wool petticoats are thin enough and sufficiently streamlined to satisfy the most exacting shopper. They are red affairs, made of challis wool and with a gay narrow plaid ribbon flounce.

These are the 1940 version of the old bulky red flannel underskirt, and what a difference! The challis is thin, cut in a flared outline, fits smoothly over the hipline, hugs the figure without a wrinkle and will keep the chilliest shopper immune to subzero temperatures.

Thin wool knitted panties probably are the most popular buys of the day . . . these, too, fit with emphasis on the streamlining. Flesh shades and a few dark colors appropriate for street clothes are particularly timely for immediate purchase as the price marks are surprisingly modest. Cold knees can be comforted with woolies too. . . . These are rather shapeless locking sheaths but give snug comfort when you put them on. These come in flesh shades and a natural color, and should be the answer for all the shivering souls who have to stay out of doors regardless of weather.

Knitted wool nightgowns and streamlined pajamas, both with long sleeves that are ribbed around the wristlines, come in pastel colors and flesh tones. Some have festive fringed collar edges, some are tied at the neckline with knitted strings and balls of wool and some are buttoned. . . . all of them are light in weight but the warmest, sanest things to be found.

Peace Returns in Met Dispute Over Director

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—All—or almost all—was quiet again today at the Metropolitan Opera house, for Conductor Erich Leinsdorf and Lauritz Melchior had shaken hands after differences that upset them and threatened to drive out Kirsten Flagstad indefinitly.

The affair did drive to a temporary hiding place Edward Johnson, Met. general manager, who had said it all was a "tempest in a teapot."

Melchior, leading Wagnerian tenor, had said the 27 year old conductor who succeeded the late Artur Bodanzky was a genius, but an immature one, and that his tempo often changed.

Flagstad, a top flight Wagnerian soprano, ill at her hotel, said Leinsdorf didn't offer the right cues and friends quoted her as saying she refused to appear in a Wagnerian opera so long as he conducted.

Melchior and the conductor have discussed their differences in a friendly chat and both said reports of the rift were "exaggerations caused by misquotations."

It was said also that Mme. Flagstad and Leinsdorf were slowly settling their squabble. Her next engagement with the Met. is for Feb. 6, in Hartford, Conn.

Women Boost Opera Fund to $138,000 Mark

Thus far $138,000 has been contributed to the $200,000 foundation fund necessary to continue the Chicago City Opera company. The amount was announced yesterday at a meeting and tea held at the home of Mrs. John A. Carpenter, chairman of the women's committee. The women raised $5,725 during the last week while the men raised only $200 during the same period.

SYNOPSIS.

On the eve of her marriage Cynthia Brentiford, fashion artist, is sentenced to 18 months in prison under the name of Clara Brown, an innocent accomplice in crime with Rory Clarke. Unaware of the disaster her fiancé, Michael Alloway, is on his way from Malta for the wedding. At Honebyker, Cynthia's childhood playmate, Bessie Stockley, is a prison wardress. Bessie manages to change places with Cynthia and let Cynthia have her two weeks' leave as wardress and marry Michael. After the honeymoon Cynthia persuades Michael to go back to Malta alone, pretending she has to have an operation and will join him later. Returning to prison, Cynthia discovers she is going to have a baby. Determined not to have her child born in prison, Cynthia escapes. In her flat she finds her sister-in-law, Marion, who has been worried about Cynthia's silence. Explaining everything as a lapse of memory, Cynthia goes to stay with Michael's people. Rory Clarke trails her there and blackmails her. Marion's suspicions are aroused. Anonymously Cynthia informs Scotland Yard where Rory Clarke can be captured. Clarke escapes, but the police trace Cynthia's phone call. Detective Stevens arrives to interview Cynthia and makes Marion even more suspicious. Gen. Sir William Merrowbridge offers to let Cynthia fly to Malta with him, but a detective demands her passport as she boards the plane.

INSTALLMENT XVIII.

ARRESTED!

The general displayed his passport. The officials glanced at it and thanked him. Cynthia was producing hers from her bag. The official looked at her more closely, then consulted a couple of photographs which he took from his pocket.

"I must ask you to step this way, madam."

"What is all this about?" demanded the general. "We haven't time to step anywhere."

The official produced a card. Cynthia, recognizing it, knew a cold despair.

"I'm a detective from Scotland Yard, sir."

"Indeed! But why should you badger me? You don't seem to be interfering with other people. Do you suggest that our passports are not in order?"

"I'm not concerned with you, sir. But I must ask this lady to come with me and I hope she'll come of her own free will without making any trouble."

Other passengers had gathered round and were listening with unfeigned interest.

"But why me?" demanded Cynthia desperately. "What's the matter with my passport?"

"Quite so," countered the general. "What the devil is wrong with this lady's passport?"

The detective again consulted his own photograph and studied Cynthia's profile especially, and then:

"I arrest this lady on suspicion of being the escaped convict, Clara Brown."

Not for an instant did it occur to Gen. Sir William Merrowbridge that this could be anything but a crass official blunder. Nor had he the least doubt that he would be able to rectify it himself. He brandished his passport.

"Now just have the goodness to listen to me. You saw my name on this, didn't you? I happen to be also a justice of the peace. Is it at all probable that I should be in the company of an escaped convict?"

"Quite so, sir, but—"

"Further, I have known this lady's husband since his birth—I am actually his godfather. And you suggest that she is an escaped convict? A lady who is virtually a kinswoman!"

The detective looked extremely uncomfortable, for there had come the beginning of doubt. The prison photograph with which he was equipped was not particularly like Cynthia full face. But it was sufficiently like her in profile, the description of height and figure was near enough to justify him in the eyes of his superiors for taking action.

The discipline of the force protects its members, knowing that they are human and make mistakes. But the discipline insists that once an arrest has been made it must be followed up.

"I'm sorry, sir, but I have to arrest this lady."

"Then you may arrest me, too," said the general.

Cynthia stifled a groan.

She had stood like a statue while Sir William was arguing. If there was any coherent thought in her mind at all, it was that she must take this bitter blow without whining. She had gambled and lost. . . . She touched the general on the arm.

"Sir William, please," she protested. "You'll miss the aeroplane and you'll be late for your conference. I should hate that. I—you can't do anything for me. Honestly."

The general's face grew fiery.

"Why, my dear girl, I'd never be able to look Michael in the face again if I left you in this jam!" He turned on the detective, seemed to be about to explode into fresh wrath, swallowed and said quite mildly: "Perhaps you'll be good enough to come with us while we get vouchers for these tickets?"

They set off for the booking office, the general ahead, the detective with a hand on Cynthia's arm. At any rate, she was not handcuffed; but the thought brought no consolation—flight was impossible. Everything was impossible now. She was finished.

A porter joined them, carrying her suitcase. Her eyes misted as she remembered the last thing she had stuffed into it—the woolly bear. The woolly bear and the silky fur coat—what ridiculous purchases for an escaped convict who might be dragged back to prison at any moment! But just two charming, spontaneous acquisitions for young Mrs. Alloway, on her way out to join her husband! Two ways of looking at the same things, and one of them wrong. But which?

Which? She straightened, and energy returned to her step. The detective's grasp upon her tightened. She glanced at the general. It was appalling to think what misery and bewilderment might await him. "Well, I won't think it," she resolved. "I'll think nothing except that I'm Michael's wife and on my way to him. And so far, anyway, Sir William's quite enjoying it."

He was. He hailed a taxi and boomed: "Scotland Yard" as tho it were he who had made the arrest and was proud of it. Arrived there, they wanted to leave him in a waiting-room and take Cynthia off somewhere; but he entirely refused.

"I don't suppose you intend to use physical violence against me," he vociferated. "Short of that, nothing will separate me from this lady until the mystery has been cleared up."

So they were both taken to Detective-Inspector Rason's room, Cynthia now holding herself as erect as the general.

Rason had made a reputation for his ability to handle unprecedented situations.

"At first glance, Sir William, it certainly looks as if a mistake has been made. But I think you will realize that when machinery has been set in motion here, we cannot stop it. Within a couple of hours it should be possible to settle the matter."

That was mere politeness. Rason by no means assumed that a mistake had been made. As he had mentioned to the chief superintendent on the previous day, he fully expected to find that "Clara Brown" was a society girl who had gone to cover. And he had expected to catch her if she were to attempt to leave the country. And here it was all happening. He rang a bell and a man appeared with a frame.

"Carry on," said the general magnanimously. "I will reserve my remarks until the end of your investigation."

"Mrs. Alloway, we will begin by asking you for your fingerprints. The fingerprints of 'Clara Brown' are, of course, filed here."

Cynthia's heart thudded. She had forgotten fingerprints.

"Messy!" ejaculated the general. "Devilish unpleasant thing to happen to you, my dear."

"I don't mind," Cynthia assured him from white lips. She could see no means of avoiding the process, tho the thought of it shook her badly. The general watched with disfavor.

"Messy!" he repeated. He looked 'round and out of the window. "But don't let it worry you. They don't often carry these mistakes far."

MEAT SOUP AND SOUP STOCKS: If you're having a meat soup you'll choose beef neck, shank, or knuckle bone; veal neck, shank, or breast; or, perhaps, lamb neck, shank, or breast. You'll cook the meat, whatever it is, at simmering temperature for several hours, and season it with salt, pepper, and a few herbs and spices.

Among herbs and spices most beloved by soup gourmets are allspice, bay leaf, celery salt, chives, cloves, mace, marjoram, parsley, paprika, onion salt, sweet basil, savory, and thyme.

"Brown stock" usually is made from beef, dredged with flour and browned in hot fat before cooking. Browning of the meat gives flavor and colors the stock enough to merit the name.

White stock is made from veal or chicken or a combination of the two. The meat isn't browned and the seasonings are light.

Lamb stock requires lean meat. Fat is discarded. Part of the meat is browned, as a rule. "Scotch" broth is lamb or mutton stock containing diced meat, barley, and vegetables.

Clear soups such as bouillon and consommé are clarified soup stocks.

Soup stock spoils readily, so should be cooled quickly after straining. Then it should be covered and kept in a cold place. The fat which forms a solid cake over the surface retards spoilage and shouldn't be removed until the stock is to be used.

Some cooks prepare soup stocks in large amounts and can it, so as to have it handy when recipes call for "one cup of white stock," or when a certain kind of meat soup is wanted.

NINE REASONS FOR MODERATELY LOW BROILING TEMPERATURE: The old high temperatures for broiling steaks are "out." Moderate heat is better, according to the home economics department of the National Live Stock and Meat board, because by moderate heat [1] the steaks will be uniformly cooked thruout, [2] there will be less shrinkage, [3] there will be a higher percentage of edible meat, [4] the steaks will be more tender and [5] more attractive, [6] there will be no charring of bone or fat, [7] less attention will be required, [8] there will be less smoking and [9] fuel consumption will be less, altho the cooking time is longer.

Frozen meats may be cooked without thawing, but will require more time. Thawing ahead of time often is advisable. Thawing in the refrigerator is a rather long process, but cooking losses are not as great as they would be if the meat were allowed to thaw at room temperature.

Frozen steaks, roasts, and chops are cooked exactly as are unfrozen ones, for the most part, except that more time needs to be allowed. It is best to follow directions given on the packages in which frozen meats are sold.

"33 Refrigerator Cakes" is a collection of Mary Meade's best icebox cakes. The booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; or it will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade.

Hull House Prepares for Golden Jubilee Celebration in May

Hull House will celebrate its 50th anniversary May 17 to 26, Miss Charlotte Carr, director, announced yesterday. The celebration also will commemorate the 5th anniversary of the death of Jane Addams, founder of the famous settlement house.

Tentative plans for the observance include a national conference on settlement work, a nation-wide broadcast by prominent "alumni" of Hull House.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen was reelected president and treasurer of Hull House at the annual luncheon meeting of the board of trustees yesterday at the Palmer House.

Tailored for School Life

FROCK IN JUNIOR SIZES.

Schoolgirls and co-eds particularly will like this tailored model, which may be made in one piece or in two. Plaids and stripes come into their own, as the sketch illustrates, either alone or in combination with plain colors. Buttons play a prominent rôle in the smartness of the blouse section, and the neckline may be collarless or have a shirtwaist type collar. Sleeves may be long or short.

Woolens, silks and cottons all make up well, and this is a simple pattern to use, which should be an inducement to mothers surveying with alarm the current state of daughter's school wardrobe!

Style No. 3164 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, and 17. Size 15 requires 3¾ yards of 39 inch material for long-sleeved dress; 1⅞ yards for separate short-sleeved blouse and 2⅛ yards for skirt.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Versatile Knitted Jacket

BY JEAN MACDONALD.

Here is what might be called an "all around" jacket. Sleeveless, it may be worn over a sports dress for summer. For winter wear and for the career girl who must be exposed to unpleasant office drafts, it affords a necessary protection, without interference with duty, and still maintains that "chic" which is synonymous with the business woman. It is a quick and simple knitting job. The instructions are available in 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

For instructions in knitting the sleeveless "all around" jacket, No. X-397, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Two Mothers and How They Rear Children

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

The surface car was crawling thru traffic. With a full day ahead I began mentally pushing it, when I realized that I must compose myself. So I looked around at the passengers for diversion.

Up forward sat a young mother next to her small boy. I was not near enough to hear their conversation, but I could see the two faces alight with interest as the mother answered the chubby pointing finger and eager question after question of her little son.

Across the aisle from me was another mother with a very little girl about the age of the boy. The mother was reading a movie magazine with a rather wild looking cover, interrupting herself every few minutes to snap, "Stop wiggling—sit still—don't keep asking me silling questions!" or "I don't know what makes it go, how should I know? What? Put your feet down. Keep quiet, can't you?"

Those two incidents illustrate a fundamental difference in attitude toward the very young child, at an age when his mind is eager and receptive, and his senses alert to a world he as yet knows so little about.

The aims of intelligent parents are contained in "A Mother's and Father's Litany." With your name and address send postage only for it. Address Mrs. Gladys Bevans, Chicago Tribune, Chicago.

Conversation Is Art Every Girl Should Acquire

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1940: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

It's getting just a bit tiresome to hear girls complain of escorts who care about nothing but their physical attractions. In too many cases the fault lies with the girl herself being such a social and intellectual flop that her boy friends can't find anything else of interest in her.

That's the opinion of Maria Gambarelli, charming prima ballerina of the Metropolitan Opera company. It's not enough, says Miss Gambarelli, for a girl to be pretty and amiable.

Every girl who wants to be more than one in a crowd ought to have three or four subjects on which she is better informed than most people, according to Miss Gambarelli, and at least one in which she can qualify—modestly, of course—as a kind of expert. That isn't as hard as it sounds.

Every one has special interests, subjects that fascinate her more than others, and it's a simple matter to cultivate them. Just keep them in mind when you're paging thru a magazine or newspaper, or when you're selecting a book at a library, and you'll see how your knowledge grows.

That doesn't mean, of course, that you have to make a heavy handed and obvious effort to turn every conversation to one of your specialties. You'll also be surprised how often talk will naturally turn to them, and how your widened scope will make you a more intelligent listener on other topics. Modern boys do respect a girl "with a brain" and seek the company of those they don't have to talk down to.

Certain forms of defense that require close partnership coöperation depend for their effectiveness on brilliant, almost clairvoyant, deductions from clews that are barely perceptible. If an inexperienced or an inexpert player misses these clews, he is not greatly to be censured, but there is no excuse for failing to interpret the simplest message conveyed in terms that can have only one meaning, a message such as the West player sent in today's hand.

The bidding.

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	1 heart	3 diamonds	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	5 diamonds	Pass
Pass	Pass

North should have bid one spade instead of three diamonds. The opportunity to show a four card major suit at a low level, rather than raise partner's minor suit bid, should be grasped whenever the responder's hand is merely reasonably strong, which is to say, not so strong that a game in partner's minor suit appears safe.

West selected the one opening lead that should have resulted in the defeat of the contract but his partner's subsequent obtuseness spoiled everything. He led the spade seven, dummy played the jack, East covered, and declarer's ace won.

Declarer "smelled" that the lead might nave been a singleton and attempted to get out a couple of rounds of trumps by playing the queen rather than the king of diamonds. But West hopped right up with the ace and, after a prolonged study of the dummy, made an inspired return—he underled the act of hearts! East put up the king, and was quite dazed to find himself holding the trick. [He probably felt that declarer had forgotten to put the ace on it.] At any rate, determined to guard his tenace position in spades [10-8 over dummy's nine spot] he craftily returned a trump, no doubt congratulating himself at exiting so cleverly. But it was all over! Declarer won and claimed the rest, since he could discard his only losing spade on dummy's fourth club.

West asked his partner, very gently, why he had not returned a spade, and East answered: "How could I tell you had a singleton?" West gulped and said nothing. He reflected that if his sequence of plays, first, leading a spade; second, jumping up with the ace on the first lead of trumps, and third, underplaying his long line of hearts to the ace without the knowledge that his partner had the king, did not mark him with a singleton spade, nothing short of a telegram could have been effective.

Be careful about your daintiness . . . use "Lysol" for feminine hygiene. Probably no other product is used by so many women for this purpose. Get "Lysol" at any drug counter. GRAVEL VOICED ANDY DEVINE TO APPEAR ON W-G-N

Comedian Is Feature for Tomorrow Evening.

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Andy Devine—all of his 269 pounds—is homesick for the great open spaces. The gravel voiced comedian was seized with an acute attack of nostalgia yesterday at the Chicago theater where he opened a personal appearance. As his notes rolled out across its vastness the reechoing sounds conjured up a vision of his [five acre] ranch in the valley at Van Nuys, Cal.

Even the western style "Penthouse" they rigged up for him in his dressing room didn't quite overcome Andy's yearning to be home with his bucolic neighbors, Lum and Abner, and his chickens and pigs.

Pinky Tomlin to Attend.

By nightfall Andy had pulled himself together sufficiently to give his attention to the special radio show he will do as guest on the first of the new "Fifth Row Center" series over W-G-N and the Mutual Broadcasting system from 5 to 5:30 o'clock Sunday night. Pinky Tomlin, the Oklahoma composer-author-actor, will be on hand for this show as well.

Andy will be right in his groove in a sketch Blair Walliser has written for him about life in Van Nuys, of which Andy is mayor. Van Nuys, the man with the crushed stone voice wants you to understand, now covers 212 square miles.

Will Sing New Song.

Pinky Tomlin, who also has a bucolic background [Oklahoma], doesn't intend to let any mountain music creep into his contributions. Pinky will sing his new ditty, "If It Wasn't for the Moon," and a medley of his older songs.

Harold Stokes and the W-G-N Dance orchestra are to do the musical backdrop.

[Note for Harold Stokes: Andy says no orchestra in the world can play in the key he sings!]

To Be Interviewed

(Story in adjoining column.)

Andy Devine, radio and screen comedian, who will be interviewed on W-G-N tomorrow. He is now appearing at a loop theater.

BYRD DISCOVERS ANTARCTIC PEAKS ON PLANE FLIGHT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd reported to the navy today the discovery of unknown mountain peaks in the vicinity of Marie Byrd land in the antarctic.

Admiral Byrd, leader of the government's antarctic expedition, said the mountains, spotted during a three hour plane flight, apparently bordered the northern coast of the area which Byrd first discovered from the air in 1929. The flight also revealed that Sulzberger bay is larger than previously charted and in effect, is an antarctic sea.

Admiral Byrd served as navigator in the flight of a twin motored seaplane, whose crew included also Aviation Chief Pilot Ashley Snow, of the navy, and Earle B. Perce, navy radioman who was co-pilot and radio operator.

DR. POULTER TO RETURN.

Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, designer of the mammoth snow cruiser now in the antarctic with the Byrd expedition, will return to the United States as soon as he is satisfied that the expedition is perfectly established.

This was announced yesterday by the Illinois Institute of Technology. Dr. Poulter is scientific director of the research foundation of the Armour Institute of Technology.

UNION IS UPHELD IN FIGHT AGAINST "CANNED" OPERA

New York, Jan. 25 (AP).—By a 3 to 2 decision, the appellate division of the New York state Supreme court today ruled that the musicians' and stage hands' unions should be permitted to use legal and peaceful means to oppose an opera company's use of "canned music."

The ruling reversed an order issued just a year ago by Supreme Court Justice Kenneth P. O'Brien which permanently enjoined the two unions from interfering with Opera-on-Tour, Inc., in a dispute over the use of amplified recorded music versus living musicians.

Opera-on-Tour, Inc., was designed to take popular priced opera to smaller cities and, instead of an orchestra, the accompaniment and some choral singing was produced from records.

The company opened at Richmond, Va., Nov. 4, 1938, and closed at Chapel Hill, N. C., on Nov. 22 after the stage hands walked out at the request of the musicians' union. The suit for an injunction then was filed.

BEWARE SELFISH THEORISTS, HEIL WARNS AMERICA

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP).—Gov. Julius P. Heil of Wisconsin warned tonight against discarding "proven and substantial policies that have made America a great nation."

Heil, speaking at a memorial dinner for the late Gov. Frank D. Fitzgerald of Michigan, said that at this time "untried theories of government are expounded by minds that are not always thinking for the public good."

"These are times," he said, "when selfish interests and the strong arm of dictators, in Europe and in our own land, are attempting to lay down rules of conduct that will not make for the welfare of our American democracy.

"America is a land where the people are the government. America is a land where the scepter of authority is not passed on from father to son—where even those in high office, thank heaven, cannot retain it indefinitely."

DIXIE GOVERNORS WEIGH ISSUES IN PUBLIC WELFARE

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 26 (AP).—The issue of states' rights kept bobbing up today as the southern governors' conference considered problems of public welfare and conservation.

Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma urged the gathering of more than 125 state officials to protest again against federal invasion of states' rights by opposing a bill before congress to permit federal regulation of oil production.

Earlier a group of men and women responsible for the administration of relief in 12 southeastern states backed a suggestion that the public welfare program should be administered by local governments while the bulk of finances are supplied by the federal government.

Eddie Albert, Movie Actor, Missing 18 Days in Mexico

Long Beach, Cal., Jan. 26 (AP).—Disappearance of Eddie Albert, 28 year old film player, from a village on the Mexican west coast 18 days ago, was disclosed tonight on the eve of a rescue expedition's departure. The actor vanished during a yacht cruise to Mazatlan, said Ganss Loper, member of the four man party. The actor's studio [Warner's] and his mother, Mrs. F. D. Heimberger of Minneapolis, were concerned over his absence. Albert came to Hollywood from the New York stage, where he played in "Brother Rat." He also appeared in the movie version of that play and three other films. He is unmarried.

GOVERNOR JAMES WARNS AGAINST SUPER-SNOOPING

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 26 (AP).—Pennsylvania's Republican governor, Arthur H. James, tonight urged revision of the federal social security law, which, he declared, under certain interpretation could be used "to cloak the manipulations of a band of supersnoopers." Speaking before the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, Gov. James declared:

"New Deal legislation last summer placed in the hands of the National Security board the authority under the construction placed upon it by certain employés of the board, to decide abitrarily and without court review the conditions under which any given state is to receive its share of national funds allotted for relief purposes."

The governor said that a threat has been made that the board proposes to "punish such states as it decides are not living up to its requirements," and asserted that, "if such action were taken, the victim states would immediately be deprived of all federal social security money."

BOLLER ELECTED POTENTATE OF MEDINAH TEMPLE

William N. Boller, president of the Boller Machine company, was elected illustrious potentate of Medinah temple at the annual meeting last night. He succeeds Joseph G. Rowley. Mr. Boller has been a Shriner for 25 years and a Mason for 32 years. He lives at 405 North Lombard avenue, Oak Park. Other officers elected are: James McVittie, chief rabban; Arthur Gullickson, assistant rabban; Charles Retterer, high priest and prophet; Fred B. Swanson, oriental guide; Arthur H. Vincent, treasurer, and Norman J. Kissick, recorder.

THE PRESIDENT'S TOPPER TAKES A TRIP—TO CLOSET

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 [Special].—President Roosevelt will keep his high silk topper in mothballs, except for extremely formal events, and use a soft black hat of the type popularized by Anthony Eden.

This was disclosed at the White House today after the President's appearance in a black Homburg at his birthday ball horse show at Fort Meyer, Va., last night.

The hat was the gift of Brig. Gen. Edwin M. Watson, White House secretary and military aid; Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntire, White House physician, and Capt. Daniel J. Callaghan, White House naval aid.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP).—The Chicago Blackhawks gained a 1 to 1 National Hockey league tie with the Detroit Red Wings tonight, and an hour before the game obtained the services of Jack Portland, one of the best defense men in the league, in a trade with the Boston Bruins.

Des Smith.

Portland went to the Hawks in a straight trade for Desmond Smith, defense man who went to the Chicago team as a rookie this season. Chicago and Boston officials denied any cash was involved. The Bruins are here to meet the Wings Sunday night, and the traded players joined their new mates as soon as the deal was completed. Portland was a big help to the Hawks thruout the game.

Portland All Around Star.

Portland, 27 years old and 6 feet 2 inches tall, is one of the fastest skaters and most consistent body checkers in the league, despite his weight, which was announced officially as 210 pounds, but which unbiased observers claim is nearer 230.

The new Blackhawk is an all around athlete, having competed as a track man with the Canadian Olympic team in the 1932 games in Los Angeles. He still holds the dominion high jump record of 6 feet 5 inches. Portland had his first league experience with the Montreal Canadiens in 1933-'34, going to the Bruins the following season.

The draw tonight enabled the Hawks to maintain their four point lead over the Red Wings in the league standing, while the Detroit team took sole possession of fifth place over the New York Americans.

Only Third Tie Game.

The Chicagoans had played only one tie game since the season opened until last night, getting a 3 to 3 draw in Toronto on Dec. 2 with the Maple Leafs. Last night they drew with the Bruins in Chicago, 2 to 2.

The Chicagoans, playing shorthanded much of the time because of eight penalties, took the lead in the second period when Bill Carse, left wing, caromed a shot off Goalie Cecil [Tiny] Thompson's skate at 15:56.

The second period was scoreless, but the Red Wings came back in the third period and, with their forward line of youngsters in action, tied the score when Connie Brown, left wing out of the amateur ranks just one year, slapped a rebound past Goalie Paul Goodman at 10:52. Byron [Butch] McDonald and Joe Fisher drew assists.

JOCKEY IS FINED AND SUSPENDED AT HIALEAH PARK

Miami, Fla., Jan. 26 (AP).—Jockey Albert Schmidl, whose mount, Mythical King, was disqualified after finishing first in the featured Opa Locka purse at Hialeah Park today, was suspended for the balance of the meeting, beginning Monday, and fined $200 by the stewards.

The stewards charged Schmidl with calling out to Don Meade, who rode Ambrose Light, to watch the rail when Jockey Paul Ryan, astride Inscoelda, was attempting to come thru on the inside around the bend. Schmidl forced Meade over and caused Inscoelda to be interfered with. Inscoelda was awarded first place on a disqualification.

"Somehow or other" the writer must send
The message expressing her thanks
For the wonderful tribute you paid in
"Old Maid"
To the thousands of those in the ranks.

Instead of the epithet so-called "Old Maid"
Can we not all think of a name,
One to express gratitude and respect
And their worth to the whole world proclaim?

Of the so-called "Old Maids" who brighten the world
With deeds of devotion and love,
To many a one may yet come the chance
For the happiness sent from above.

And shout a glad message sincere,
For where there is life there is always some hope—
1940, you know, is leap year.

And perhaps as we reach the end of its trail
And await the next year anew,
There'll be many a slip twixt the cup and the lip
When the old maids may be very few.

NOVICE BOXERS: GOLDEN GLOVES DEADLINE NEARS

Today Is Last Chance to Enter Tourney.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[ENTRY BLANK ON PAGE 19.]

One hundred and ninety-six amateur boxers, Chicago's first Golden Gloves aspirants to be called up for examination, passed the medical examiners' requirements with honors last night in Trafton's gymnasium. The list of successful candidates included nineteen who, because of previous Golden Gloves experience, were classed as Open division contestants. The rest were novices.

The novices who were approved and who satisfied the requirement that all contestants must have consent of their parents to enter, were assigned to sectional tournaments. Open division boxers were assigned to the Chicago championship tournament, which will be held in the Coliseum Feb. 20, 21, and 22. This is the only meet for experienced boxers and Chicago's eight champions will represent the city in the Tournament of Champions in the Stadium Feb. 25, 27, and 28, when 45 cities send their winners to Chicago.

Last Chance to Enter Novice Meet.

The Golden Gloves entry blank for inexperienced boxers is printed this morning for the last time. It is the final opportunity for amateur boxers, without experience, who live in Chicago and adjacent suburbs to enter the Novice meets which start next week. Examination for these boys will be held in Trafton's gymnasium next Wednesday evening. The C. Y. O. boxers will be examined Monday evening in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, 31 East Congress street.

The Golden Gloves entry blank, for Open division boxers, will be continued, however, until Feb. 4. This is the deadline for entering the Chicago championship tourney in the Coliseum. The final examination for these boxers will be held Feb. 9.

The schedule of the Novice tournaments follows:

West—Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street, Feb. 5, 6, 7.
South—White City, South Park avenue and 63d street, Feb. 6, 7, 8.
North—Loyola university gymnasium, Loyola avenue and Sheridan road, Feb. 13, 13, 14.

Veteran Tries Again.

Open division candidates who passed last night's test included Lou Michels of 1927 Howe street, welterweight; Morris Heary of 1705 Harrison street, heavyweight; Edward Manning of 4627 South Trumbull avenue, bantamweight; Wilbur Foster of 6643 South Union avenue, middleweight, and Hezzie Williams of 4433 South Dearborn street, light heavyweight.

Five clubs were represented in the open class—Savoy Athletic club, with seven boxers; Trafton's gymnasium, with three, and Polish Roman Catholic union, Hornet A. C., and Catholic Youth organization, with one each.

Michels, 34 years old and the father of two daughters, Darleen, 10, and Arleen, 9, will be competing in a Golden Gloves tournament for the seventh consecutive year. He advanced to the Tournament of Champions twice, in 1934 and 1935.

HANK GREENBERG SIGNS; WILL PLAY IN THE OUTFIELD

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP).—Hank Greenberg today signed his 1940 contract with the Detroit baseball club and will play in the outfield at the request of the management. This will leave first base open for Rudy York and enable the Tigers to put two powerful sluggers in the lineup. Terms of the contract were not announced, but Greenberg is one of baseball's highest salaried players.

"I am going to show every one I am a team player," said Greenberg, adding that at times he had been accused of being an individualist.

Another Step in Gloves Routine

Paul Staff and Ed Blohm pass out cards to boys reporting for the physical examinations. Golden Gloves entrants must be physically sound before they are permitted to compete. Golden Gloves competition will open on Feb. 5.

Chicago's Fighting Men

Lightweight Division Richest of All in Lore of Chicago Boxing History

[Chicagoland's greatest all-time fighters? This is the fourth of a series that will attempt to answer the question, tracing the topnotchers from the gay '90s to the present time and recalling some of the famous battles in the city's ring history.]

BY EDWARD PRELL.

Much of Chicago's boxing history revolves around the lightweight division, richest of all in ring lore and most significant in the legal batterings the sport has absorbed. It was a fake fight between Joe Gans and Terry McGovern that outlawed Chicago's boxing in 1900. Twenty-three years later another pair of lightweights, Champion Benny Leonard and Pinkie Mitchell, engaged in a battle that threw the game out of gear.

This same class produced two famous opposites—Oscar Battling Mathew Nelson and Patrick F. [Packey] McFarland. Nelson thrived by paying no heed to defense; McFarland became the most nearly invincible ringman of his day because enemy leather seldom touched him. The one, Nelson, went on to lightweight heights. McFarland, unwilling to risk his health by shedding a few pounds to make the lightweight limit, never won a title, altho he could have had the welterweight championship for the asking when it had no leader in 1913.

Later, when the memory of Nelson and McFarland dimmed, came Sammy Mandell, the Rockford Flash, and Barney Ross. Each held sway over the lightweights for long terms. Before and since there were other talented ones—Ray Miller, the southpaw puncher; Harry Dublinsky, Ross' persistent rival for years; Kid Herman, who fought Gans and the other greats in the early 1900s; Charley White, who met many champions and came close to relieving Leonard of his laurels; Joe Welling, Ever Hammer, and Joey Medill. More recently Davey Day and Pete Lello carried on the city's tradition as a hotbed for lightweights.

Gambler Cleaned Up Thousands on Gans-McGovern Fake.

Nelson was a preliminary boy and McFarland was only 12 years old when Gans, a frightened expression on his face, stepped into the ring at Tattersall's the night of Dec. 13, 1900. Gans had been the answer to the fans' cry for an opponent to stop McGovern's imposing winning streak. Terry had beaten Tommy White twice, had disposed of Patsy Haley and Billy Rotchford, each in a round; had knocked out Eddie Santry in five rounds, Turkey Point Smith in three, and had beaten George Dixon.

What the fans who jammed into the South Dearborn street arena didn't know was that a few days before the fight Gans and his manager, Al Herford of Baltimore, and Vernon Johns, a Chicago gambler, had made some sinister arrangements. Just before the boxers came into the ring

Notre Dame, Ind., Jan. 26 [Special].—Northwestern, which ran its early season basketball winning streak to five straight games against Notre Dame, Dec. 30, will have a chance to return the favor here tomorrow night.

After winning four straight and losing four straight—the last to Northwestern, 47 to 37—the Irish have compiled another four game winning chain, and they hope to add the fifth link tomorrow by upsetting the Wildcats. Northwestern has won 7 of its 10 starts to date.

History Favors Irish.

History is on Notre Dame's side, for seven of the home and home series in the last 12 years have been split. Of the last 25 games, 16 have been settled by 4 points or fewer, making the series one of the most bitterly contested in basketball.

The Irish starting lineup will carry only two men who started the Dec. 30 game. They are Eddie Riska, high scoring junior forward, and George Sobek, Hammond, Ind., sophomore, who has hit his stride in recent victories over Syracuse, Butler, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania. Riska scored 49 points in those four games and Sobek scored 46. Capt. Mark Ertel, who lost his starting post to Rex Ellis, has made 30 points in the last three games.

Seek to Stop Klein.

Bob Smith, Joliet, Ill., junior, and Don Smith, Spring Valley, Ill., senior, have replaced Gene Klier, Washington, Ind., senior, and Larry Ryan, Chicago junior, in the starting lineup, but each has played approximately the same amount of time.

Notre Dame's defensive plans will have to do mostly with trying to stop Dick Klein, brilliant sophomore center, who scored 21 points in the Dec. 30 game. Klein's 46 points in four Big Ten games rank him third in the conference.

OUTLINES NEW SYSTEM; POLLS MAJORS, MINORS

Would Revolutionize Game's Structure.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

K. M. Landis, commissioner, otherwise czar, of organized baseball, yesterday took another whack at baseball's farm systems as conducted by some of the major league clubs. In his latest action, a constructive proposal, Commissioner Landis seeks a rather utopian and revolutionary program he believes would eliminate many of the evils which recently caused him to crack down on the Detroit Tigers by freeing Benny McCoy and 90 other human chattels of the Tiger chain.

K. M. Landis.

On Jan. 14 Landis made the latest of his onslaughts on major league funny business anent juggling of minor league players in so-called cover up maneuvers. He did so under existent baseball laws. Yesterday's action suggests and urges new legislation. It is up to the major and minor leagues to accept or pigeonhole the new plan. The reform, if adopted, would do much to remove the slavery yelp that long has been leveled against baseball contractual processes, a criticism that has grown with the growth of the farm or chain store technique.

Magnates Study Plan.

Immediately upon circulation of the plan, Chicago baseball officials expressed unstinted approval of the suggestions it embodied. In other cities, especially those in which extensive farm systems are fostered under the present rules and loopholes, it was said officials were studying the document before voicing opinions.

Will Harridge, president of the American league, which includes several clubs which will be hardest hit in case new legislation along the Landis lines becomes an actuality, was among the first to applaud the commissioner's suggestions. Harridge adjudged the plan desirable, workable and practical but expressed the opinion it will take considerable time to bring about the planned reforms.

Wrigley Is Agreeable.

P. K. Wrigley, owner-president of the Cubs, who independently sought farm reforms in an unprecedented working agreement with the Milwaukee team a year ago, said he had not read the proposals carefully, but would support any rules that would simplify and improve baseball law.

Harry Grabiner, vice president and acting head of the White Sox, indorsed the proposal, saying he believed the suggested reforms would be helpful both to clubs in general and to all players.

A 2,000 Word Document.

Commissioner Landis is vacationing in Bellair, Fla., and the plan, expressed in some 2,000 words, was sent out from the commissioner's Chicago office by his secretary, Leslie O'Connor. Preceding the draft of the plan itself was the following, signed by Landis and addressed to all major and minor league clubs:

"The enclosed proposal submits a plan for major and minor league cooperation in the development and advancement of players, for establishing, as to players' acquisition, freedom of competition and equality of opportunity for all clubs, and for assistance to minor leagues. It is the result of long observation and study of these problems and seeks to safeguard and advance the legitimate rights and interests of clubs, leagues, players, and the public in baseball's operations. Please give it careful and thoro consideration, and let me have your views and suggestions as promptly as may be possible."

Cites Four Objectives.

After touching upon the processes of making the reform effective, the proposal proceeds in outline form, giving as the four major objectives:

1. To protect the interests of club owners by stimulating and preserving the competitive spirit and conditions essential to baseball's existence.

2. To promote the welfare of players and secure to them advancement in their profession for skill and expertness.

3. To warrant public confidence in baseball's integrity and methods.

4. Aid all minor league clubs in the securing of players and also financial aid to class B, C, and D clubs.

Among the suggestions to be readily appreciated by those familiar with the herding and maneuvering of players by clubs such as the Tigers, the St. Louis Cardinals, and the New York Yankees [who weren't named by Landis], were the following:

1. "It is proposed that the major and minor leagues coöperate in the acquisition, development, and advancement of players, employing for this purpose experienced officials and players to conduct baseball schools, try-

SPORTSMEN HEAR OF DUCKS' PLIGHT AND PLEDGE AID

Assure Food Supply for Starving Waterfowl.

Chicagoland duck hunters yesterday formed a new kind of "Red Cross" unit to save thousands of mallards which are freezing and starving along the Illinois river near La Salle-Peru. The plight of the stranded ducks was brought to the attention of more than 300 sportsmen who attended a meeting of the Ducks Unlimited organization in the Union League club, and a "pass the hat" suggestion brought several hundred dollars which will be used to buy feed for the ducks.

A member of Ducks Unlimited who attended the meeting, Dr. P. V. Hartman of Granville, Ill., brought six lean and frozen mallards to demonstrate the condition of more than 40,000 of these ducks which need food. The ducks were lured into staying along the river by the mild autumn weather. Then the recent cold spell covered their supplies of food and froze the sloughs on which they were staying.

Southern Migration Halted.

Weakened by the lack of food, the birds were unable to continue southward. Thousands already have died despite the individual efforts of downstate sportsmen and the state department of conservation.

Tom Main, Canadian manager of Ducks Unlimited, told the sportsmen about the work being done in the Canadian provinces to maintain and restore duck breeding areas. Thirty-four projects already have been completed and more are under way. The four main methods of maintaining the breeding grounds, Main explained, have been the building of dams, destruction of crows which destroy duck nests and attack ducklings, fencing of breeding areas in grazing territories to keep stock from nests, and the building of fire lanes and fire detection towers.

Pike Destroy Ducks.

The northern pike or pickerel [called jackfish in Canada] has been found to be one of the principal duck predators by Main and other conservationists employed by Ducks Unlimited.

A survey was made of many lakes in the duck breeding areas, and it was found that the average number of ducklings per brood was only 2.7 on lakes in which northern pike lived and 8.9 on lakes where there were few or none of these fish. Ducks Unlimited has done some work towards minimizing the damaging work of the northern pike.

Grand Circuit Dates Set for 1940 Season

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Dates for 15 weeks of trotting and pacing, six more than last year, were assigned by the stewards of the Grand Circuit at their annual meeting today.

Additions to the sports' major league include Narragansett Park at Pawtucket, R. I., which has taken over the two weeks heretofore assigned to Old Orchard, Me.; Anderson, Ind.; Mineola, N. Y.; Louisville, Ky., and Delaware, O. All except Narragansett are half mile tracks.

Hambletonian on Aug. 14.

There also will be two meetings at Indianapolis, the first opening the season the week of June 24 and the second early in September. With the week of Aug. 12 assigned to Goshen's mile track, W. H. Cane announced the $40,000 Hambletonian would be trotted Aug. 14.

The stewards also accepted the four trotting and as many pacing stakes, each worth $10,000, which are being sponsored by the Trotting Horse Club of America, and made use of the McNamara barrier compulsory. The barrier was first used at some of the tracks last year and did way with the usual long delays at the post.

Open at Indianapolis.

The dates [assigned by weeks]:

June 24, Indianapolis; July 1, Anderson, Ind.; July 8, Toledo; July 15, Goshen [Historic track]; July 22, Mineola, N. Y.; July 29, Narragansett Park, Pawtucket, R. I.; Aug. 5, Narragansett Park; Aug. 12, Goshen, N. Y., Good Time track; Aug. 19, Springfield, Ill.; Aug. 26, Syracuse, N. Y.; Sept. 2, Indianapolis; Sept. 9, Reading, Pa., and Louisville; Sept. 16, Delaware, O.; Sept. 23, Lexington, Ky.

Officers Elected.

E. Roland Harriman of New York was reëlected president; C. W. Phellis, Greenwich, Conn., first vice president; Cane, second vice president; Paul Bowser, Boston, third vice president, and Will Gahagan, Goshen, N. Y., secretary-treasurer.

Others present at the meeting were Frank Wiswall, executive vice president of the United States Trotting association; Dunbar Bostwick, New York; Gil Wetmore, Syracuse, N. Y.; John H. Gilbody, Boston, and John F. Davis, Toledo.

Joe Moriarity Retains City 3 Cushion Title

Columbus, O., Jan. 26 (AP).—Two North Carolina baseball players, Howard Wall, infielder from Mooresboro, and Harold Beal, catcher from Cherryville, were signed today by the Columbus Red Birds.

Hostak, Zale End Drill for Stadium Bout

Fans will have a last chance to compare the ability of Al Hostak, middleweight champion, and Tony Zale, No. 5 contender, in Trafton's gymnasium this afternoon when the rivals conclude boxing drills for a 10 round overweight bout in Chicago Stadium Monday. Prior to the postponement of the contest from Jan. 19 because of Zale's illness Hostak appeared to be in excellent form. During the last week, however, Zale's fine workouts as compared with Al's unimpressive drills has gained for Tony considerable backing.

Despite this Hostak remains a 1 to 4 favorite to win.

Druxman Speaks His Piece.

After Hostak worked out yesterday Nate Druxman, Seattle promoter who holds exclusive rights to Al's services, was asked whether he expected the champion to score his fourth straight knockout at the expense of Zale.

"I don't know if Al will stop Zale," Druxman said, "but I am sure he'll knock out Ceferino Garcia [recognized as champion by the New York commission] if they meet."

The National Boxing association, of which Illinois is a member, correctly recognizes Hostak as title holder.

Al Has a Punch.

Hostak scored a four round technical knockout over Solly Krieger in Seattle, Wash., last June 27, and followed up this achievement with knockouts over Charley Coates in Tacoma Oct. 26 and Eric Seelig in Cleveland Dec. 11. The Krieger match was for the title held by Solly.

Mike Jacobs, New York promoter, who has gone to Miami, Fla., to complete arrangements for a light heavyweight title bout between Champion Billy Conn and Gus Lesnevich Feb. 28, will return Tuesday to continue negotiations for a middleweight championship encounter between Hostak and Garcia. Jacobs, who conferred with Druxman in the Morrison hotel Thursday night, expects to attend the Hostak-Zale bout Monday.

Druxman Denies All.

Druxman last night denied a report from New York that Hostak and Garcia would be signed to meet in a middleweight championship bout in Madison Square Garden in March. The report was said to have come from Jacobs, who has the rights to Garcia's fights.

"There's not a chance in the world for Hostak to meet Garcia in the Garden," Druxman said. "Jacobs doesn't know what he's talking about if he made a statement of that kind. I'm only interested in a Hostak-Garcia match in Seattle because Seattle can outdraw New York as far as middleweights are concerned."

Jacobs Refuses Sanction.

Before departing for Miami Jacobs reiterated that he wouldn't sanction a proposed match betwen Henry Armstrong, welterweight title holder, and Garcia in Los Angeles Feb. 22 "under any circumstances." Garcia holds New York's middleweight title recognition and Armstrong is seeking this honor, but he demands that Ceferino weigh in at 151 pounds, nine less than the division limit.

Detroit Bowler Takes Lead in Petersen Tourney

Frank Zion, a member of the Ekhardt & Becker Brewing company bowling team of Detroit, took the lead in the Petersen singles classic by rolling an eight game total of 1,750 on the Archer-35th Recreation alleys last night.

Zion's total was seven pins higher than that scored by Eddie Zajac in winning the tourney last year. Only one of the 11 squads of 32 bowlers each rolled last night. Five more bowl today and five more tomorrow.

Zion opened with 264, then added 192, 204, 196, 268, 183, 247, and 196. Paul Krumske of the Pabst Blue Ribbons and other Chicago major teams rolled into second place with 1,711, and Leo Faetz of the Classic league's Monarch five took third with 1,662. In addition to gaining the lead in the event, Zion won $75 as top man on the tourney's first squad. Krumske won $50 as second high and Faetz $25 as third.

Zajac, whose first squad score stood up thru the tourney last year, again competed on the first squad and rolled into a 13th place tie with a 1,525 score. Other members of the first squad and their scores, all from Chicago or suburbs unless otherwise indicated:

Walter Genter, 1,626; William Spitalnick, Newark, N. J., 1,608; Walter Freitag, 1,605; Lloyd Strouse, 1,570; S. DIZZY SCORES AGAIN; GETS NEW CUB CONTRACT

Dizzy Dean will get what he wants from the Cubs this year, after all. Maybe not just the way he wanted it at first, but he'll get a better contract than the first one offered him, anyhow.

Dizzy, of his own volition, telephoned Phil K. Wrigley from Dallas, Tex., yesterday afternoon and unburdened his soul to the Cub owner. In effect, Dizzy told the boss—and heard the boss agree—that he [Dizzy] wanted only what he was worth from the Cubs; that if he came back and made good he expected to be paid for his efforts.

Owner Wrigley agreed. He told Diz he would make up a contract along those lines and mail it to him, and Diz promised to sign it. The new document will provide Dean with a nifty pay check if his work warrants it, but if the big right hander does no better this year than last year or the year before, he'll be paid about what he was offered in the first place—around $10,000.

The Cub owner also emphasized that the first contract tendered Dizzy, and which Dizzy fired right back twice, is still on Wrigley's desk and had not been sent out a third time to the pitcher. Now Dizzy will get a new pact to his own liking—and to the owner's, too.

CHARLESTON IS BEATEN, 37-34, BY TEACHERS' FIVE

National Ice Skating Meet Starts Today

La Crosse, Wis., Jan. 26 [Special].—More than two hundred skaters from all parts of the country held final workouts today in preparation for the speed skating championships of the United States, which will be held here tomorrow and Sunday. Fast ice has made the course ideal for record breaking attempts.

Keen interest was shown in the defending women's and men's champions, Miss Maddy Horn of Beaver Dam, Wis., and Ken Bartholomew of Minneapolis. Indications are that Miss Horn may turn in another grand slam set of victories, but Bartholomew is expected to encounter stern competition. Last year he won by only 10 points from Leo Freisinger of Chicago, who won the 440 yard dash and half-mile, while Eddie Schroeder, also of Chicago won the five mile event.

Vic Ronchetti, also of Chicago, 1938 national and North American champion, will have his supporters as will members of the United States' 1940 Olympic team. They are Bob Heckenbach, Freisinger, Schroeder, Al Kucera of Chicago; George Shimek of Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Charles Leighton of Minneapolis and Delbert Lamb of Milwaukee. Two New Yorkers, Ed Shannon of Utica and George Hare of Amsterdam, are other serious threats for Bartholomew's title.

A. A. U. INTERNAL ROW MARS PROUT TRACK PROGRAM

Boston, Mass., Jan. 26 (AP).—With every race listing nationally famous stars, despite considerable friction generated by an A. A. U.-Intra association dispute, officials of tomorrow's Prout memorial track meet passed tonight from the worried to the puzzled stage.

They debated the problem besetting Charlie Beetham, national 600 meter champion, who defied the Metropolitan A. A. U. to enter the Prout meet's 600 yard event without its travel permit.

Beetham has been threatened with suspension if he runs here tomorrow night, when the Metropolitan senior meet is being held in New York. If he fails to do so, Prout officials said, they would ask the National A. A. U. to blacklist him.

The 600 yard field includes such speedsters as Warren Breidenbach of Michigan, Roy Cochran of Indiana and Harold Cagle of Oklahoma.

BREAK IN BITTER COLD DUE DURING NEXT TWO DAYS

Southern States Suffer in Icy Blasts.

A break in the severe cold wave which has brought the city four subzero mornings this month was promised for today by Forecaster C. A. Donnell. He said the temperature today will rise to around 18 degrees and that tomorrow will be even warmer.

Yesterday's temperatures for Chicago ranged from a low of 1 degree below zero in the early morning hours to 14 above at 2 p. m. Since Jan. 1 the temperature deficiency has reached 215 degrees.

Hardships in the South.

Elsewhere thruout the country, particularly in the south and the Ohio valley, the cold wave brought severe hardships. In portions of the Ohio valley there was danger of an acute coal shortage. Coal men in Kentucky sought suspension of the five day work week to enable mines to operate six days a week.

A huge ice jam in the Ohio river stopped all traffic north of Memphis, Tenn., and caused water shortages in southern Indiana and Illinois. The gorge extends from above New Richmond, O., to Louisville, Ky. Engineers said the ice was not stopping the flow of water and that the water was not rising.

Without a water supply since Thursday, residents of Rosiclare and Elizabethtown in Hardin county managed late yesterday to fill their water reservoirs with the aid of a fire engine. The sudden fall of the Ohio river had left the intake pipe of the water works above the water level.

Fire Engine Pumps Water.

Workmen cut a hole thru the river ice, extended the intake pipe, and with the aid of the fire engine pumped water into the water mains of the two towns.

In Florida fruit growers were burning smudge pots in an effort to ward off losses from the unprecedented cold. Subfreezing temperatures and frost were forecast in all parts of the peninsula.

Snow fell for the first time in 23 years in Palatka in northeastern Florida.

HE'D RATHER STAY SINGLE THAN GET A HUGE FORTUNE

OKANAGAN FALLS, B. C., Jan. 26 [Canadian Press].—Maj. Hugh N. Fraser, rancher and heir to nearly $1,500,000, would rather remain single than marry to collect the money. He said today his father, John Burns Fraser, a former president of the Bank of Nova Scotia who died Nov. 2, left half his estate, valued at nearly $3,000,000, to Maj. Fraser, in trust until he married. If he dies a bachelor his share goes to his brother, Lt. Col. John D. Fraser, the other principal beneficiary.

Maj. Fraser, widely known as "the squire of Okanagan Falls," said he "will try and not marry," explaining he would receive the income from his share of the estate anyway.

URGE FIVE POINT MODERNIZATION PLAN FOR TAXES

Commerce Chamber Asks State Changes.

A five point modernization program for the state tax structure was adopted yesterday by the board of directors of the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. A campaign to enlist state-wide support for the proposed reforms will be launched soon. The proposals include:

1. Reduction of the number of local government units in the state, now estimated at more than 17,000.
2. Amendment of the state constitution to permit classification of real and personal property for the purpose of taxation.
3. More effective use of the present budget laws.
4. A uniform system of auditing accounts of the various governmental units and periodic audits of expenditures.
5. Revision of assessment methods to obtain more equitable valuations and a more uniform method of procedure.

No Class Benefited, Says Mount.

The program was drawn up by a committee including O. E. Mount, chairman; J. Paul Clayton, Attorney Walter F. Dodd, H. A. Hillmer of Freeport, and C. W. Bergquist. The committee met yesterday in the University club. William F. Gerdes, president of the group, will name a ways and means committee for devising methods of carrying out the program.

Mount, in a conference after adoption of the program, said that he thought all groups and public officials in the state should be willing to aid in furthering it. He said it contained nothing designed to help any single class and proposed no new taxes, but was designed to get rid of certain inequalities. Adoption of the program, he said, would mean a larger volume of taxes paid by more willing taxpayers.

The committee said the entire program could be effected by legislative action with the exception of classification of real and personal property for taxing purposes. This would require a constitutional amendment.

Point to Number of Taxing Bodies.

In amplifying the program, the committee asserted that most of the 17,000 local governing bodies in Illinois are too small for efficient performance of duty. Consolidation of many of them, the committee said, would mean more return for the taxpayer's money. Illinois, the report states, had more local taxing units than any other state and more than those contained in 10 states to the east and southeast combined. Indiana has less than one-tenth as many.

The report asserts that the constitutional requirement that all property be taxed uniformly on value is outmoded and incapable of enforcement. Full application to personal property, such as stocks and bonds, would amount to "virtual confiscation" over a short period of time, the report says. It adds that other property, such as household goods, agricultural and manufacturing equipment, automobiles, etc., should be classified so that taxation will be equitable and uniform.

Seek Budget Law Enforcement.

The budget law, requiring taxing bodies to prepare annual budgets and hold public hearings before setting the tax rate, should be enforced thru local demand, the report says. The law applies to at least 90 per cent of the state's taxing units, the committee said.

No audit at present is required of accounts of at least four out of five of the local tax units, the committee says. It suggests a uniform accounting system in charge of some state agency, perhaps the state tax commission, so that the $600,000,000 spent yearly by local bodies may be supervised properly.

In revising the assessment methods, the committee suggests that the county should be the assessing unit, rather than, as in most cases, the township, with a county review of the assessment, as there is at present, and the additional right of appeal to the state tax commission if the person assessed so desires.

All Roads Lead to Chicago for Road Builders

Chicago will be the road capital of the nation next week with the opening on Monday of the 1940 show and convention of the American Road Builders' association. Between 40,000 and 45,000 persons are expected to be here for the "$5,000,000 convention," which annually is one of the largest meetings held in the country. This will be the first time since 1927 that the organization will have met in Chicago.

M. D. Van Wagoner to preside.

Persons attending will include manufacturers of highway equipment and materials, road builders, public officials, educators, and thousands of others interested in highways and their development. Numerous associations having highway interests will meet here at the same time as the road builders.

Exhibits at Stockyards.

The show will be held at the International amphitheater and the business sessions of the organization will be held at the Stockyards Inn. Murray D. Van Wagoner, president of the association and Michigan state highway commissioner, will preside at the opening session. Mayor Kelly is scheduled to welcome the visitors.

Exhibits in the International amphitheater will cover more than an acre. They will include big machines weighing 70 to 80 tons and tiny precision instruments that measure in fractions of ounces. There will be giant pavers capable of laying miles of concrete every day; scrapers which can move a good sized piece of a mountain in one bite; huge shovels that can move tons of rock and dirt at a time for hour after hour.

Machines in Operation.

Some of the large machines will be in operation. Included in the exhibits will be working models that do the work of their huge originals on a small scale.

One of the largest of the machines is a 70 ton power shovel built by the Link-Belt Speeder corporation, a subsidiary of the Link-Belt company, Chicago. Equipped with a 2¼ yard bucket, it can be operated with the flip of a finger.

Business sessions will be held at the rate of five or six a day from Monday thru Friday. The exhibit will be open to the public on Friday.

Charles M. Upham, engineer-director of the association, who is in charge of the big show, said that during the last two years more progress has been made in the art of road building than in any preceding 10 year period.

"Now that the war in Europe has removed two of our principal rivals for South American trade," Upham said, "the United States is in a position to gain much in supplying our neighbors to the south with materials and equipment for highway construction. Efforts in this direction already are gaining momentum."

U. S. STEEL HITS FEDERAL PLAN OF PRICE SETTING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—The United States Steel corporation contended before the monopoly committee today that the federal trade commission's proposed alternatives for the basing point system in steel pricing would lead to local monopolies and high assembly and production costs instead of present widespread competition and low costs.

"This basing point practice was evolved over a period of more than half a century to meet fundamental economic conditions in the steel industry," said a statement to the committee. "Delivered prices result from the buyer's need to know the cost to him of steel delivered at his plant, since transportation charges from mill to consumer often are a substantial part of the value at place of consumption.

"The proposed alternative to the basing point method is a uniform f. o. b. mill price system. The effects of this system would be extremely complex, and are therefore largely speculative."

NEW KENTUCKY LAW TO LICENSE CHAINS IS PASSED

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 26 (AP).—Kentucky's legislature today enacted a new law licensing chain stores to replace an old statute invalidated by the state's highest court a few months ago.

Action was completed when the state senate approved the measure, backed by the administration of Gov. Keen Johnson, 32 to 1. The house previously had passed the bill 88 to 8. It now goes to the governor for signature.

Administration leaders estimated it would bring the state $160,000 a year in revenue. The measure imposes licenses ranging from $25 to $200 a year on chain units, figured on the number in the nation. If a chain had 500 stores in other states and 25 in Kentucky the basis of licensing would be on 525 units.

30,000 to See 1940 Creations for Women

More than 30,000 buyers of women's wear are expected to visit Chicago for the annual style shows by the Style Creators of Chicago. The shows will be held in the Stevens hotel Feb. 6, 7, and 8. The Chicago market covers much of the area from Pittsburgh, Pa., west, altho many Chicago companies also sell on the eastern seaboard.

Chicago annually is increasing its importance as a center for the manufacture of women's dresses and other clothing. In the five counties about the city which comprise the Chicago manufacturing area there are 160 establishments making such products. According to department of commerce reports these manufacturers do an annual business of $12,158,039 and pay out an annual wage of $5,747,615 to 6,997 employés. These figures are for the wholesale end of the business and do not include retail establishments.

Caters to Quality Products.

The Chicago market caters particularly to the higher quality and price product. It is estimated in the industry that while Chicago does 5 per cent of the nation's business in dresses which sell at the wholesale price, it gets from 20 to 25 per cent of the sales of dresses at a wholesale price above $12.75. The major strength of the city's garment industry lies within the $12 to $16 wholesale price range and a good business is done in the $29 to $89 price range.

Style experts say that one reason for this is that the middle west prefers a more elaborate type of dress. Chicago women are especially fond of costume suits, a kind of apparel made by dress houses rather than by coat and suit manufacturers. The Chicago manufacturers have become specialists in this field and are extending their influence about the country.

Paris Trends Watched.

Because of the higher prices demanded for the Chicago products, they are carefully designed, with the creators here keeping a close eye on the Paris and Hollywood trends. The Chicago method is to blend these influences with the tastes evidenced in the middle west market.

It often takes weeks or months for a particular style to appear in finished form once the original idea has been established. The shows which will be presented here for the buyers have been in preparation since fall.

NEW DAIRY GROUP FORMED TO PUSH USE OF PRODUCTS

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 26 (AP).—The American Dairy association was formed here today to promote a national advertising campaign for increasing consumption of dairy products.

The association will be incorporated in Illinois, with headquarters in Chicago. It will function as a parent organization to cooperate with state dairy industry groups and national dairy industry organizations. The plans call for raising $1,000,000 annually to finance the advertising campaign.

Officers of the new organization, who will serve temporarily pending the incorporation, are Dan T. Carlson, Willmar, president of the Minnesota dairy industries committee, president; Dr. Robert Prior, Seattle, Wash., vice president; E. S. Estel, Waterloo, Ia., secretary, and Bryce Landt, Wisconsin Dells, Wis., treasurer.

STORES' SALES IN WEEK TOTAL ABOVE YEAR AGO

Department store sales in the 7th [Chicago] federal reserve district climbed 0.2 per cent over 1939 levels during the week ended Jan. 20, the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago reported yesterday. Chicago sales increased 0.1 per cent during the period.

During the four weeks ended the same date, however, trade was 5.7 per cent over a year earlier, while Chicago department store sales advanced 7 per cent over 1939 levels. In the preceding week trade in the district was 4.9 per cent greater than in 1939 and Chicago sales were up 6.5 per cent.

Department store sales thruout the nation rose 4 per cent during the week and for the four week period were 5 per cent above last year.

WARNS GOVERNMENT INSURANCE SCHEMES JEOPARDIZE SAVINGS

New Orleans, La., Jan. 26 [Special].—Warning against federal invasion of the life insurance field, Charles J. Zimmerman, Chicago, president of the National Association of Life Underwriters, today declared that unfair government competition will jeopardize the savings of 64 million policy holders.

Zimmerman's remarks came at a one day sales congress attended by more than 400 life insurance salesmen from Louisiana, Mississippi, and Alabama. The meeting is sponsored by the New Orleans Association of Life Underwriters.

"Private enterprise, particularly life insurance, does not fear government competition if it is put on a fair and equal basis," he said. "But it is prepared to fight to the end against any invasion by either federal or state government into the field of life insurance which will endanger the savings of 64 million policy holders by unfairly subsidizing government insurance thru placing a further heavy burden on the already overburdened taxpayer."

ARGUE BENEFITS OF NEW AIR LINE FOR THE SOUTH

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—J. O. Monasterio, New Orleans banker, told the Civil Aeronautics authority examiners today a New Orleans-Kansas City air line would open new trade territory in Arkansas and Missouri for import-export business and the port of New Orleans.

A witness for Kansas City Southern Transport company, subsidiary of Kansas City Southern Railway company, Monasterio said there was no direct connection with Kansas City, where his firm did much business.

Kansas City Southern Transport seeks to operate an air line between Kansas City and New Orleans. Mid-Continent Airlines has made a similar application and Braniff Airlines wants to fly from Wichita to New Orleans.

Harvey Crouch, head of the Kansas City Southern railway and Arkansas Power and Light companies, said he believed a coördinated rail, bus and air line route would be more economical and better serve the public.

Brazil's economic history, her resources, industries, agriculture, and trade are outlined in this compact reference book. The compilation of statistics is based, according to the authors, on official source material.

The yearbook is for American business men and investors. The authors urge American capital and industry to consider Brazil for investment, as a market, and as a source for raw materials.

There is no explanation in the yearbook as to what group or government sponsored its publication. Brunk was former American vice consul in Brazil and Franklin, attaché of the Brazilian consulate general in New York.

BALDWIN WORKS' ORDERS FOR 1939 SET 10 YEAR HIGH

The Baldwin Locomotive Works reported yesterday that the dollar volume of orders received by the company and its subsidiaries, including the Midvale company, last year amounted to $66,477,053, the largest in the last decade. In 1938 orders totaled $25,432,907. The closest approach to the 1939 volume was in 1936, when orders totaling $46,900,726 were received.

Consolidated unfilled orders on Dec. 30 amounted to $44,215,799, compared with $13,401,321 on Jan. 1, 1939. The figures are without intercompany eliminations.

It was reported that about $28,000,000 in uncompleted engineering and construction work was on the books of the Stone & Webster Engineering corporation, a subsidiary of Stone & Webster, Inc., at the beginning of 1940, compared with about $20,000,000 a year earlier.

Court Told 'Sunkist' Is Not Exclusive California Term

The term "sunkist" is not limited exclusively to California, defense witnesses in the federal court of Judge Philip L. Sullivan said yesterday. The case was an action by the California Fruit Growers' exchange and the California Packing corporation to restrain Windsor Beverages, Ltd., of Chicago, from using the word "sunkist" on its labels. The plaintiff contended that the term always is associated with California fruit.

CHARGE EFFORT TO INTIMIDATE TREATIES' FOES

Jenkins Says Firms Fear to Testify.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—A Republican congressman's charge that many manufacturers would not testify against the reciprocal trade agreements program for fear of government "reprisals" caused a stormy interlude today in a congressional committee's hearing on proposed extension of the program.

Rep. Thomas Jenkins.

Representative Thomas Jenkins [R., Ohio], supported by other Republicans, made the accusation, and declared that Democratic members of the house ways and means committee were making "vicious attacks" on witnesses in an attempt to "confound" them.

Explaining his "reprisals" statement, Jenkins told newsmen later he meant that many business men feared the government would "investigate their tax records and confront them with any requests they had made to the government departments."

Objects to Questioning.

Jenkins' remarks followed the action of Representative Robertson [D., Va.], in questioning a witness, J. M. Wells, of East Liverpool, O., about statements he had made some years ago before the tariff commission.

Representative Crowther [R., N. Y.] joined Jenkins in the attack.

"It seems to me unfair that the member comments on and criticizes the witness," Crowther said.

Later, Representative Treadway [R., Mass.], senior minority member of the committee, took a hand in the attack. Like Jenkins, he criticized the activities of the majority clerks in furnishing the Democratic members with ammunition, particularly about past statements of the witnesses.

Assails Inquiry Methods.

"I don't object to information being brought out here," Treadway said, "but I do object when men sit behind our rostrum and have access to telephones reserved for members of the committee and are able to telephone downtown the names of witnesses and obtain information about testimony that they have previously given. I say it's an endeavor to disprove the merits of testimony fairly submitted to the committee."

Robertson denied subsequently he made any undue use of government "employés or agencies." He asserted the Republicans had made frequent use of the tariff commission's files in the past and reminded the committee that when the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill was under consideration in 1930, the Democrats were excluded from the committee's deliberations for two months and 10 days.

Oppose Extending Treaties.

Two representatives of the glass industry expressed opposition to extension of the program.

C. B. Roe, New York, president of the American Glassware association, told the committee that the Czecho-Slovakian treaty, which was in effective one year, caused a "distinct" disadvantage of the industry.

George Dougherty, Pittsburgh, representative of the National Pressed and Blown Glass association, complained that it was "not only inconsistent, but cruel" for the government to raise labor costs thru the wage hour, Walsh-Healey and Wagner acts, without raising tariffs enough to offset the disadvantages of lower labor costs abroad.

Week's Auto and Truck Production Put at 106,400

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 26 (AP).—Ward's reports estimated today that the nation's motor car factories this week will produce 106,400 cars and trucks, which it described as a "less than seasonal decline" from last week's 108,545 units. Assemblies for this week a year ago numbered 89,200. The survey said current production is at a record high level for this season and added that the gradual tapering off would continue thru most of February.

HEAVY REPLACEMENT SALES INCREASE 1939 SHIPMENTS OF TIRES

Bolstered by heavy replacement sales, shipments of automobile tires during 1939 reached their highest peak in 10 years, the Rubber Manufacturers' Association, Inc., reported yesterday.

Shipments last year, according to the report, totaled 56,975,044 units, 32.1 per cent over 1938. The association said that more than 69,000,000 casings were shipped in 1929.

Replacement units shipped last year were estimated at 37,536,608, a gain of 22.8 per cent over 1938, and the highest since 1931, while pneumatic casings in the hands of manufacturers Dec. 31 totaled 8,688,215 units, against 8,451,390 a year earlier.

Production and shipments of pneumatic casings compare as follows [in units]:

	Shipments.	Production.

Cudahy Plans to Cut Par of Common Stock

The Cudahy Packing company announced at its offices in Chicago yesterday that a special meeting of its stockholders had been called for March 6, and that the shareholders would be asked to approve a reduction in the par value of the common stock to $30 a share from $50.

The announcement said also that the board of directors proposed to eliminate certain intangible assets, as shown in the balance sheet as of Oct. 28, 1939, in the approximate amount of $1,340,000. The balance sheet for last Oct. 28 listed a reserve for depreciation of $10,121,190.

Depreciation in Question.

In making the report the auditors —Arthur Andersen & Co.—said in an attached auditors' certificate:

"We have not examined the fixed assets or depreciation reserve accounts for years prior to Oct. 29, 1938, but have made a general review of those accounts for the purpose of ascertaining the bases upon which they are stated.

"Based upon our review and upon a consideration of the aggregate charges made against the reserves in those years, it is our opinion that the reserves for depreciation are inadequate."

The balance sheet listed among the corporation's intangible assets $750,000 of advertising investment for a cleansing powder. Shown as an item in unamortized debt discount and expense was $588,942 applicable to refunded issues.

Correspond to Elimination.

These two entries total $1,338,942—about the same as the intangible assets of "approximately $1,340,000" mentioned in the announcement as being slated for elimination.

In announcing the proposal to reduce the par value of the common shares, the statement issued by the company said:

"No reduction is proposed in the par value of the preferred stock. The recommended reduction in the par value of the common is deemed advisable by the management for the reasons stated hereafter.

"An appraisal of substantially all of the fixed assets of the company and its subsidiaries is currently being made, for the purpose of determining the cost values of such assets and the proper amount of reserve for depreciation with respect thereof as of the close of business on Oct. 28, 1939.

Basis for Depreciation.

"The depreciation reserves will be based upon the expected useful life of such assets and the date of acquisition.

"On the basis of such appraisal, it is anticipated by the board of directors that it will reduce the net book value of the fixed assets in a substantial amount, to be determined at the completion of the appraisal.

"The board also is proposing to eliminate certain intangible assets as stated in the balance sheet as of Oct. 28, 1939, in the approximate amount of $1,340,000.

"If the stockholders consent to the recommendation of the board of directors and the adjustments are made, there will be remaining from the revaluation of the common stock a substantial capital surplus.

"The revaluation of fixed assets and the elimination of intangible assets will in no way change the number, amount or type of assets owned by the company or change in any way the character of the business presently carried on."

The special stockholders' meeting will be held in Portland, Me.

NATION'S RETAIL TRADE REDUCED BY WINTRY WAVE

New York, Jan. 26, (AP).—Sub-zero temperatures and heavy snows kept many potential buyers from retail stores this week, Dun & Bradstreet said today in a survey. Altho retail trade for the nation was estimated at 3 to 6 per cent more than a year ago, volume was spotty and on the whole only fair.

"In many cities," the Review said, "the heavy movement of winter merchandise failed to offset the slack in other lines, and the number of centers reporting lower sales totals than a year ago was the largest in some weeks.

"Freak weather gave an unusual twist to regional showings. Sections of the south and southwest, blanketed by heavy snows, reported a boom in sales of sweaters, fur trimmed coats, blankets, electric heaters, and galoshes, but total trade was not more than equal to a year ago in the southwest and was less than 5 per cent ahead in the south."

MEXICAN SEIZURE OF BIG AMERICAN RANCH REPORTED

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Jan. 26 (AP).—Attorney Maurice Minchen said today he had received notice that the Mexican government had confiscated the American owned $5,000,000 Palomas ranch, which is about 70 miles along the New Mexico state border in Chihuahua, Mexico.

He said Marshall Stephenson of Columbus, N. M., was one of the principal owners of the 2,000,000 acre property. Minchen said the seizure was made at the instance of labor agitators in Juarez and was under the constitutional provision revising old land titles. He said that James Garfield of Cleveland, O., was expected to open a court fight for the property next month.

United States Ambassador Josephus Daniels said he had not heard of the seizure.

ARMOUR FIRST QUARTER BEST IN 'LONG TIME'

Eastwood Says Year Is Starting Well.

Operations of Armour & Co. in the first quarter of its 1940 fiscal year will be the best "in a long time," George A. Eastwood, president, told stockholders yesterday at the big meat packing concern's annual meeting. Eastwood said that heavy inventory losses, which were usual during the first quarter of the company's year, had been avoided.

George A. Eastwood.

The company previously reported a profit of $7,012,057 in the fiscal year ended last Oct. 28. All officers were reëlected at the directors' meeting following the annual meeting. Eastwood, who was not formerly a director, was elected to membership on the board at the stockholders' meeting. Six other directors were reëlected.

Delay Electing Chairman.

Previously it had been reported that Frederick H. Prince, chairman of the board, might not be a candidate for reelection to that position. However, it was decided to take no action on the chairmanship at this time. Prince, Boston industrialist, has spent much of his time in Europe recently. He was unable to attend the meeting yesterday due to illness. He is 80 years old.

Harvey G. Ellard, for the last nine years director of personnel for Armour & Co., was elected a vice president. He has been associated with the company for 33 years.

All indications point to a substantial increase in tonnage in 1940, Eastwood told stockholders. He reported that the number of hogs dressed under federal inspection in November was 13 per cent higher than a year earlier. In December the increase was 20 per cent, and preliminary estimates for January indicate an increase of 30 per cent, he said.

Receipts About Average.

Stating that larger volume reduced the unit cost of production, Eastwood said hog receipts at principal markets thruout the country in the last three months have been about equal to the 1929-1933 average—"before we felt the full effect of the government slaughtering programs and the disastrous drouths later in the decade."

Eastwood said a settlement had been effected with the government covering certain tax claims, and that most of an $8,146,128 reserve fund had thus been released for other corporate purposes.

When questioned by a stockholder as to the amount paid the government, Eastwood said that it was "comparatively small."

Another stockholder wanted to know how much money Armour & Co. owed the Reconstruction Finance corporation. Charles J. Faulyner, the company's general counsel, said: "We were dealing with the RFC at one time, but nothing came of it."

Questioned About Board.

One stockholder expressed the opinion that the board of directors was "overweighted with lawyers, bankers, and financiers," and wanted to know "how Elisha Walker can help the company."

Eastwood answered that Walker had been a valuable member of the board and had devoted much time to company affairs.

Directors named John Potts Barnes, who has been with Armour & Co. five years, the new assistant general counsel. Walter C. Kirk was named general attorney. He has been with the company 35 years.

FRIGIDAIRE CUTS RETAIL PRICE OF 1940 MODELS

Dayton, O., Jan. 26 [Special].—A sharp reduction in retail prices of 1940 models of Frigidaire household refrigerators was announced here today by officials of Frigidaire division of General Motors corporation. The prices become effective at once.

Frigidaire also announced two additions to the 1940 line. One of them was said to be priced $35 under any comparable Frigidaire model of last year in the six cubic foot class. Every refrigerator in the company's household line is subject to the price reduction, it was said.

Officials said that further details of the price reduction will be announced thru a series of nation-wide newspaper advertisments.

China to Seek New Loan from U.S., Says Ambassador

Washington, D. C., Jan. 26 (AP).—Ambassador Hu Shih said today the Chinese were biding time but at the proper moment hoped to present to the United States government a request for additional credit. Dr. Shih came to the White House with Dr. W. W. Yen, former ambassador, who paid his respects to President Roosevelt before leaving the United States.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Stocks.

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Quiet strength appeared here and there in today's stock market, but many issues slid to lower territory.

Bethlehem Steel's better than expected December quarter earnings figures lifted the company's 5 and 7 per cent preferred shares 1 to 2 points to new 1939-'40 peaks. Cluett Peabody also registered a new top. Elsewhere, however, gains ran to fractions and, in many cases, were reduced or transformed into minor losses at the close.

Aircrafts were ahead of most other groups, and motors, mail orders and an assortment of specialties managed to finish on the upside. Most coppers, rubbers and rails failed to get anywhere.

There were hopeful items in the news, but just as many that tended to promote skepticism regarding any real nearby market recovery. Wall street seemed principally interested in politics and the coming election. The apparent inability to gauge results was said to have contributed to the wariness of traders.

United States Steel and Bethlehem common slipped at the last despite the best last quarter's showing made by the latter corporation in 10 years. Thoughts of falling production and new orders in this industry could not be erased.

Improved outlook for warplane purchases buoyed the aviations. Progress was recorded by shares of Douglas, United Aircraft, Glenn Martin, Sperry and Lockheed. Heavy passenger traffic boosted Eastern Air Lines and American Airlines.

New York Bonds.

New York, Jan. 26 (AP).—Bond prices generally slipped slightly today as traders shopped selectively. A few utilities which earlier in the week were battered by rumors of court proceedings, gained in fairly active buying, but averages in all classifications ended fractionally lower.

Among the issues which attracted most interest were Utility Power and Light 5s, up 1¼ at 90, and Commonwealth Edison convertible 3¼s, up ⅜ at 127½.

Receiving an upward push on active trading were Bethlehem Steel 3½s and 3¾s, which rose fractionally to 106 and 105⅛ respectively on the basis of the favorable earnings report of yesterday.

Latin American issues continued to show moderate gains, while the rest of the foreign list slipped somewhat. United States government loans tended somewhat lower, closing as much as 15-32 point down.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading volume shrank against yesterday on the Chicago Stock exchange. As on Thursday, prices failed to establish a definite trend.

Bank Stocks.

First National shares, which advanced sharply earlier this week, forged ahead another point in bank stock trading yesterday to a bid of 247. Continental Illinois gained half a point to 90½. Other issues were steady.

WHEAT AND RYE TURN FIRMER ON EVENTS ABROAD

Finland Is Expected to Buy More Grain.

Less favorable political news from Europe, a further demand for American rye for shipment to Finland and continued cold weather in the winter wheat belt were responsible for somewhat higher prices yesterday.

Rye futures on the Chicago Board of Trade advanced 1 cent a bushel in the early trading on buying attributed to cash interests. Finland was said to be inquiring for 400,000 bushels of rye, following purchases of a like amount on Thursday. The grain will be shipped in bags.

Closing trades on rye were unchanged to ¾ cent higher, with the May delivery leading. Wheat was unchanged to ¼ cent higher and corn closed unchanged. May wheat sold at 97⅞ cents early, equalling the lowest price since early in December.

Doubt Damage to Wheat.

Little apprehension was expressed by crop experts regarding the condition of the winter wheat crop. Temperatures have been below freezing in practically all the main producing areas for about three weeks and there has been little or no damage from alternate freezing and thawing, they said.

There were reports that Russia may turn to the United States as a source of supplies of wheat for shipment to Vladivostok. It is estimated 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 bushels will have to be purchased either from this country, Australia or Argentina.

It was announced yesterday that Canadian authorities had refused clearance papers for four United States steamers which had been chartered to load wheat at Vancouver for shipment to the Siberian port.

Debate Closing Winnipeg Exchange.

Uneasiness as to the status of the Winnipeg grain exchange is voiced by Canadian interests as the result of the unexpected call for a general election in that country. It is said the question of closing the exchange for the duration of the war may become a major political issue. The British Cereal Control board is said to favor closing the exchange.

The foreign demand for domestic corn is reported to have declined after a large business early in the week. Denmark is said to have paid 71½ cents a bushel for American corn on Thursday, free on board steamer at an Atlantic port.

PROFITS HIGHER FOR NORTHWEST BANCORPORATION

Company Holds Stocks in About 90 Banks.

Northwest Bancorporation, which controls about 90 banks and trust companies in seven northwestern states, earned more in 1939 than in 1938, J. C. Thomson, president, announced yesterday in his annual report.

Consolidated net income was $2,458,797, equal to $1.57 a share on 1,559,831 shares, compared with $1,972,111, or $1.26 each on 1,560,878 shares, in 1938. The figures include profit on securities sold and allowances for preferred dividends, interest on capital debentures, minority interests, and provisions for losses and depreciation.

Consolidated Earnings Compared.

Consolidated net earnings from current operations were $3,385,774, against $2,602,800 in the preceding year, and profit on securities was $463,195, against $751,181. Most of the consolidated net income was retained by the company's affiliates in the form of additions to their capital structures, Thomson said.

The holding company itself had net income of $730,682, consisting of dividends received from the affiliates. This compared with $619,037 received in dividends in 1938. A dividend of 10 cents a share, totaling $155,991, was paid by the holding company in 1939. No dividends were paid in 1938, the last payment being 15 cents a share on Jan. 1, 1933.

Book Value of Stock Rises.

Capital and surplus last Dec. 31 was $32,896,173, indicating a book value of $21.09 a share, compared with $18.80 a year earlier, the report showed.

Thomson said loans and discounts at the end of 1939 had risen to $147,010,194, from $118,767,609 a year earlier, and consolidated deposits increased to $421,483,431, from $384,739,131 at the end of 1938.

Northwest Bancorporation and affiliated banks held $169,264,318 of bonds and other securities at the year-end, against $162,691,820 a year earlier, Thomson's report showed.

La Guardia Demands Full Delivery of N. Y. Fuel Oil

New York, Jan. 26. (AP)—Declaring that the good will of consumers in New York City is worth more than war inflated prices, abroad, Mayor Fiorello H. La Guardia has informed seven major fuel oil corporations that he will not tolerate subnormal delivery. He said tanks thruout the city are running low. "Home owners, apartment houses, factories, and public buildings all over the city using oil as fuel have protested to me and sought aid in obtaining normal supply," he said in telegrams to oil companies.

SHORT ODD LOT.

Can short sales be made in odd lots? What are the costs and the deposit required on a short sale of odd lots?—M. M.

Answer: Short sales of an odd lot (generally 1 to 99 shares) are relatively rare. They are transacted in the same manner as any odd lot deal, except that the stockbroker must borrow for the customer the shares to be delivered to the odd lot dealer on the short sale. In any short sale, whether full or odd lot, the customer sells stock which he does not own actually, but which he has borrowed temporarily.

The minimum margin required for deposit against a short sale is 50 per cent of the sale's price, or 10 per cent more than in an ordinary purchase of stock. The broker turns over the total proceeds of the short sale to the lender of the stock as security for the loan of stock.

The customer in making the short sale of an odd lot pays the following: the usual commission to the stockbroker, the odd lot fee, which is generally ¼ point a share, the federal transfer tax on the sale, the New York transfer tax if the trade is made in New York state, and the federal tax on borrowing the stock [which amounts to 4 cents per $100 par value or 4 cents per share of no par stock.]

NEW LISTING.

I see that the common and preferred stocks of the American Investment company of Illinois are now listed on the "big board." What business is the company in?—C. D.

Answer: The American Investment company of Illinois operates a personal loan business in the middle west and New England.

FACTORING.

What is "factoring," which is usually associated with the textile industry and especially cotton goods?—S. F.

Answer: Factoring is a type of industrial banking which provides cash to manufacturers usually in the textile industry. The factor in the 19th century was essentially a selling agent for textile mills who underwrote the sale of their goods. Often the factor loaned money to the mills on goods as security.

Factoring today has expanded into other industries and has become associated more with financing than with selling. The factor buys accounts receivable from manufacturers at a discount [relieving them of the trouble of credit investigation and of making collections] and provides them with necessary working capital.

In some instances the factor may buy goods directly from the manufacturer, advance cash up to 75 per cent of the production cost of the goods, or indorse the manufacturer's notes, which are then sold to commercial banks. The factor generally charges from 1 to 4 per cent commission for his work, depending on the risk involved.

COLD WAVE SENDS OLD CROP BUTTER TO 2 YEAR PEAK

March Contracts Rise to 31 Cents.

Advancing to new two-year peaks in late trading on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, old crop butter contracts closed yesterday with gains ranging to 0.7 cent a pound. Major factors in the gain, traders said, were the near-zero cold gripping the midwest and a strong demand for cash quantities.

The current delivery advanced 0.55 cent to a bid of 31.3 cents a pound, while February contracts were up 0.6 cent to 31.55. March made the major gain of 0.7 cent to 31 cents a pound, while November contracts, which call for delivery from 1940 production, moved counter to the market, declining 0.25 cent to 27.5.

All Grades Increase.

In the local wholesale market prices extended recent gains to 1¼ to 2 cents on advances of ½ cent, which lifted all grades to the best levels since February, 1938.

Current refrigerator egg contracts, which collapsed Thursday following a rise of 9.2 cents a dozen in the last four weeks, recovered 1.45 cents over night and closed the session yesterday with a net gain of 1.65 cents at 21.7.

Other Deliveries Unchanged.

February firsts, which also relapsed in the previous day's trading, recovered 0.4 cent yesterday to close at 19.4 cents a dozen. Other deliveries were nominally unchanged.

Traders also coupled cold weather with a good cash market as the reasons for the upturn in egg futures. A forecast of continued low temperatures thru today, they said, influenced the movement of the contracts.

COTTON

Cotton fluctuated in an erratic manner yesterday within a moderate range. Trading was light and the market was easily influenced. A holiday in Bombay, India, failed to check selling by speculators in the latter market during the early trading, but mill buying became more aggressive later and prices turned upward. The close was about the top with gains of .03 to .15 cent a pound.

Hedging pressure against South American cotton had a depressing effect on Liverpool. The May delivery in New York late Thursday went to a premium of $1.50 a bale as compared with the April-May future in Bombay, which started with a discount of about $10 a bale a few weeks ago.

Unless additional funds are provided by congress, the department of agriculture is expected to abandon its program of subsidizing exports of American cotton.

Spot cotton closed .02 to .07 cent higher with New York at 10.91 cents; New Orleans, 10.62 cents, and Galveston and Houston at 10.48 cents a pound. Prices follow:

Shopping District Parley Studies Census Difficulties

Representatives of more than 50 neighborhood shopping districts and officers of leading trade organizations met yesterday in the La Salle hotel to discuss difficulties encountered in the collection of facts for the 1940 census. The meeting was called by Ralph Lee Goodman, chairman of the business research committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. "Final findings brought forth by the census will be one of the most important guides for business men and city officials in planning their community development programs during the next decade," Goodman said in calling the meeting.
